ELEVEN NEUMANN JURORS CHOSEN

Mr. Borah Sees Chaos
Airplane Versus Mosquito
A Nation on Wheels
Champion Corn Husker

By Arthur Brisbane

SENATOR BORAH, regretting the defeat of his "very dear friend, Mrs. McCormick," in Illinois, thinks parties are losing their hold, expects "chaos in 1932," and thinks the recent election showed a drift from prohibition.

He is still a faithful dry, but says the question to be settled now is not one of modification or light wines and beer, but a question of repealing the amendment.

W. C. T. U. ladies, meeting at Houston, Tex., have no misgivings about prohibition's future. Their meeting broke up in a frenzy of joy when they heard that the Wickersham-Hoover prohibition commission would reject any suggestion of repeal and reject even four per cent beer.

The Wickersham commission does not make laws, and can only talk. But the W. C. T. U. ladies rejoice with good reason.

Any actual change in prohibition is probably far away.

The best that we can hope for is ignoring of the law, in wet cities with abundance of bootleg poison at high prices.

Experiments by Dr. Ginsberg, of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, show that mosquitoes in breeding places, hitherto inaccessible, can be attacked and destroyed by airplane.

The pilot, flying low over the breeding swamps, spreads a spray of poison powder that destroys the new mosquito before it starts flying.

The invention of railroad trains spread mosquitoes all over the United States.

The airplane invention may remedy the evil.

It should be used on the marshes around Venice, and doubtless, Mussolini will see to it. Whoever has visited Venice in summer really knows mosquitos.

This is really a nation on wheels. The number of motors actually registered in the United States is 26,500,000, and the number of licensed automobile drivers is 32,000,000, more than one for each automobile. The figures show there can be no "saturation point" on automobile construction.

If every automobile lasted five years, which it does not, because of rough usage, there would still be required more than 5,000,000 new automobiles a year.

And, not long ago when Henry Ford said he expected, some day, to build 10,000,000 cars a year, conservative builders begged him not to talk so extravagantly as he would destroy bankers' confidence in the industry.

Have you ever husked corn on a cold day, the sun melting frozen mud between rows of cornstalks, a cold wind blowing through the corn field?

If not, you can't appreciate the achievement of Fred Stanek, Iowa farmer, three times in succession champion corn husker. He husked thirty and one-half bushels in 80 minutes. That isn't as profitable as working your way up to a prize fight championship.

But, it's more important to the country than any prize fighting.

Fred Stanek's championship will soon be a thing of the past, thanks to machinery that makes men unnecessary. This writer who has paid 8 cents a bushel on the cob for husking his corn crop this year is offered a machine that will cut the corn, stack it, husk it and shell it for 2½ cents a bushel. Good news for farm owners, bad news temporarily for farm labor.

The Rev. Dr. Fulton J. Sheen of the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., objecting to Prof. Einstein's ideas on religion, finds an argument that will convince many for whom learned refutation would have little meaning.

Father Sheen says Einstein's "cosmical theory would be all right if Einstein would leave out the 's' in cosmical."

Father Sheen objects especially to Einstein's statement that we "have passed the stage of a religion of fear and morals."

In private, Prof. Einstein might ask the Rev. Father:

"Do you really believe that God created the earth, only 6000 years ago, first creating light, then making the sun, moon and stars, as told in Genesis? And why was it necessary to make the sun, if light had already been supplied?"

Officially Prof. Einstein will say nothing, knowing that a religious controversy is never profitable.

$500,000 IN POLICIES ON KAUFMAN

Boston Broker Tells How He Was Insured; the Suicide Time Limit Passed

Details of Mitchell B. Kaufman's insurance dealings were learned today by the Boston Evening American as search for the missing Malden manufacturer was being abandoned in the northern Maine woods and a reward of $10,000 for his finding, dead or alive, was posted.

Kaufman is now believed to have carried a total of close to $500,000 in insurance.

None of this can be collected—unless his body is found meanwhile—before seven years have elapsed from the date of his disappearance, Nov. 5.

TAXICAB IN FENWAY

Another development today was a story told Police Capt. Mosher of the Back Bay station by Robert E. Baley of 14 Waite st., Roxbury, that two weeks ago he saw a Jackman, Me., taxicab in Francis st., Fenway, near Pilgrim rd. The cab was in front of Palmer Memorial Hospital, Bailey said.

Police conferred with hospital authorities and were told that there was no Mitchell B. Kaufman in the hospital and that every patient could be accounted for.

The Deaconess Hospital is also nearby and the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital is half a mile distant.

Maurice R. Gross, one of Kaufman's closest friends, placed most of the manufacturer's insurance, both life and commercial.

STOCK DEALS DENIED

Gross, who is associated with John C. Paige & Co., 40 Broad st., declined to state the amount but indicated that it was above $400,000.

In addition, the Malden manufacturer carried $75,000 insurance in New York, placed through Miss Mary Z. Shapiro of 25 West 67th st.

While, through Miss Shapiro, it

Good-bye, Golf

"BOBBY" JONES, champion of golf champions, with no more worlds to conquer, today formally retired on his laurels and will devote his time to making one-reel golf movies.

SAVOLDI QUITS NOTRE DAME

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 17 (INS)—Joe Savoldi, star back of the Notre Dame football team, withdrew from the university today.

A statement from the press department of the university announced Savoldi's withdrawal and the only comment accompanying it was that the university "never discussed its disciplinary actions."

It is understood Savoldi's withdrawal was the aftermath of his marital difficulties.

Savoldi, considered by many as one of the best backfield men ever produced by Rockne, married Aurdey Koehler of South Bend. His marriage was kept secret until he filed suit for divorce recently and then withdrew it.

Savoldi's marriage, it was understood, violated an unwritten rule of the university.

'BOBBY' JONES GIVES UP HIS GOLF CROWN

Champion Retires to Make One-Reel Movies at Profit of $250,000

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Robert T. Jones, Jr., champion of golf champions and holder of all the major titles of the United States and Great Britain, today announced his retirement from competition.

Jones, having no more worlds to conquer in the royal and ancient sport, made known his decision in a statement issued on his behalf through Herbert H. Ramsay, executive vice-president of the United States Golf Association.

Jones in his statement announced that he signed a contract November 13 with Warner Bros., motion picture firm, to make a series of 12 one-reel films, "purely educational in character."

Neither Jones nor Warner Brothers mentioned financial details, but it was reported the champion would work on a guarantee, plus a percentage of profits from the films, in anticipation of a national as well as international distribution. It was estimated the venture would mean perhaps as much as $250,000 to Jones.

Jones declared flatly he had no

Curley and Daughter Off to West Indies

Mayor Curley and his daughter Mary left today for New York and will sail tomorrow for a two weeks cruise in the West Indies. This trip was planned by the mayor before the election. Previously he contemplated a trip to Europe.

The mayor's last official act before leaving was to appoint 100 men from the Civil Service list as teamster laborers in the sanitary division for a six months' period at $5 a day.

The mayor turned down a City Council order requesting him to put 1000 men to work for 60 days cleaning streets and alleys.

Gov. Roosevelt in Housing Survey

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 17 (INS)—Governor Roosevelt today sent a letter to all mayors and village presidents in the State asking them to make a survey of housing needs for unemployed in their municipalities during the winter. His letter said he had authority to make available national guard and naval militia armories with cots and blankets.

CALLAHAN AND FULLER BOTH UNDER 135

Weigh in for Tonight's Bout as Even Money Rules in the Betting

Andy Callahan and Sammy Fuller were each under the lightweight limit of 135 pounds when they weighed in at 3 o'clock this afternoon for their New England lightweight championship battle at the new Boston Arena tonight under the direction of the Argonne A. A.

The weight was set at 135 pounds, and it was found that both men were just under the required notch.

Fuller weighed in at 134½ pounds, Callahan 13[illegible] pounds.

Matchmaker Eddie Mack was jubilant when he found both men were at weight as he feared there might be a last minute hitch to the show with each boxer threatening to claim the $1000 weight forfeit posted by the other.

Betting on the contest was at even money this afternoon.

Each boxer has many followers and they are prepared to wager large sums of money on their favorites.

Mack said there was a rush for reservations today and he looked for a capacity crowd when the lightweight rivals enter the ring.

It was predicted the bout would end in a knockout.

Levine Arrested in Vienna Fraud Case

Vienna, Nov. 17 (AP)—Charles A. Levine, described as the American aviation enthusiast, has been arrested at Semmering Spa.

Officials said he was being held in connection with an investigation into an alleged fraudulent scheme carried out in Vienna.

Levine, as owner of the monoplane Columbia made a trans-Atlantic crossing in 1927 with Clarence Chamberlin, landing in Germany.

When the Columbia, with Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry P. Connor, made its second trans-Atlantic crossing last month, Levine was in England to welcome the airmen.

Cambridge Man Is Held in Forgery

Charles Kendall of Austin st., Cambridge, was arraigned in East Cambridge court today charged with forging a check for $375.50 on the Harvard Trust Co. He pleaded not guilty and Judge Arthur P. Stone held him in $2000 for the grand jury. According to the police, Kendall cashed the check at the Central Trust Co.

Star Reinstein Witness

MARGARET WHEELER, pal of Samuel Reinstein, for whose death Moe Neumann is on trial, is expected to be the star government witness. She was with him until within a few minutes of the time when gangsters' guns ended his life.

JUDGE BARS CROWD FROM COURT AT TRIAL

Dapper Gangster Exercises His Rights, Challenging Several Talesmen

The trial of Moe Neumann, Pennsylvania gangster, charged with the murder of Samuel Reinstein, started in Superior Criminal Court today, with the defendant challenging jurors in person.

With a crowd of several hundred would-be spectators barred from the courtroom, Neumann, expensively attired, took an active part in the selection of the jury which will decide his fate.

In tones so low he was asked by Judge Edward T. Broadhurst to raise his voice, the defendant objected to a number of talesmen, who with the others were drawn from five sessions of the criminal court.

ELEVEN JURORS CHOSEN

Although the Government also exercised challenges, and several talesmen were excused, the work of picking the jury progressed rapidly, with 11 chosen at 3:30.

They are: John F. Sullivan, inspector, 21 Argyle st., Lawrence, P. O'Melia, a laborer, 33 Oakwood st., Philip J. Owens, salesman, 25 Hulbert st., John P. Foley, tile mason, 82 E. Brookline st., all Boston; Fred C. Ellis, color matcher, 128 Maverick st., Chelsea; Carl A. Wilson, machinist, 20 Hillside st., Leo M. Spillaine, mechanic, 34 Burt st., Michael M. Gaffey, salesman, 11 School st. pl., and George F. Green, paper cutter, 6 Carmel st.

Joseph Henry Clemens, clerk, 441 Frankfort st., Lawrence C. Larsen, mechanic, 1 Bay View Pl.

Before the jurors were taken to lunch Judge Broadhurst warned them against discussing the case until they had retired to their jury room, or permitting anyone to discuss it with them or make inquiries.

FOUR INDICTMENTS

The courtroom opened at 10 o'clock, but the crowd which had been waiting in the corridors for some time previously, was not permitted to enter.

Court officers barred out everyone but attorneys, reporters and attaches on orders of Judge Broadhurst, until after the selection of the jury.

Neumann, who was arrested in a Philadelphia hospital last February, while recovering from gunshot wounds, was brought in at 10:10.

He wore a new dark suit of expensive material and cut, with low shoes, and was freshly barbered. He was represented by Atty. Herbert F. Callahan and Atty. Harry B. Felger of Philadelphia.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle appeared for the government, assisted by Joseph A. Sullivan of the district attorney's office and Inspector Timothy Donovan.

Clerk Leonard McLay read the four indictments charging Neumann with first degree murder in connection with the shooting of

East Boston Man First in Irish Sweepstake

Dublin, Nov. 17 (INS)—Drawn by the hope that one chance in thousands may tumble a fortune into their lap, a huge crowd gathered early today around the loud speakers in the vicinity of Mansion House to participate in the drawing for the more than $2,000,000 Irish hospitals sweepstake on the Manchester November handicap run Nov. 22.

The first horse drawn was Break of Day, a long shot. The ticket OVF 33371 is held by Mordick Poirier, East Boston, Mass.

Bryan Harris, 381 Fourth ave., New York, drew the outsider Truncheon with DG-62866.

Another New Yorker, John Tamagna, 404 West 58th st., drew "Pickle," an outsider, on ticket OVO-31799.

Miss Margaret Cohalan, of 706 St. Nicholas ave., New York, drew "Brown Tony" with OV-13164.

The first prize, it was estimated, will total $1,000,000. The second will amount to $400,000 and the third to $200,000.

Subscriptions were received from every part of the world, with America sending in thousands of them.

Murdick Poirier, who drew Break o Day in the Irish Sweepstakes, lives at 73 Horace st., East Boston, and has been a fisherman for 40 years.

Poirier was at home today while his shipmates on the steam trawler Cormorant are off Georges Banks. He said he bought six tickets, paying $2.50 for each.

Last January he was severely injured and nearly drowned and it was months before he was able to work. He missed the present trip in order to settle an insurance claim.

4 Ships on Rocks in Storm; 22 Saved

Ships went aground, transatlantic shipping was tied up, ferries plied behind schedule over their courses and air traffic was at a standstill today during the storm and fog that extended south of New York and west beyond Chicago.

On four passenger liners, part of a fleet of vessels anchored in inner and outer New York harbor, more than 4000 persons were stranded because of weather conditions.

Coastguards rescued 22 fishermen from the trawler Petrel, which went on the rocks off Block Island in a rough sea, while across the Sound, the collier Harry Bowen piled up on shoals south of Montauk Point, with 25 aboard.

FISHING CRAFT AGROUND

Patrol boats and destroyers from the New London coastguard base went to the aid of the collier.

Also off Montauk Point, the steamer Cokesit went aground and asked for assistance.

The steamer Tatler, a fishing vessel from Portland, Me., piled up on Block Island, according to a radio message from the craft, and three coastguard destroyers were sent to assist her.

Putnam Jailed Six Yrs. in $59,000 Theft

Emmons Putnam, socially prominent young clubman of Worcester, pleaded guilty to larceny of $59,000 from the Mechanics National Bank of that city, in federal court today and was sentenced to six years at Plymouth.

Putnam, who is 31 and the son of a high official of another bank, previously had admitted taking the money for gambling. He is married, has two children and was employed by the bank for years in various capacities as a student of banking.

PICKFORD CHILD UNDER GUARD

Beverly Hills, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—The Beverly Hills police disclosed today a police escort had been provided Mary Pickford's adopted niece consequent to threats to kidnap the child.

A policeman guarded the little girl to and from school Friday and again today.

The police, Miss Pickford and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, declined to reveal the nature of the threats. They would not say if they were received by letter or telephone.

The girl, daughter of Lottie Pickford, has been the ward of Mrs. Fairbanks for some years. Recently her name, Mary, was changed to Gwynn.

NEUMANN, ON TRIAL IN REINSTEIN DEATH, CHALLENGES JURORS

JUDGE BARS CROWD FROM COURTROOM

Reinstein in Hotel Huntington on the night of September 13, 1929. He is also charged with complicity and with being an accessory before and after the fact.

The clerk then informed the defendant he had the right to challenge 36 jurors, and Neumann immediate took advantage of the opportunity.

The evidence was expected to deal largely with the underworld of Boston, New York and Pennsylvania.

GIRL STAR WITNESS.

Much interest was displayed in Margaret Wheeler, sweetheart of Reinstein, who was with him up to a few minutes before he stepped into the death-dealing guns of two men in the dark corridors of the hotel.

Miss Wheeler, whose home is in Baltimore, was expected to be one of the star government witnesses, and as such was kept out of sight in the office of the district attorney.

Other women and men prominent in the underworld were on hand as witnesses, together with clerks from the Hotel Huntington, detectives and police officers.

Since his arrest Neumann has maintained a grim silence other than to reiterate his plea of not guilty at the time of his arraignment and that he had never been in Boston.

The slaying of "Sammy" Reinstein shortly after midnight on the morning of September 14, 1929, was one of the most sensational in the history of Boston crime, and resulted in a huge vice roundup.

POSED AS FURRIER

Reinstein, posing as a New York furrier, living at the hotel with his alleged wife, was found outside his room on the second floor of the hotel with two bullet wounds in the head.

The night clerk, who heard two shots, called a physician who in turn notified the police. Reinstein, true to the traditions of his kind, said he did not know who shot him and died.

Investigation revealed the victim was an active member of a white slave ring who had fled from Pennsylvania to New York after having stolen the [illegible] of a well-known underworld character.

The shooting of Reinstein stirred the authorities into a frenzy of action. Investigations revealed a white slave ring operating from Pennsylvania through New York to Boston, with girls being moved over the circuit like vaudeville performers.

Mourners Trek to Artist's Grave

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 70 mourners prepared today to make their second pilgrimage to the grave in Montrose cemetery of Louis A. Thiel, fresco artist, and receive checks in payment for their visit.

This strange sight was made possible by the artist's will which set aside a trust fund of $2,500 in bonds to pay the mourners provided they came to his grave on June 17 and November 17. About $1500 was paid out June 17 and there were rumors that the individual checks today would be much smaller than before because of decreased value of the bonds. In June the sums ranged from $5 to $20.

$2,000,000 GIFT IN RELIEF PLAN

Two "big money" plans to relieve unemployment in Boston were introduced into the City Council late today by Councilor John F. Dowd and passed by that body.

The first requests that Mayor Curley appoint a committee of business, industrial and labor leaders to consider the advisibility of raising a fund of $2,000,000 by popular subscription, the money to be used and accounted for by the committee in relief of "unprecedented unemployment conditions."

The second order requests the mayor to add $1,000,000 to the 1931 budget for relief of unemployment.

This sum would be exclusive of the appropriations for overseers of the public welfare and for soldiers' relief funds.

Councillor Dowd declared that if this sum were appropriated it would provide 6000 men with work for four days a week at $5 a day and would last 60 days. h

Ely Fails to Get Game for Jobless

Williamstown, Nov. 17—The attempt on the part of Governor-elect Joseph B. Ely to aid unemployment relief through a football game between Williams and Springfield Colleges was blocked today.

The Governor-elect, a Williams alumnus, was informed that the local team, which has broken training, will not be permitted to play a post-season game.

It was planned to stage the contest on Pratt Field, Springfield, Saturday.

Curley Insures Life to Found Big Poor Fund

Mayor Curley has taken out life insurance for $100,000 for the permanent benefit of the poor of Boston, it was learned today by the Boston Evening American.

Upon his death, this sum will become a trust fund, the income of which will be paid to his children as long as they live.

When they die, under the provisions of the policy and the trust fund agreemen tcombined with it, the principal will be left to accumulate at interest for 50 years.

At the expiration of this period the $100,000 principal, increased by interest over a period of many years, will become a permanent trust fund, the income of which will be used for poor relief.

It is estimated that by that time the principal will amount to more than $3,000,000.

The annual premium, which the mayor contracts to pay, is said to be more than $3300. The policy was written recently by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Few public men in America have ever made such provision for the poor and it is believed that in making this far-seeing provision, Mayor Curley was motivated in part by the example of Benjamin Franklin, who left a small sum to accumulate at interest for many years before being paid over to the city of Boston, where he was born.

JONES TO QUIT GOLF FOR GOOD

intention whatever of turning professional, explaining that he was prompted to retire from the competitive field because he was convinced his motion picture contract conflicted with the spirit, if not the actual letter of the amateur rule.

He did not specifically refer to whether he would continue, at any time, in open golf play, but indicated he was through altogether with championships.

JONES TELLS WHY

In his statement, Jones said:

"Upon the close of the 1930 golfing season, I determined immediately that I would withdraw entirely from golfing competition of a serious nature. Fourteen years of intense tournament play in this country and abroad had given me about all I wanted in the way of hard work in the game. I had reached a point where I felt that my profession required more of my time and effort, leaving golf in its proper place, a means of obtaining recreation and enjoyment."

The retirement of Jones brings to a climax not only the most sensational record of victorious achievement in all golf history, but comes at a time when the great Georgian stands astride the golf world like the Colossus of Rhodes.

At the comparatively youthful age of 28 Jones has conquered all rivals at home and abroad, won every championship trophy of national importance from one to five times and crowned his achievements by making a clean sweep of all four British and American title tournaments in 1930.

UNSPOILED ABILITY

No other king of sport ever decided to leave the competitive arena at so youthful an age or when at the very height of his powers, with the exception of Gene Tunney. Tunney quit the heavyweight boxing ring in 1928, at the age of 3[illegible], but for different reasons. The heavyweight champion disliked the sport in which he had reached the top. Golf still is closest to Jones' heart and interest.

Throughout his record-shattering competitive career, in which his triumphant achievements have been matched by sportsmanship of the highest order, Jones has been held up not alone as a supreme genius in his chosen field but as an example of unspoiled ability. In England, he has been regarded as an "ambassador of good will," honored by life membership in the exclusive Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews, the very inner circle of golf, and hailed for his achievements as enthusiastically as though he were a native son.

'Ghost' of Wagner at London Ball Is Only Fireman

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—It seems the shadowy figure that unnerved Herman Darewski as he conducted his orchestra at a ball in Covent Garden wasn't a ghost after all.

Many who saw the ghostly figure stalk across the wall believed it to be the shade of Siegfried, Richard Wagner's hero-child, seeking retribution for the strains of modern jazz. As the apparently-armored figure appeared the drummer ceased to drum, Darewski dropped his baton and collapsed into a chair and the dance abruptly ceased.

After several days investigation, it has been determined what really was seen was the shadow of a fireman making his nightly rounds.

Robot Caddie Can Do All But Find a Lost Ball

London, Nov. 17 (INS)—Meet "Monte," a mechanical caddie, the invention of W. A. Griffiths, a young engineer.

Resembling an umbrella stand mounted on a miniature tank, this robot caddie is driven by an electric motor, and has caterpillar wheels which enables it to negotiate streams, rough land, and bunkers.

When in use "Monte," rolls along beside the golfer, and is controlled by a switch.

It carries the clubs, drops balls when a button is pressed and registers the score at each hole on an automatic scorer.

Also it can clean golf balls and muddy shoes by means of a revolving brush and has a receptacle for bottles and glasses, which can make every hole a 19th.

The inventor hopes to train "Monte" to recover lost golf balls.

HURLEY PUSHES ARMY WORK TO AID JOBLESS

$20,000,000 Is Expected to Be Available for Construction Through February

Washington, Nov. 17—Immediate release of all available appropriations to speed rivers and harbors, flood control and army construction during the winter was announced today by Secretary Hurley.

The war secretary ordered the appropriations made available through February, instead of spreading them over the fiscal year, in order to provide added employment. The funds available were estimated between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000.

DEFICENCY APPROPRIATION

Congress may be asked for a deficiency appropriation of $22,000,000 to push the projects still further in the spring. The present funds will be made available especially in points where unemployment is most severe, with the Mississippi and Missouri rivers expected to receive a large part of the expedited work.

While seven nationally known Democratic chieftains pledged "cooperation" with the administration, other minority leaders have insisted the Democrats stand pat on their own program for the relief of unemployment.

The Wagner bills, sponsored by Robert F. Wagner (D.) of New York, had the backing of Democrats and insurgents in the Senate, but were blocked by the overwhelming Republican majority in the House.

One of the New Yorker's measures would set up a federal unemployment fund by authorizing public works to be constructed during unemployment emergencies. It would ask the state governments to create like funds.

JAIL TERM FOR PREACHER

Lawrence, Nov. 17—Suspended sentences imposed last spring were invoked today on LaFayette Fairbrother, evangelist preacher and father of eight children, and Mrs. Angelina Brian, mother of five, here in district court.

Fairbrother was sent to the house of correction for a year and Mrs. Brian to Sherborn reformatory for an indefinite term.

The couple eloped last spring to Brooklyn, N. Y., where they were found by Mrs. Brian's husband.

He returned with them, but on an overnight stop in Lynn the coupe disappeared againg.

They voluntarily returned to Lawrence to face court and the suspended sentences were imposed.

Three months ago the couple disappeared again and were found living in Brooklyn again.

They were returned yesterday on warrants and were brought before Judge Frederick E. Chandler today for the sentences.

Wareham Cranberry Man Wins Divorce

Brockton, Nov. 17—Stillman F. Ryder, wealthy cranberry owner of Wareham, seeking a divorce today in probate court, declared his wife, Josephine, left him four months after their marriage in 1925. The suit was uncontested and Judge Chamberlain said he would grant the divorce.

"She was my second wife and after our marriage I took her home to the house where my first wife had lived happily for 35 years," testified Ryder.

Drys Are Urged to Combine in Fight Against Repeal

Washington, Nov. 17 (INS)—While the Wickersham crime commission continued today its ten-day "retreat" in the seclusion of its headquarters here, in an attempt to find a solution of the prohibition question, wets and drys continued active in advancing their respective views.

Rep. James M. Beck (R.) of Pennsylvania, for the wets, declared repeal of the 18th amendment should be the objective of the anti-prohibition forces, although he doubted it could be accomlished in the near future, because 13 states could defeat such a move.

The drys, through the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the M. E. Church, urged all dry organizations to unite in a "militant federation" to combat the advancing wet forces.

The board demanded the defeat of any candidate for Congress in 1932 "who is not loyal to the fundamental right of democracy—the right to achieve effective decisions at the polls."

Discounting the anti-prohibition gains made in the election Nov. 4, the board declared the Democratic "landslide" showed only incidental gains for the wets.

Cambridge Deserter's Extradition Denied

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 17 (AP)—An extradition court has denied application of the State of Massachusetts for extradition to Cambridge of William G. Coates, charged with wilful desertion and failure to provide for his infant child. Coates has been living in Brockville two years.

In Triangle

MRS. NELSON C. BOWLES of Portland, Ore., is said to have stabbed herself with a long bread knife in the apartment of Miss Irma G. Loucks, aged 25, who is said to be the sweetheart of her husband, Nelson C. Bowles, wealthy Portland broker. Miss Loucks is said to have been a friend of Bowles for a long time.

KAUFMAN HAD BIG INSURANCE

was learned that Kaufman was a victim of the stock market crash, Gross said today that the missing man never "played" the market.

On Gross' desk today was a memorandum, "Conference with Mitchell Kaufman." The insurance man said he made the appointment several weeks ago and believed, right up to today, that he would get word from Kaufman.

THINKS HE WAS SHOT

Because he did not hear from him, Gross said he now believes Kaufman is dead and is inclined to the theory that the manufacturer was shot accidentally.

"Like many business men," said Gross, "'Mitch' owned stocks but did not buy on margin. He talked with me some time ago regarding financial matters and said he did not care if he went broke any time. 'With $200 in my pocket I could make a complete comeback within 10 years,' he told me."

The insurance policies taken out by Kaufman, it was learned, have passed the contestable stage; that is, the suicide clause time limit has expired.

Seven years are necessary before a missing person can be declared legally dead.

WAS READY FOR TRIP.

Isadore Brenner, proprietor of the Independent Chair Co. of Portland st., and an uncle of Kaufman, said he was with Kaufman the Sunday before his disappearance, at the home of Kaufman's sister, Mrs. Raphael Sussman of Foster st., Brookline. Kaufman was exceptionally happy about the hunting trip in Maine.

Meanwhile, in Maine today, anxiety was felt for the large party of Canadians who have been combing the woods from St. Hubert de Spalding, Que., to Jackman for Kaufman, as the storm blocked off conveying of food to them.

They are the last of the hunters, the rest having been notified that the organized search has been abandoned but that the reward of $10,000 has been offered to the finder of Kaufman, dead or alive.

The search, which engaged approximately 1000 men and cost $25,000, closed 11 days after the manufacturer vanished.

DO-X FLIGHT TO AMERICA MAY BE DELAYED

Final Decision on Transatlantic Hop Will Be Reached on Arrival at Libson

EXCLUSIVE!

Special Cable Dispatch.

Bordeaux, France, Nov. 17—The projected transatlantic flight from Lisbon to New York of the giant Dornier DO-X may be postponed until April or May of next year.

However, Dr. Dornier is understood to be planning to fly the DO-X to America without passengers in December. The big craft will likely remain at Lisbon for a fortnight, in any event.

The delay has not yet been decided, but there were indications today that argue for such a delay. They are:

1—The unfavorable weather at this time of year;

2—The very short winter days, and

3—The limited speed of the DO-X, especially against headwinds, despite the tremendous driving power of its 12 motors, aggregating 7500 horsepower.

NOT ABANDONED YET

The impression that the Atlantic flight may not take place until later is my own. Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the mammoth ship, made this laconic statement:

"In principle, the Atlantic flight has not been abandoned, but no decisive declaration will be made until we arrive at Lisbon."

The Calshot-Bordeaux flight, with darkness forcing a landing on the Bay of Biscay after only 370 sea miles had been covered impressed some of us that these winter days are too short to fly any great distance over the ocean in the very limited daylight hours.

The distance from Lisbon to Horta is about 1000 miles, which would take the DO-X nine and probably ten hours at full cruising speed, even if there are no unfavorable winds, and, perhaps, 12 hours, if it is slowed up by headwinds. It was intended to fly the DO-X on its Atlantic hop only in the daylight hours.

GIANT "AIR FERRY"

Dr. Dornier and Capt. Friedrich Christensen, the ship's comander, are taking their valuable lessons of experience under consideration in deciding whether or not it would be better to postpone the flight to New York until the days get longer.

A streak of exceptionally favorable winds and weather over the Atlantic may still make this winter flight possible.

There is a general agreement that the flight so far has shown that the DO-X has come up fully to expectations for the purposes for which it was originally designed and built.

Germans Got Bills for Everything in Calshot

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Although the DO-X was greeted by the public as Great Britain's guest, the Daily Herald said today, her officers were presented with a bill for about $5000 for services rendered at Calshot before she started for Bodeaux.

"The Germans were to some extent guests of the Dutch when in their waters," the paper said. "They will be guests also of the French, Spanish, Portuguese and Americans in their waters. But not so here.

"Every service was charged against the visitor. Every boat that went out to the craft, every telephone call was charged; even the boats that took the air force men and their wives to inspect the ship had to be paid for."

DO-X Hop to Lisbon Postponed to Wednesday

Bordeaux, France, Nov. 17 (AP)—The flight of the giant German seaplane DO-X to Portugal has been postponed until Wednesday.

Vermont Man Pleads Not Guilty in Killing

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 17 (AP)—Elwin H. Wheeler, 55, of Williamstown, pleaded not guilty in Washington County Court today to a charge of murder in the first degree of Birney Pecor, husband of Wheeler's former housekeeper, who was shot at the home of a relative. Police said Wheeler confessed he shot Pecor while under the influence of liquor.

Dr. Empringham Reported Deposed by Bishop Manning

Dr. Empringham

New York, Nov. 17—Out of the stillness that for more than a year has enshrouded the status of Dr. James Empringham in the Protestant Episcopal Church came the report today that he had been deposed by Bishop Manning.

Dr. Empringham's resignation from the church, following his divorce and remarriage, was rejected. Instead, Bishop Manning, in the presence of two clerical witnesses, formally deposed him.

The former rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church has not been heard from since August 17, 1929, when he wrote a letter from California to Bishop Manning.

"Miss Paris" Shocked at New York Night Life

Mlle. Denizot

New York, Nov. 17—Shock at the naughty songs, smoking and drinking in New York night life, was expressed yesterday by Mlle. Antoinette Denizot, "Miss Paris," who is visiting the United States.

The French beauty, however, said that she did love a ballroom orchestra from Monte Carlo, playing American ditties in a local night club.

Mlle. Denizot recently found herself stranded at a pier in New York when plans that had been made for her got slightly tangled shortly after she landed in the United States.

Inez Norton Still Seeks Rothstein Insurance

Inez Norton

New York, Nov. 17—Blonde Inez Norton, the extra-legal sweetie of the slain Arnold Rothstein, will try again this week to get her hands on that $20,000 insurance in which the slain gambler named her as beneficiary.

Her attorney, Jay Leo Rothschild, will appear before the appellate division of the Supreme Court today and try to show that Justice Alfred H. Townley was in error when he turned down Ines' plea for the twenty grand.

Justice Townley's decision came after a hearing during which Ines took the witness stand and with some reluctance admitted being Rothstein's sweetie and that he'd been paying her bils.

Mrs. Hammerstein Sells Apples to Make Living

Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—"Ladies must eat," explained Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the impresario, today as she became a seller of "apples, only 5 cents apiece," on the sidewalks of New York.

She stood in a foggy drizzle at Chambers st. and Broadway briskly polishing apples and calling her wares to passers-by, and disposed of two boxes of fruit in less than two hours.

"It's the best I can do now to earn a living," she said.

Mrs. Hammerstein said she would move her stand up to Times sq. later today and sell apples in front of the Rialto Theater, where once stood her husband's Victoria Playhouse.

Hoff-Tunney Suit Delayed for Week

New York, Nov. 17 (INS)—The latest suit against Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, will not be heard for at least a week. Max ("Boo Boo") Hoff of Philadelphia is suing Tunney for $400,000, alleging he is entitled to 20 per cent of the former champion's ring earnings.

Alice Brady's Leg Again in a Cast

Denver, Nov. 17 (AP)—Alice Brady, the actress, kept to her hotel room here today with a plaster cast over her right leg, injured in an automobile accident six weeks ago and aggravated by a fall over a trunk back-stage here last week.

GREAT BRITAIN MAPS $12,500,000 DEVELOPMENT FOR PALESTINE

LOAN WILL AID SETTLEMENT OF LAND

Lloyd George Attacks Government Plan as Insult to Both Jew and Arab

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—A new development scheme for Palestine involving expenditure of $12,500,000 was announced by Drummond Shiels, under-secretary for colonies, in the House of Commons today.

The scheme is supported by the British Government, assisted by a loan, and is intended to provide settlement for Jews and Arabs on land at the rate of 10,000 families annually.

ATTACK BY LLOYD GEORGE.

The announcement, which was unexpected, came in the midst of debate in which the White paper setting forth the government's policy concerning Palestine had been vigorously attacked on the ground of injustice to the Jews.

The White paper is an injustice to both Jew and Arab, David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, declared in the House of Commons during a vigorous attack on the government's policy in Palestine.

JUSTICE ALONE ASKED

"I can only understand that White Paper," he said, "if it was written by anti-Semitic officials.

"If the government can't succeed in a Palestine mandate, it ought to hand the job back to the League of Nations."

All Britain wants, he said, is that justice be done to both Jew and Arab.

Summarizing Britain's obligations to Palestine, beginning with the Balfour declaration in 1917, the Liberal leader said that declaration was issued for reasons which the allies considered at the time to be of paramount importance.

The declaration was sanctioned, he said, by all the great allied powers and by President Wilson of the United States.

A solemn pledge the British government will carry out the terms of its mandate was given by Prime Minister MacDonald.

"The government will carry out the mandate in both its aspects," said MacDonald, "spending every energy to enable development of the policy to continue under conditions which will make the harmony between Jew and Arab closer and closer so the Arab may continue to enjoy the benefits he has already received from Jewish immigration and capital while the Jew may see Palestine becoming more and more the project of his ideal as a Jewish national home."

Liquidating Bank Will Pay Dividend

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 17 (AP)—Three thousand creditors of the defunct Merrimac River Savings Banks will receive first liquidation dividends of 33½ per cent Saturday, Liquidating Agent McLane said today.

Each day following, except Sunday, a similar number of dividends will be dispatched until the 18,000 depositors have been paid. Pupils who had saving accounts will receive 100 per cent of their deposits.

Political Lull to Exchange Prisoners

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Those jolly old Democrats have promised not to embarrass the administration by selling apples in front of the White House.

That job is a selective appointment, anyway.

This fraternizing with Republicans was started down in Alabama by Tom Heflin in the last presidential election.

If Tom had only held his hosses he could have still been in Washington fraternizing to his heart's content.

It's popular now. When a Democrat meets a Republican he says:

"Goody, goody, it's your turn to chase me."

Then they indulge in that innocent sport of Pennsylvania political childhood known as contesting a seat.

Democrats are now voting as Republicans. They tried the other way and it didn't work.

This armistice has eliminated a lot of parliamentary hypocrisy. Now that all the boys are friends there is less handshaking.

The moratorium means a new lease on Potomac life to a lot of politicians who were about to be appointed resident consuls in the Smithsonian Institution.

Whether or not the scheme will work is a theory that has not yet met Einstein.

All we can do is to wonder. Curiosity killed the cat. But information brought it to life again.

Heavy Downpour Turns Malden Streets Into Canals

LIKE A SCENE FROM VENICE. Rubber boots were needed on Bryant st., Malden, to cross from one side of the street to the other when sewers, taxed by the heavy downpour of the last three days, became clogged and the street flooded. In the upper picture Miss Dorothy Goodman is shown watching a machine buck the water, while in the bottom picture another auto is shown bucking the flood. The water in many places rose to the front steps of homes. Malden could have used this water in July. (Staff photos.)

GALES SWEEP SOUTH; 4 DIE

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 17 (INS)—Relief agencies throughout various sections of Louisiana, George, Mississippi and Alabama today attempted to ascertain the exact number of deaths and the extent of property damage caused by a series of tornadoes.

Early reports indicated at least four persons were killed and 35 injured. Property damage will mount into millions, it was estimated. Communications were severed in many of the stricken localities.

Rural settlements in and about Brookhaven, Miss., suffered heavily from the storm. Mrs. George Davis was killed when her home was crushed by the gale. A negro infant was dashed against a tree and killed at Winnsboro, La. Two unidentified negroes were reported killed near Alexandria, La.

Five white persons and 30 negroes were injured when the tornado swept Mississippi. A house crowded with negroes gathered for a funeral was demolished and 22 of its occupants hurt.

Scores of Autos Stalled by Blizzard in Utah

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 17 (AP)—Scores of automobiles were stalled in snowdrifts and train service in northern Utah was delayed by storms which swept over the State yesterday.

Snowplows cleared the blocked highways leading into Salt Lake City yesterday liberating dozens of cars. Another snow last night made motoring hazardous.

Needham Named to Command Brigade

Governor Allen, on recommendation of Maj.-Gen. Erland F. Fish, new commander of the 26th Division, today named Col. Daniel Needham of Newtonville to command the 51st Field Artillery Brigade with rank of brigadier-general.

The 51st Field Artillery Brigade was commanded by Gen. Fish prior to his promotion last week. Gen. Needham has been in command of the 101st Field Artillery.

He is a member of the law firm of Sherburne, Powers & Needham.

Rum Runners Shoot to Kill, But 'Lone Wolf' Still Lives

Stamford, Ct., Nov. 17 (INS)—They haven't got Police Sergt. Amos Anderson, lone wolf of the Boston Post Road, yet.

Although "famous Amos," nemesis of the rum runner, was critically wounded from a withering gun-fire from gangsters in an automobile, he is expected to recover, physicians said today.

Anderson, modern duplicate of the hair-trigger sheriffs of old Western days, has won a mighty reputation for his desperate gun battles with liquor-runners who speed through the night.

A veteran of the great war, in which he was twice wounded and also cited for bravery, Anderson was invited to become a member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition two years ago.

In 1926, he single-handed captured four new York bandit suspects, wanted in connection with murders.

Anderson was standing within 100 yards of police headquarters in Darien when a speeding automobile shot around a curve. Anderson stepped out and held up his hand

The answer was the rat-a-tat-tat of bullets. "Famous Amos" dropped with four bullets through his legs, and a red streak across his abdomen.

Police believed the attack was the work of New York gangsters who have threatened to get the "Lone Wolf" for years.

Jerome Melville, of New York was arrested in Norwalk following a battle with policemen, and held for questioning in connection with the shooting of Anderson.

2 Couples Caught in Raid at Lynn

Two Lynn patrolmen, posing as students of the General Electric plant, staged a raid on an apartment in Center st., Lynn today through an ingenious device that hooked their radio to the bell of an apartment. They kept the vigil more than two weeks as roomers in the apartment house. Mrs. Frank Stanton and Mrs. Ruth Samuelson were charged with being idle and disorderly. Edward Kaufman of Beacon Hill ave., Lynn, and Frank Gallagher of Boston with statutory charges. They were held in $500 each.

Mansfield Campaign Matches Light Curley's Cigar

"The people, not the bosses, want Mansfield."

This slogan, relic of the last mayoral campaign, butted right into Mayor Curley's office today, and, in fact, into his coat pocket, much to the surprise of his honor and those gathered around him.

The slogan was on a pack of matches the mayor pulled from his pocket.

"Well, I don't know where I got those," he said, evidently much puzzled. But he put the matches away for future use.

GIRL WALKS OFF WITH DIAMONDS

A fashionably dressed girl, about 23, today walked into the jewelry salesroom of J. Rockman, 373 Washington st., bought two bracelets and a diamond ring and left a bad check for $1575 in payment. After she had gone several rings and diamonds were reported missing.

She coolly made out the check at the counter, signing herself "S. Coleman of Baltimore, Md."

Rockman became suspicious just after she left and checked through Boston banks mentioned by the girl as references.

They found no accoutn oreperson listed and reported the swindle to the police.

Inspector Stephen Flaherty was assigned the task of finding the girl on a good description furnished by Rockman.

Woman Who Defied Curse of Mt. Chocorua 81 Years Dead

Conway, N. H., Nov. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Priscilla Colbath, "the hermit of the White Mountains," has left for all time the little cottage in which, for 81 years, she lived in defiance of the legendary "Curse of Mount Chocorua."

She died today in the Conway Hospital. Thanks to old Ben Swinton, her only neighbor in the isolated little valley high up among the mountain peaks, the little woman who lived alone for 38 long years was not alone in death.

Swinton, for many years, had trudged the two miles from his cottage to the "hermit-woman's" home every two or three days to assure himself that all was well with her. When he called yesterday he found her ill and helpless and, despite her protests, had her moved.

Cheerful and mentally alert despite 38 winters she spent alone 17 miles from the nearest village and two miles from her only neighbor Mrs. Colbath never gave up hope that the husband who disappeared in 1892 would come back to her some day. Those who knew her said it was that hope that kept her in the valley those years.

Passaconaway Valley, which nestles between Mt. Passaconaway and Mt. Chocorua, was originally settled by Mrs. Colbath's grandfather, a friend of the great Chief Passaconaway. At one time the valley had many inhabitants but a strange malady resulting from soil deposits that poisoned drink- [illegible] caused all to leave and gave that superstition of the "Curse of Mount Chocorua."

4 SHIPS RUN ON ROCKS IN FOG

small motor craft was reported in a radio message from the steamer Muskogee, which picked up the trio.

Locally, the heavy downpour of rain flooded streets in various parts of Greater Boston, the water in Bryant, Pearl and Thatcher sts., in Malden, coming up to front doorsteps of houses and to hub-caps of automobiles and flooding many cellars.

MAIL FLIGHT OFF.

The air mail and transport trips were cancelled to and from Boston because of no visibility and all other flying at Boston Airport was at a standstill.

The freight steamer Tuscan, from Philadelphia, due this morning, wirelessed her owners in the Hub that she could not dock before 9 p. m., due to fog and storm.

A number of vessels were anchored at quarantine, waiting for a lift in the fog.

Meanwhile, the weather man forecasts rain for tonight and tomorrow, making the fourth day of storm for this vicinity.

MERCURY DROPS

In Chicago district, gigantic waves beat the eastern shores of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior and shipping was warned to seek harbor. It was feared, however, that some boats were caught out in the storm.

Chicago faced a 20-degree drop in temperature, bringing the mercury close to freezing point.

LEAGUE SEEKS WAY TO LIMIT NAVIES

Preparatory Commission Studies Draft Submitted by Great Powers

Geneva, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Preparatory Disarmament Commission today tackled the problem of how to limit naval armaments.

Resolving itself into a sub-committee, it debated the results of the London naval conference and the Washington treaty. These results were presented by the great naval powers in draft form designed for consideration by all the naval powers with a view to inclusion in the draft general convention.

Gen. De Marinis, the Italian delegate, reaffirmed Italy's reservation made at London that "the Italian Government cannot definitely accept on method rather than another until ratios of strength and maximum levels of tonnage have been agreed upon by the different powers."

PROVISIONS OF DRAFT

The draft submitted by the great powers provided chiefly:

(a) A total global limitation of war vessel tonnage.

(b) A table for limitation by categories.

(c) Provision for the transfer of some tonnage from category to category.

(d) Capital ships limited to 35,000 tons with a gun calibre maximum 16 inches.

(e) Limit aircraft carriers to 27,000 tons.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian delegate, proposed these amendments:

To Article A, that the powers limit existing tonnage by a percentage which shall not be exceeded during the life of the treaty; to Article B, that the States with navies above 200,000 tons limit their total tonnage at certain figures and, to delete Article C which permits transfers of tonnage from one category to another.

Lord Cecil of Great Britain and Rene Massigli of France proposed that the matter be entrusted to a naval sub-committee to consider all amendments.

DISCUSSION IN PUBLIC.

Hugh S. Gibson, the American delegate, wanted the sub-committee group to sit concurrently with the full commission "to bring up the whole problem reduced to its simplest form."

Dr. Walter A. Riddell of Canada asked discussion article by article in the full commission with reference to the sub-committe of those points disputed.

The result was that the commission adopted the name of "sub-committee," doubled its daily sessions and began full discussion of the draft proposals in public.

Boris and Ioanna to Visit Kemal Pasha

Angora, Turkey, Nov. 17 (AP)—King Boris and Queen Ioanna of Bulgaria are to visit President Kemal Pasha here late next month or early in January. They plan to spend several days at Istanbul and then to come to Angora for a week as guests of the Ghazi.

Probe Cannon

REP. TINKHAM

BISHOP CANNON

IN WASHINGTON, yesterday, Congressman George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts, demanded that Atty.-Gen. Mitchell probe 1928 political activities of Bishop James E. Cannon, Jr. (International and A. P. photos.)

Washington, Nov. 17 (US)—Rep. George Holden Tinkham (R.) of Massachusetts, yesterday "formally and officially" demanded that Atty.-Gen. Mitchell institute a federal grand jury inquiry into the political activities of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., in the 1928 presidential campaign.

Tinkham wrote Mitchell last year charging that Cannon had violated the federal corrupt practices act by failing to report his political expenditures. After an investigation the attorney general said there was no evidence of law violation in Cannon's activities.

In renewing his charges, Tinkham wrote to Mitchell:

"Of even more importance than the prosecution of Bishop Cannon and the enforcement of the federal corrupt practices act is the determination by you whether as chief law officer of the federal government you mean to enforce all the laws of the United States fairly, honestly, and without discrimination, and intend to administer impartial justice."

STRIKERS AND POLICE FIGHT IN SPAIN

Trains and Buses Mobbed as 200,000 Workmen Lay Down Their Tools

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 17 (AP)—Two hundred thousand workmen in this greatest industrial city of Spain threw down their tools today and there was serious rioting, during which several were wounded by gunfire and otherwise injured.

The general strike, while not unexpected after a similar tieup in Madrid, came with startling suddenness this morning. The rioters burned trolley cars, smashed store windows and sent peaceful citizens scurrying to cover.

A mob armed with clubs and guns attacked the telephone building in the heart of the city, but were routed by mounted police. Industry was at a standstill, shops were closed, newspapers suspended and theaters and cafes were dark.

University students joined the demonstration and the authorities ordered the university closed indefinitely.

Meanwhile dispatches from Valencia said a strike movement there was increasing. At Asturias, where 20,000 coal miners walked out Friday, the situation was well in hand and the strike appeared to be subsiding. At Oviedo workers who struck Monday were reported returning to their jobs and conditions were approaching normal.

Strikers Dispersed by Madrid Police

Madrid, Nov. 17 (AP)—Heavy patrols of police and civil guards dispersed groups of striking workmen, not yet returned to their posts, with little difficulty today, although in some cases it was necessary to charge them.

Residential district workers paraded shouting, "Down with prohibition! Down with the dry laws!" because the taverns and drinking resorts were closed.

30 ARKANSAS BANKS CLOSE

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 17 (AP)—Officials of the A. B. Banks Company, Arkansas financial institution, announced today that 30 banks in the state with which the company is affiliated have suspended payments to depositors for a period of five days.

Eight other affiliated banks advised the A. B. Banks Company they were remaining open. The company officials said they had not heard early today from 11 others in the affiliation as to what action they were taking.

The decision of the board of directors of the American Exchange Trust Company of Little Rock, the largest bank in the State, to suspend payments and close for five days resulted in the temporary closing of the others, the Banks Company announced.

A. B. Banks, president of the American Exchange Trust Company, is interested in the other affiliated banks. Arkansas banking laws provide a bank may suspend payments to depositors for five days and reopen at the end of that period or be placed in the hands of the State Banking Department.

Six Kentucky Banks Fail to Open Doors

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 17 (AP)—Closing of the National Bank of Kentucky here today was followed by five smaller banks closing as a precautionary measure, four here and one in Franklin, Ky. Presidents of other banks in the city asserted their institutions were solvent.

The National Bank of Kentucky, of which James B. Brown is president, was placed in the hands of Paul Keyes of the federal comptroller general's office as receiver. It's announced resources were $54,000,000.

In Louisville slightly more than normal numbers of patrons gathered at the other banks but nothing approaching a "run" was noted.

Priest Stands in Rain to Feed N. Y. Jobless

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Standing bareheaded in the rain for hours, Franciscan brother yesterday handed out—one by one—1375 10-cent pieces and as many sandwiches to an interminable line of penniless, bedraggled men in front of the Church of St. Francis of Assisi.

Irish Barracks Damaged by Bomb

Bantry, Irish Free State, Nov. 17 (AP)—A bomb was thrown at the Civic Guards barracks in Glengariff near here today damaging the front of the building.

Sergt. Boyland and three guards in the barracks escaped injury. A woman's bicycle was found abandoned near the gate. The motive for the bombing was not known.

GRAIN BOARD TO HALT WHEAT SELLING

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The grain stabilization corporation was in the wheat pit today determined to "stop panicky selling and to prevent further unwarranted declines in domestic prices."

After conferring with George S. Milnor, general manager of the corporation, Chairman Legge of the farm board announced last night that demoralization in world grain markets had made it necessary for the corporation again to enter the market.

For the second time since the agricultural marketing act, which authorized its creation, the corporation was extending its resources in an effort to insure American farmers against world price levels pushed down by liberal offerings from surplus areas.

In its first stabilization operation, for the 1929 season, the corporation purchaser something more than 60,000,000 bushels of wheat with the pledge that none of it would be sold for less than the purchase price. With this amount off the market, the corporation now has taken to the pit again—this time to prevent further declines in 1930 wheat, which has sagged almost continuously since it began moving to market.

Legge insisted further declines would not be justified by domestic conditons.

Man Quits Tobacco to Become Deacon

Atlanta, Nov. 17 (AP)—Having used tobacco on the advice of a physician, H. L. Gurley of Brockton, Ga., has taken a pledge of abstinance, as Methodist Church statutes require, and has been ordained a deacon.

Radio Fans Win in Fight to Kill Static Made by Motor

Rumford, Me., Nov. 17 (AP)—Edward Dupil, store manager, pleaded guilty to a charge of radio interference in court today and was fined the costs of court, $12.25.

Radio fans complained that worn brushes in the motor of Dupil's electric refrigerator sent out so much static it ruined radio reception. The motor has been fixed.

SPEAKER'S SEAT WILL BE WOBBLY

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Regardless whether the Republicans or Democrats gain initial control of the next House of Representatives, the speakership will be in constant peril.

Although it has never been done, the speaker may be removed at any time by a majority of the members, and a successor elected. In view of the close balance between the parties in the House in the seventy-second Congress — now standing at 218 Republicans and 216 Democrats, with one Farmer-Labor member—leaders on both sides are giving close study to the possibilities.

Insurgent groups would be potential determining factors in the seating or unseating of the speaker as long as the membership remains so closely divided. Both Speaker Longworth and his Democratic rival, Representative Garner of Texas, might occupy the post of speaker at different times. Then there is a possibility that neither may serve, but that some other member may be brought into the limelight of the gavel wielder.

LEAGUE SEEKS CO-OPERATION TO END SLUMP

Geneva, Nov. 17 (AP)—The second effort of the League of Nations to alleviate the world's economic troubles by international co-operation began here today with convening of a conference looking to concerted international economic action.

When this conference met last March it was composed almost exclusively of representatives of European states, and was called the "tariff truce" conference. Failing of its initial purpose at that time the conference succeeded in drafting a commercial convention embodying their efforts at economic co-operation in a very limited way.

The convention bound signatories not to raise the present tariffs nor to impose new ones without notifying other parties affected by the proposed change and giving them an opportunity to protest. Both Germany and Poland, since signing the convention, have raised certain tariffs.

The session, beginning today, will attempt to improve, extend and perpetuate principles of this convention. Another major point of the agenda of the meeting today is consideration of the desire of the European agricultural states, as expressed at a Warsaw conference last summer, for preferential rates for entry of their products into other European states.

Application of the most favored nation clause and effects of Soviet dumping of grains are expected to receive some attention.

INDIAN PRINCES WARN BRITAIN

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Sir Tej Badahur, Sapru, first Indian spokesman at the Round Table conference which went to work at St. James' palace today, declared British statesmanship was on trial before the eyes of the world.

"An anxious, restless India is watching you," he said to Prime Minister MacDonald seated in the big red seat of chairman. "We have come amidst the jibes of our countrymen and already have been called traitors to the Indian cause.

"It is perfectly natural that we should seek freedom, but freedom as an integral part of the British nation. We want and are determined to achieve the status of equality—equality with other nations of the British commonwealth, equality which gives us a government responsible to popular vote."

The Indian princes, he said, are determined to seek a solution of the Indian problem rather than protection of their own rights.

The first business put before the conference by a committee of 16 named to assist Premier MacDonald in conduct of the sessions included the question whether the sitting should be public or private.

Milk Poisoning Plot Bared in Washington

Washington, Nov. 17 (INS)—Police today were investigating a milk poisoning plot discovered in a residental section. According to drivers of two milk wagons, poisoners poured a muddy-colored and odorous chemical over cases of milk while they were in apartment houses. Police believe a milk racket may be operating here.

Mosquitoes Blamed in "Black Tom" Blast

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mosquitoes are blamed by Ervin J. Smith, private detective, for the Black Tom munitions explosions in New Jersey in 1916, of which Germany has been absolved by the mixed claims commission. Smith says workmen were so bothered by insects they built a fire and a freight car loaded with shells got ablaze.

Ford to Open New Plant in Mexico

Mexico City, Nov. 17 (INS)—A $1,000,000 assembly plant, capable of turning out 100 cars daily, will be opened here next month by the Ford Motor Car Co., it was announced today. The plant will pay the highest factory wages in Mexico. Only Mexican labor will be utilized.

7290 MILES around the Indianapolis track at 55 miles an hour
—like racing full-throttle up hill for a whole week.

A whole year's driving in less than a week!

FOR five and a half days and nights, through rain, through blistering heat, three cars—standard 1931 model sedans—racked around and around the torturing Indianapolis Speedway, testing the new Socony Motor Oil.

In less than a week, at close to a mile-a-minute pace, they each covered 7290 miles—a whole year's mileage (AAA averages) . . . the equivalent of driving up hill, throttle wide open, all the way!

The test was made under the strict supervision of the American Automobile Association. The result was even beyond the expectations of the Socony engineers after two and a half years' work!

They already knew it was a great COLD WEATHER OIL. Tested at 6 below zero, in an airplane flying over four and three-quarters miles high, this 100% Paraffine Base dewaxed oil flowed freely.

But the Indianapolis Test proved something more.

It proved that this new oil does not decompose or break up, no matter how savage the HEAT of an automobile engine.

It proved that this new oil consistently maintains the proper "body" at abnormally high engine temperatures, giving perfect piston seal, maximum power, and minimum fuel and oil consumption; and that the new refining process used in its manufacture reduced to a minimum all harmful elements which cause carbon, gum and sludge.

You, too, will find that the new Socony Motor Oil is noticeably "oilier"—better—in fact, the ideal lubricant for eliminating wear in your motor.

We urge you to try it today. In any season it is even better for your car than Socony "Aircraft."

Socony Winter Gear Oil, the superior lubricant for cold weather, insures proper lubrication and easy gear shifting. Switch to it today. And for a quick starting gasoline try Socony Special plus Ethyl. Remember, too, the importance of lubrication during the winter months. Take no chances. Dinner for Debutante Planned

Mr. and Mrs. S. Prescott Wolcott to Entertain for Miss Barbara Bremer

MR. AND. MRS. S. PRESCOTT WOLCOTT are giving a dinner at the Somerset Club for Miss Barbara Bremer, on the evening of December 17, before the Lathrop Brown dance for their debutante daughter, Miss Halla Brown, which takes place at the Hotel Somerset. Miss Camilla, another daughter who will be presented next season, will return from college to attend her sister's debut and will also appear in the French play to be given by the Harvard Club, Le Cercle Francais, on December 11 and 12. Mrs. Brown includes among her relatives Mr. S. Hooper-Hooper and various members of the Ames family.

MR. AND MRS. ADOLPH LEEDS are giving a luncheon today at the Ritz-Carlton to present their daughter, Miss Felice. Miss Leeds attended Beaver Country Day and during the summer has been attending the Gloucester School of the Little Theater. Debutantes who are attending the luncheon are the Misses Ann Peterson, Harriet Blake, Mary Lee Ware, 2d, Sarah Palfrey, Lydia Draper, Elizabeth Wells, Jane Brown, Barbara Percival, Elizabeth Mercer, Priscilla Simonds, Jeanne Sargeant, Susan Robins, Alice Burrage, Grace Madden, Betty Dwinnell, Alice means and Martha Means. Judith Chase, who recently returned from New York and is stopping at the Ritz, is also a guest.

THE MARRIAGE OF MISS FRANCES FAIRCHILD to Herbert Bramwell Shaw took place Friday at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's stepfather, Mr. John W. Little, New York. Mr. Shaw's mother, Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw, lives at 181 Marlborough st., Boston. Miss Fairchild's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Fairchild, was one of the first of the society women to take up a business career, giving her efforts to the photographic studio which bore her name. The newly married couple will live in Ireland.

Committee Named for Reception to Honor 'Miss Europe'

MR. RUSSELL CODMAN, JR., and Mrs. William Lowell Putnam are among the prominent people who are on the general committee for the grand ball and reception in honor of Miss Europe, Miss Alice Diplarakou of Athens, in Symphony Hall on Thursday, Nov. 27 from 8:30 to 1 a. m. The young woman won the beauty contest in Europe and will be the guest of Capt. George Demeter of the State Staff. One of the attractions on the program is the selection of "Miss New England," "Miss Ahepa" and Miss "Gapa."

MRS. SAMUEL ELIOT OF Boston has joined Mrs. Charles Bradley of Convent, N. J., at the St. Regis Hotel in New York.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE PEABODY GARDNER are registered at the Berkshire, New York, and Mrs. Matthew Luce has joined Mrs. E. Bruce Merriman of Providence at the Weylin Hotel.

MRS. JOHN GARDNER COOLIDGE and Miss Anne C. Stevens have gone to New York where they are at the Ambassador Hotel for a short stay.

THERE IS A WHISPER about that Miss Ella Snelling's interest in the sport of kings is not entirely confined to the love of horses. James Simpson, Esq., racing enthusiast and stable owner of Chicago, has been most attentive all summer and we hear that it is only a matter of time before Miss Snelling becomes Mrs. Simpson, 2d.

MISS MARY LEE WARE, WHO is giving a tea-dance for her namesake, Mary Lee, 2d, tomorrow at The Country Club, will be hostess later in the week at a luncheon for a number of the debutantes at her beautiful, old brownstone house on Brimmer st.

First Junior Supper Dance January 16 at Copley-Plaza

THE FIRST OF THE JUNIOR supper dances will take place in January at the Copley-Plaza, on the 16th, under the management of Mrs. Hugh D. Scott of Wellesley. The senior committee for the dance comprises Mesdames John Ames, J. Gardner Bradley, Arthur Devons, J. Murray Forbes, John Hunnewell, Henry Lyman, Thomas P. Lindsay and Roger Wolcott, Jr. On the junior committee are Mrs. Richard C. Storey, Jr., Miss Edith Wolcott, Miss Mary Flagg, Miss Agnes Boardman, Miss Betty Bartlett and Mrs. Hollis Hunnewell. The men assisting are Messrs. John Lawrence, Philip Watts, George Rice, Eliot Putnam, George Weld and Malcolm W. Greenough.

Prominent in Young Set Activities

MR. RUSSELL CODMAN, JR., who is on the committee for the grand reception and ball for "Miss Europe" to be held at Symphony Hall, November 27, is shown with Miss Frances Goodwin, daughter of Augustus Goodwin, who is an ardent racing enthusiast and attends all horse events throughout the United States and abroad.

EARLY IN JANUARY MRS. VANDERBILT CHURCH is leaving Newport for her annual visit to California. She is shipping her horses out the day after Christmas and will make her own departure the 8th of January. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Giraud P. Elliott and her daughter.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER L. SCAIFE have been entertaining Rafael Sabatini, the Anglo-Italian author, at their home in Milton. This is Mr. Sabatini's first visit to America.

MRS. JOHN NICHOLAS BROWN has closed her Newport villa, Harbour Court, and has been making a short visit to New York before coming to Boston, where she will spend the winter at her home at 18 Commonwealth ave. Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Jr., who were recently married, have postponed their European trip and will reside at the Brown house on Benefit st., Providence, this winter.

4th District to Meet Tomorrow at Dorchester Club

Representatives of 24 clubs will meet tomorrow at the Dorchester Woman's Clubhouse, Center st., for the fourth district conference of the State Federation. Greetings from the president of the Dorchester Woman's Club, Mrs. Maurice G. Luce, will open the all-day session, after which Mrs. David A. Westcott, district director, will preside.

Mrs. Carl L. Schrader will speak on pertinent issues of the State Federation. Round-table discussions between state and local chairmen of the district, will feature the morning session.

Mrs. Azel A. Packard, who last year headed the State Federation, and this year represents Massachusetts as director in the General Federation of Women's Club, will make the principal afternoon address. She will be followed by Miss Marion L. Decrow, Girl Scout Movement exponent, who will discuss "The Value of Scouting for Girls." The presentation of a play by members of the Thursday Fortnightly Club of Dorchester will close the conference.

Rebellion Against Black Starts in Paris

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL
Universal Service Special Cable

Paris, Nov. 17—There seems to be the beginning of a rebellion starting hereabouts against the dictum that black, black and more black is the shade Milady must accept for fashionable winter wear.

Although there are probably more than 200 well-known dressmaking establishments in Paris, the fact is that when a bare handful of the leading houses reach an accord to launch a certain shade or cut the forces of the lesser houses follow suit. The result this winter has been that the fashionable meeting centers have been most uncolorful to look at.

TWO REBELLED

But two well-known Parisians this week rebelled. They were the Baronne de la Fontagne and the Baroness De Hennig De Michaelis, who, teaing at the Ritz, formed a bright spot of color in the sombre assemblage. The Baroness de la Fontange was in a bottle-green crepe gown, matching her cloth hat and bag, while the Baroness de Hennig de Michaelis wore a Burgundy red chiffon gown under a full-length Breit-Schwanze coat. Her hat matched her dress and had a narrow strip of black fur encircling the crown.

Another group of notables enlivened the lounge the other morning. It was a circle of Greece's unemployed royalty. While fashionable French and American hostesses don regularly severe black with an occasional modish contrast of turquoise blue, the royal group was a mass of gay colors under fur coats of all sorts, from mink to beige baby lamb, with their toques and berets colorfully blended. Both rooms were crammed with tables, while some even dined at the bar.

PRINCE IS GUEST

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Benton, who had as their guest the Prince of Wales, immaculate in a well-cut full evening dress with a gardenia in his button hole. The hostess looked charming in a pale mauve ensemble with a plain bodice and the skirt falling in Grecian lines.

His Highness the ex-Khedive of Egypt also entertained at a table for 12, while nearby Prince Lotfallah, the former Egyptian minister to Rome, entertained a party of 10.

Mrs. Welley Hart, the former Countess Bernsdorff, one of the most noted hostesses in Biarritz, Paris and London, gathered a small party of five. She looked quite elegant in a black crepe-de-chine gown with two strings of pearls. Madame Ganna Walska was in blue chiffon, her matching evening wrap trimmed with white fox. Others seen included Monsieur Pierre de Fouquieres of the French foreign office, Mrs. Cavendish Bentick and Mrs. John R. Drexel, Jr.

Clubs United in Medford Work

Presidents of Five Women's Organizations Plan for Greater Activity

By NANCY BREWSTER

Indicative of the interest and enthusiasm of Medford clubwomen toward the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, a Council of Presidents of the Federated Clubs of Medford has been organized for the first time.

The heads of five clubs were called together by Mrs. William J. Reilly, president of the Isabel Arnold Dame Music Club, at her home in Warren st., West Medford, and together they planned an organization that would serve the Medford clubs similarly as does the State Federation.

Mrs. Reilly was appointed chairman of the council and these presidents will serve in official capacities: Mrs. John Montgomery, West Medford Woman's Club, secretary; Mrs. Frank W. Pote, Medford Woman's Club; Mrs. Michael J. Pigott, Thursday Fortnightly Club; and Mrs. H. S. MacNish, Hillside Mothers' Club.

The council will represent a combined membership of the five clubs of 874. Communal problems, civic duties and the like will be argued before the council with a wholesome and ultimate view of community assistance.

The Newton clubwomen have their federation; Quincy has its federation, although both are vital parts of the State Federation. That Medford should follow in similar footsteps indicates the progress, aims and aspirations of her clubwomen.

N. E. Federation Presidents to Be Guests at Luncheon

State Federation officials will play hostess to presidents of other state federations of New England at a luncheon next Thursday after which heads of New England club life will broadcast over Station WBZA from 1:30 to 2 p. m.

As chairman of the New England Conference of State Federations of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Omeron H. Coolidge will be the guest of honor at the Hotel Statler that day and will be introduced to Bay State clubwomen by their state head, Mrs. Carl L. Schrader. The visiting presidents will each speak on a topic representative of her own state federation's aim.

In addition to Mrs. Schrader, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker and Mrs. John H. Kimball, second and third vice-presidents, will attend the luncheon.

Interesting Route for Club Women to Phoenix, Ariz.

With thoughts of last June's General Federation Biennial at Denver still in the minds of American clubwomen, plans are already underway for the General Federation Council meeting, scheduled for Phoenix, Ariz., next April. Miss Maud Sumner, former president of the New Bedford Women's Club, has been appointed chairman of transportation for Massachusetts, and announcement comes from her that a very interesting itinerary for the trip is to be had.

One route describes 100 hours by water to New Orleans, and from there over the Apache trail to Phoenix. Bay State clubwomen planning to make the trip are asked to communicate with Miss Sumner for further information.

Knit Suits Perfect for the Games

By ANN ARDEN

MODEL from THE WOMEN'S SHOP OF DELANO

THIS SEASON the knit suit has emerged from a work-a-day affair to become a chic costume of trim lines, smart style, and vivid color. It can be anything you like, go anywhere you like—play bridge, attend most college day time activities, enliven the football stadiums, and be given the seal of approval as the correct costume for Midget Golf—really it is amazingly serviceable. For the week-ender, it offers limitless possibilities.

THE COSTUME pictured has a youthful, jaunty air. Boucle knit, three piece, toned red-brown, the straight skirt has slight ripple flare below the knees. The sleeveless over-blouse really does blouse over snugly fitting hip band, and is horizontally striped—red, brown, yellow and cream. The pert bolero top of brown ties at center front from knit neckband, and has kimono sleeves to which are attached under sleeves of the striped boucle.

THE TIP-TILT hat in brown felt has sharply upturned brim in front, its low side accented with brown wing.

IF YOU have an ear to the ground to discover whether this or that or the other will be "good" for the coming season you must have heard the rumble of orange color. It presents a gay accent with the darker colors and is especially to be found scattered here and there in tweeds and other woolens. Twists and nubs of orange enliven the most sedate woolen mixture.

THE ENGLISH, it seems, in the good old English manner, are all wrought up over the correct clothes to wear for the midget golf craze which is sweeping the country. We paused to chortle when we read the article because we remembered having jocosely asked (only a few months past) if some one would create a fitting costume for wear on the pint size courses in our own fair land!

STILL ON this gadgety golf—you may be interested to know that the knitted frock is considered the correct costume. It is nicely between full golf trappings, which look a bit silly, and the elaborate garb some enthusiasts elect.

Many Clubs to Hold Business and Social Meetings Tuesday

Among the meetings to be held tomorrow are:

Massachusetts Civic League, 3 Joy st., featuring the third of a series of legislative luncheons. "Industrial Health" will be discussed by Dr. Albert S. Gray, chief of division of occupational diseases, Connecticut State Health Department.

Medford Women's Club will hear Prof. Gorham W. Harris on "Is Science Really a Blessing to Mankind?" at a 2:30 p. m. meeting at the clubhouse.

Professional Women's Club will hold its regular monthly luncheon at the Hotel Statler with an imposing list of guests and speakers for the afternoon program. Mrs. Mabel Mann Jordan will preside.

Marblehead Woman's Club will hear Mrs. Clayton D. Lee on "Best Sellers," not a book talk either. These clubwomen meet at 2:30 p. m. in the high school assembly hall.

DeNormandie Women's Club of Norfolk House Center holds its big night tomorrow with the opening of "sunshine boxes," the special attraction. These boxes contain pennies saved during the summer by clubwomen for the foundation fund quota. Mrs. Frederick J. Soule will announce the total.

Nahant Woman's Club will enjoy a musical afternoon tomorrow for which Mrs. Frank L. Dodge and Mrs. Charlotte Chamberlain are the hostesses.

Gardner Woman's Club is sponsoring a Federation Day program of which Mrs. Louisa H. Hartshorn and Miss Rena E. Barron are in charge. A State Federation official will outline Federation policies to this organization of 375 women of which Miss Rachel Brooks is the president.

Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Club will hold a business meeting in Brown hall at 8 p. m., followed by a musical entertainment. Mrs. George Hooper is chairman of the program and Mrs. John D. MacPhee, of the hostesses.

Fashion Count Results in Amos Parrish Articles

If you are a well dressed woman and you happen to detect someone studying your costume intently this week, you may feel complimented, because that someone who is observing you is a "fashion scorer," one of a large group of reporters engaged in taking a nation-wide fashion count under the direction of Amos Parrish, internationally known fashion expert.

In a score or more cities this week, keen eyes are noting how many women are wearing black costumes, wrap around coats, off-the-face hats, suede shoes, dull calf handbags, pearl chokers and collecting other data that will prove women's preferences in the apparel items and accessories that are in the mode.

This fashion count will prove, excluding such local peculiarities as the use of Boston bags, the Swedish preference for pink in Milwaukee, the bizarre costumes in Hollywood and other regional trends, just what the women of good taste choose to wear for various occasions.

The daily "What's In Fashion" articles by Amos Parrish in the Boston Evening American are based on such fashion check-ups as the one being conducted this week. It will interest Boston women to know that they are to be part of this style compilation.

Christmas Sale of Music Association to Be Held Friday

The annual Christmas sale of the Women Musicians' Association will be held next Friday at 2:15 at the League House, 1 Arlington st. Philanthropies of the club will profit by the affair.

Mrs. Mary G. Reed, former president of the Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs, and Miss Greta Milos will present part of their Scandinavian recital. Hostesses for the afternoon will be Miss Frances Devers, Mrs. Ellen B. Newman and Mrs. Edith Atwell Whitney. On the committee in charge of the sale are Mabel Adams and Lenna Howe.

Rooming House Ass'n. to Hear Committee Reports Wednesday

Members of the Boston Rooming House Association, who for months have worked for local improvements, will hear reports of their progress at the regular meeting scheduled for Wednesday, 8 p. m., at 20 Union Park.

Mrs. Mary Snyder, president, will outline a program of community welfare to which the association has subscribed.

Following the business a food sale will be held, proceeds to be used for the association's philanthropies.

ELECTION WON BY PILSUDSKI IN POLAND

Warsaw, Nov. 17—Marshal Pilsudski, fiery Polish leader, emerged victorious from yesterday's parliamentary elections, his supporters capturing 247 out of 444 seats.

Thus he is in control of the house in which he commanded only 118 votes on dissolution last August.

Large though his gains were, however, they did not give him the hoped for two-thirds majority of 296 needed for purposes of amending the constitution. Government circles were confident that there will be enough supporters in the other camps to make up the needed votes.

RESULT OF VOTING.

On matters requiring more than an ordinary majority, it was said semi-officially, there will undoubtedly be enough adherents in the other parties to insure constructive work.

The official final results were given out this afternoon as follows:

Pilsudski supporters	247
Centro-Radicals	82
National Democrats	62
Ukranians and White Russians	21
Christian Democrats	13
Jews	9
Germans	5
Communists	5
Total	444

CLASHES IN STREETS.

Senate elections will take place next Sunday. The Diet, it was expected, will assemble within three weeks to consider the first of Pilsudski's proposed constitutional changes.

Serious election outbreaks occurred at Cracow, Lodz, in Posen and around Warsaw. Nationalist students and Socialists fought pitched battles in the streets of Cracow, where numerous casualties occurred. At Lodz, Nationalist students stormed the government party headquarters. In the province of Posen 100 rioters were arrested.

The offices of Hajnt, a Jewish Warsaw newspaper, were wrecked by a mob that invaded the premises, demolishing furniture and equipment. Five persons were injured during the disturbance.

63d Ballot Fails in Lawrence Race

Lawrence, Nov. 17 (AP)—For the second time in two weeks, the City Council today failed to elect a successor to City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy, resigned. Sixty-three ballots have been cast with none of the six candidates receiving a majority.

AIMEE McPHERSON, noted evangelist, as she appeared on her return to New York after a cruise in Southern waters, her recovery from a nervous breakdown still incomplete. She said reports of her party drinking in Canal Zone cabarets and of immigration troubles in Cuba were false. (I. N. R. photo.)

THIRD PARTY IN 1932, 'DRY'

Houston, Tex. Nov. 17 (AP)—Predicting the biggest prohibition fight in history will come in 1932, Mrs. Mamie White Colvin of New York told the 56th annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union last night a third party may arise to espouse the "dry" cause.

In an address of defiance to the "wets," Mrs. Colvin said:

"There will be a conflict two years from now such as we have never known. If both great parties should stand wet, the great leaders within these parties are saying there will be a new alignment, made up of Democrats of the South and "dry" Republicans of the North.

"Such a combination would 'sweep the country'."

Guardsman Sought

State police patrols were asked yesterday to search for Martin Lentz, Jr., a machinist, aboard the coast guard patrol boat General Greene.

AIMEE DENIES RUM PARTIES

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, returned yesterday on the liner Toloa from a cruise in the Caribbean with her recovery from a recent nervous breakdown still incomplete.

She charged that "some reporter" had pictured her party as drinking liquor in Canal Zone cabarets. This, she said, was false, as were rumors of difficulties at the canal and Havana.

Her face thin, eyes dark-circled, she clasped and unclasped her hands as she talked, and when she reached out to take a newspaper clipping her hand shook. In moving about the deck, which was slippery from the fog, she was supported by the purser and her nurse. She said she had lost 38 pounds during her illness.

MOTION TO FREE HEALY REFUSED

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—A motion to dismiss the indictment against Martin J. Healy and Thomas T. Tommaney, charged with accepting money for supporting George F. Ewald's appointment to the city magistrate's bench, was overruled today at the outset of their trial.

The dismissal was sought by Sidney Syme, chief of defense counsel, on the ground that no proper order of resubmission was obtained to present the base to the extraordinary grand jury, after the regular county grand jury had failed to indict.

Supreme Court Justice McCook also overruled Syme's motion that he be permitted to inspect the minutes of the grand jury. The task of selecting a jury from the blue ribbon panel proceeded slowly.

Norwegian Church Has Anniversary

Concord, Nov. 17—The Norwegian Evangelical Free Church on Lang st. celebrated the 10th anniversary of the opening of its present building with special services yesterday.

BORAH MIGHT FORCE EXTRA SESSION

Washington, Nov. 17 (INS)—An extra session of the newly-elected 72d Congress, in which the Republicans have a precarious paper majority of one in each house and a workable majority in neither, did not appear as remote today as it did last week.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, whose split with the White House is now wide and deep, has returned to Washington breathing belligerency and battle. Borah isn't saying that he favors an extra session after March 4, at least he isn't saying it yet, but he is saying with vigor that he doesn't propose to be "stampeded" in order to avoid one.

BACKED BY INSURGENTS

With President Hoover seeking an agreement between Republican and Democratic leaders to expedite legislation so as to make an extra session unnecessary, the attitude of Borah assumed considerable importance today. Most of the Senate insurgents usually go along with him, and some of the Democrats as well.

Borah has a penchant for extra sessions. It was he who prevailed upon President Hoover during the campaign of '28 to promise an extra session of the present Congress, and a good many of Mr. Hoover's troubles date from that event, according to his friends.

Now the Idahoan has returned to the capital favoring a program which, if enacted, undoubtedly will retard the routine business of the session and lead to a veritable Donnybrook fair.

FIGHTS FOR DEBENTURE.

He wants to see the debenture plan of farm relief put through. That is anathema to President Hoover. He wants to see Muscle Shoals disposed of according to the Norris bill. That is also opposed by Mr. Hoover. Borah is in favor of other things which are not highly regarded by the White House. With only three months in which to work, any extended fights over these questions undoubtedly will interfere with and probably endanger passage of the usual approriation bills, which must be enacted if an extra session is to be avoided.

Borah did say, however, he would take part in no filibuster in order to force Mr. Hoover's hands. He went even further—he denounced as "an exhibition of superlative impudence" the very idea that the Democrats and Progressives did not have just as keen a sense of their responsibility as the regulars.

ARMY CHOW FOR N. Y. JOBLESS

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—The "army of the unemployed" became more than a figure of speech today, when the rolling kitchen of the 307th Inf., U. S. A., began serving soup, coffee and cake to the jobless in mid-town Manhattan.

An army mess sergeant was in charge and there was food for more than 2000 persons, who quickly found their way to the vacant lot on which the rolling kitchen had been set up. Private firms donated the food.

It was believed to be the first time the army had taken active part in food relief for the unemployed in New York city.

Fast Rum-Runner Now Booze Hunter

Providence, R. I., Nov. 17 (AP)—The former rum-runner Good Luck, one of the fastest motor boats along the coast, said to do better than 40 miles an hour, today was enlisted in the coast guard fleet at New London to patrol rum row. The boat was forfeited to the government after she was captured with a cargo of liquor.

Boston American to Aid in Shopping Problems

What is "Mrs. Consumer's" attitude on buying in the present period of adjustment? How do today's shopping problems affect the woman who budgets expenses intelligently?

These problems in shopping are such a capital factor in the industrial life of Boston and New England that the Boston Evening American has carried out an investigation to determine just what are the existing opinions of these questions.

Outstanding women leaders in Massachusetts' thought and organizations have written important messages on these topics and beginning Thursday, Nov. 20, the American will begin publication of a series of these articles, under the heading "Making the Most of Today's Dollar."

AID TO PLANNING

The articles are to be published as a service to aid in sound planning on the part of the buying public and should prove helpful and interesting.

The attention of college students, business girls and co-workers in retail stores will be particularly focused on this series because of a contest which will be conducted in connection with it. In this contest a list of forty-four cash prizes, including a capital prize of $100, will be offered for the best letters of opinions on any ten of the articles.

Students at several colleges are to enter into this competition, which has the approval of presidents and deans of such institutions as Wellesley, Radcliffe, Emmanuel, Boston University, College of Business Administration and Jackson.

Associates of the Woman's Trade Union League, together with retail store and business office girls will also have an opportunity to compete for the prizes, separate awards of equal amounts having been arranged for all groups.

MRS. HURD FIRST

The first article, published next Thursday, is by Mrs. Stephen P. Hurd, state regent, Daughters of the American Revolution, and this will be followed by 16 or more articles, from which any 10 may be selected as a basis for letters in the "Shopping Economics" contest.

College students and business girls who plan to enter the contest should remember letters must be sent not later than Dec. 10, typewritten if possible, and from 300 to 500 words in length. Clippings of the 10 articles on which contestants' letters are based should accompany letters, and name, address, college or business affiliation written on the first sheet. Checks will be mailed to winners Dec. 16. Contest letters should be addressed to the "Shopping Economics Editor," 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

New Wing and Motor Will Boost Lindy's Speed

Los Angeles, Nov. 17 (AP)—Carl Squier, general manager of the Lockheed Aircraft Company, revealed today Col. Charles A. Lindbergh would come to Los Angeles soon to have his low-wing monoplane fitted with a new type of wing, a larger motor and a disappearing landing gear.

The improvement, Squier said, will increase the speed of Col. Lindbergh's plane approximately 50 miles an hour, making its top speed 225 miles an hour.

Squier said he spoke to Lindbergh by telephone at Princeton, N. J., and the flier said he would arrive within three weeks.

Dispatches from the East recently said Lindbergh was planning a South American flight.

Secret development and successful testing of the new wing—constructed on Col. Lindbergh's orders—have been completed at Burbank, Cal., after nine month's work. It will permit the landing wheels to be folded into the wing.

A 605-horsepower motor will replace the present 425-horsepower engine, it was understood.

Squier said Col. Lindbergh told him:

"Our desire to increase the speed of our airplane does not mean that we are going out after any transcontinental or other long-distance speed records."

Auto Takes Plunge Into Muddy River

WHEN POLICE found this automobile in Muddy river last night, the headlights still on, they could find no trace of the driver. The car is registered to J. Francis Power of 252 Putnam ave., Cambridge. It went over a 20-foot embankment. (Staff photo.)

Serum Cure for Infantile Paralysis Found in Monkeys

Paris, Nov. 17 (US)—A new serum said to cure infantile paralysis has been produced by Dr. Auguste Pettit after 12 years of research, a statement from the Pasteur Institute declares.

There are two methods of preparing the "anti poliomyelitis" serum, one through the medium of horses and the other through large monkeys. The animals, it is stated, suffer no pain whatever.

It is far more difficult to procure a supply of monkeys than it is to find one of horses, but the serum produced by the monkey is considered more efficacious than that produced by horses. The monkey serum, also, takes less time to prepare.

Before working with monkeys, Dr. Pettit made the serum by utilizing the convalescents from an epidemic of infantile paralysis that struck France in 1917.

HUNT FOR BODY IN CANAL HALTS

Turners Falls, Nov. 17—Grappling for the body of Albert E. Gordon of Greenfield, whose car plunged off the canal bridge Saturday, was halted today on account of the swift current.

Gordon was the only occupant of the car and is believed to have been swept to his death as he tried to escape.

The water is 20 feet deep and draining would threaten the light and power of several towns.

Police believe Gordon's body may have been carried into the Connecticut river.

Snow Halts Plane

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 17 (AP)—Reports of snow storms farther north caused the large German airplane G-38 to land here today on its flight from Le Bourget, France, for Dessau, Germany.

DESERTED AUTO IN MUDDY RIVER

An automobile registered to J. Francis Power of 252 Putnam ave., Cambridge, plunged from the Fenway bridle path on the Audubon rd. side over the 20-foot embankment into Muddy river late last night, its driver fleeing before the police reached the spot.

Charles Schinetti, chauffeur for District Fire Chief Stickle, saw the machine with its headlights lighting the water, and notified headquarters and the Back Bay police station. Sergt. Harold Watkins found the front wheels and hood of the machine buried in the sand and bushes at the river bank supporting the car to an extent.

Police believe the driver mistakingly turned off the Fenway road into the bridal path because of the heavy mist and then suddenly found himself dropping into the river.

FASCISTS GAIN IN PRUSSIA

Berlin, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Fascist party made phenomenal gains in the free city of Danzig and cities in East Prussia where municipal elections were held over the week-end.

The Fascists counted 34,000 votes in yesterday's polling, against 2130 in 1927 at Danzig.

In Baden the Fascists increased their municipal council mandates from nothing to 28 in Karlsruhe, and in Kehl from nothing to 21.

In Mecklenburg the Fascists won eight city council seats in Neubrandenburg. At Rostock the Fascists jumped from three seats to 15. Two persons were seriously injured in election disorders at Rostock.

Cranberry Time Now Here With Jelly and Sauce

From Martha Lee's Monday Morning Broadcast Over Station WLEX

ALL YOU folks who have been putting off your cranberry buying until Thanksgiving time, prepare now for an orgy of these daintily tart favorites.

Martha Lee

Real, honest-to-goodness Cape Cod natives, these glowing fruits, crisp with the first touch of frost, bring to your table something of the icy tang of New England's rugged coast, and impart to your heavy holiday meal a grateful bit of tartness most welcome, both for its delightful taste appeal and its cheerful rosy color. Plain cranberry sauce or cranberry jelly still retains prestige as the old-time stand-by for the Thanksgiving dinner, but if you want to do a little experimenting, and appreciate a change from the too usual, why not try some of these delicious cranberry variations I have for you today?

Just to keep up the tradition, I will give you directions for making a cranberry sauce, but after that, prepare for something new.

TEN MINUTE SAUCE

One quart cranberries, two cups boiling water, two cups sugar. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes; skim, add the berries and cook, without stirring, until they are transparent. Five minutes' cooking over a hot fire is usually time enough to make sauce clear. Put into sterilized jars and seal while hot, or, if to be served at once, pour into dish and set aside to cool.

CRANBERRY CHUTNEY

Three cups water, one cup mild vinegar, four cups sugar, one and one-half cups raisins.

Boil ten minutes. Add three-quarters cup of sliced candied or preserved ginger, the juice of one lemon. Cook five minutes. Stir in one pound of cranberries and boil ten minutes. Put in glass jars.

CRANBERRY CONSERVE

Place one quart of chopped cranberries (be sure you save the juice) in a saucepan with one cup of water, the grated rind of one orange and the edible pulp and juice of two oranges. Now add one cup of chopped seeded raisins. Cook 15 minutes. Add two and one-half cups of sugar and boil five minutes. Lastly, stir in one-half cup of chopped nuts.

GLAZED CRANBERRIES

Four cups cranberries, two cups of sugar.

Select sound, large cranberries and wash well. Put into shallow pan, one layer only, and cover with sugar. Bake in moderate oven until clear and tender. Cranberries done in this way will hold their shape and can be used in place of candied or maraschino cherries for garnishing.

I have other cranberry variations that I would be glad to share with you on receipt of request in the usual way.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

Visitors Are Welcome

We are still being asked if it is all right to bring a visitor to the classes, and our unanimous answer is, "Yes, by all means. It is not only right, but just what we want you to do."

Just mention at the door when you check your attendance that you have a visitor with you, and we are always more than glad to welcome any of your friends who would like to look in at the cheery class room and sniff the aroma of real cooking. A visitor now means a member some other time, so the more the merrier.

St. Ambrose Church to Hold Fete Tuesday

The annual fall entertainment of St. Ambrose Church, Dorchester, will take place tomorrow evening at Fields Corner theater. The newly organized St. Ambrose boys band of 20 pieces and the St. Ambrose fife, drum and bugle corps both under direction of Rev. William L. Gross, will play. The program also includes the talking picture, "Disraeli."

Clean Silver Easy Way

Silver getting dark and cloudy? Hate the thought of staining your fingers and spending hours polishing fine plate or silver ware?

I've joyful news that it really isn't necessary. Just call at Martha Lee's office for a novel silver cleaning plate made by a famous cleaning powder company. You put two quarts of hot water in a pan or kettle (not aluminum) and place one silver cleaning plate in the bottom of the kettle.

Pile your knives, forks, spoons, candle sticks, tea pots, etc., on top so that the water covers them. Leave until tarnished places disappear, take out and dry vigorously with a soft cloth.

There is no soap in this chemical plate, so your silver has no greasy streaks to mar it. In putting the silver in the kettle, be sure each piece touches the cleaning plate or touches a piece that does come in contact with the cleaning plate. Will not harm your finest plate or silverware.

We have only a few of these plates on hand, so ask early. No charge, of course.

Thanksgiving Lessons Ahead

Come one, come all! Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon in the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery, will be devoted to the mysteries of Thanksgiving cookery, with a lot of the important appurtenances and what-nots.

For the Thanksgiving dinner the turkey is, of course, the mainstay and ballast. No homemaker would consider her dinner complete without him, and no family gathering would feel that it had properly expressed the true Thanksgiving spirit without the traditional symbol of the day's material meaning.

Ever and anon, when turkey prices soar, we may decide that a roast of pork will do as well, and the family heroically agrees that it isn't what you eat, it's the spirit of the thing; but, down in their hearts, we know it isn't the same, and next year we pray that turkey will be within the reach of Mr. Budget's cautious grasp.

But although the turkey is most important, other items in the Thanksgiving dinner require close attention, too, and Martha Lee will hold forth on many interesting variations that make the meal one of added historical and sentimental attraction.

To say nothing of the old faithfuls, brought forth and reviewed for the benefit of the new class of brides, bring your notebooks and pencils, because you can never remember all the good advice not found on the day's program which Martha is so expert in sandwiching in to the routine part of the lessons. We expect a record attendance, so come early and avoid the crush!

CHRISTMAS PUDDING

- 2-3 cup condensed milk
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 cup hot coffee
- 2 tbsp. gelatin
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. cloves
- 1½ cups raisins
- 1 cup chopped dates

Blend together condensed milk, hot water and coffee, and heat to scalding point. Add gelatin soaked in ½ cup cold water, and salt. Cool until it begins to stiffen, add lemon juice, spices, raisins and dates. Pour into large or individual molds. When firm, unmold and serve with custard or foamy sauce.

MAKE IT OVER

WHAT have you done with that old fur coat that you discarded several seasons ago? Is it worn and moth eaten? That will not make any difference to PARKER BROS. They will use the good places and create from them one of the fur jackets that are so new this season, and perhaps they will have enough left over for one of the quaint little muffs or fur trimming for your hat. It doesn't make any difference what kind of fur it happens to be, they will make you a jacket for $35 that you cannot tell from a new one. They also make over old "sets" of fur into swanky new collars and cuffs or a little muff and a smartly styled scarf. ($13.) Long fur coats will be entirely remade for $35 to $60, including lining, or just relined for $12.50 up, according to the material you select. Low prices on remodeling or making cloth coats and suits.

Unbleached Flour Favored in Martha Lee Kitchen

The all important ingredient in bread flour is gluten, so say foremost diet authorities. Any treatment of flour that damages the adhesive and sticky qualities of gluten is also damaging to the bread that is to be made from that flour.

This important gluten content is often damaged in the bleaching processes of most flours, and in order to make good bread it is well to be sure you buy unbleached flour.

If you are not familiar with the brand of unbleached flour we use in the Martha Lee Kitchen, just drop a line and I'll be glad to tell you more about it. We certainly do have good luck with it in everything from icebox rolls to patty shells.

Anne, Oh, Anne!

Now you're going to love this news! It's fairly tumbling over itself—in my excitement to get it out. You know Theresa Ford, 26 West St., where we bought those exquisite dresses—Well, she has a group of the most extraordinary dresses marked at $9.75! Silk, tweed and woolen dresses, covert cloth and tweed jacket suits—In sizes from 14 to 48—They're all individual frocks that usually are $18.50 and even more. Another group of odd sizes is marked at $5! I don't need to tell you about the quality of these dresses. Everybody knows Theresa Ford—and one hint that dresses of her quality and style are offered at $9.75 and $5 tells all that needs to be told. Her shop is on the fourth floor, you remember—Room 410, 26 West St., Fabyan Bldg.

Christmas Gift-Making

is in the air! "Feine" gifts will be everywhere! Jean is making a lamp shade that's simply adorable—and Babs is so enthused about the exotic French doll she's making! It does seem that everyone has the same idea this year—making Christmas gifts—Feine's is the most popular shop these days! They give competent instructions absolutely free of charge—And sell material at wholesale prices! Since the Days When Merchants on the Streets of ancient Bagdad cried "Old lamps for new," the search has gone on for the perfect lamp to lend an enchanted mellowness to familiar surroundings—Just today, Anne, I found at Filene's Gift Shop, on the balcony, the perfect set for your boudoir! It's five pieces — Some have tall, thin, graceful boudoir sticks with mirror bases—(that's quite the modern idea, you know). Others have pottery bases. All have soft toned, silk, pleated shades upon which your eyes rest contentedly, dreamily, with pleasure. Whose mellow light lures you to read—for every set has an exquisite bed lamp. Of course, they'd have to be truly feminine this season, that's why many are trimmed with lace or ribbon. They come in a variety of colors to match 'most any shade of enameled furniture or the conservative mahogany, walnut or maple. Soft rose—blue—orchid and green. One set intrigued me so much I decided to cut lunches this week and take it along home with me—it's in soft rose with the tall boudoir sticks. I know you'll agree with me, Anne, that these sets are the best lamp values in Boston at only $8.85 for the five pieces complete! Of course, there are cords, sockets and everything else lamps must have to be complete! Quick, Anne—Come to town and get one of these exquisite sets—The green would be simply charming in your room. Naturally, they'd make most acceptable Christmas Gifts. Don't forget, they are in Filene's Gift Shop on the balcony.

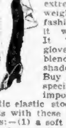
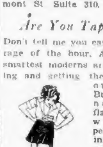
French Wrinkle Proof

Elastic Stockings—You can't "put your best foot forward" if your ankle is swollen or your leg disfigured by varicose veins. French stylists have just perfected an elastic stocking, extremely light in weight, and full fashioned to make it wrinkle proof! It "fits like a glove" — And it blends with any shade of hosiery. Buy where they specialize in both imported and domestic elastic stockings of ALL kinds with these important features:—(1) a soft sheer top that extends over the knee and fastens to the garter to prevent knee bulging; (2) no ankle wrinkles because it's knitted to fit; (3) the extended foot portion reduces swelling at the ankles. Lowest prices consistent with best quality. The ALLEN PAYSON CO., Dr. Saul, Chiropodist, Proprietor, 110 Tremont St. Suite 310, LIB. 6649.



Are You Tapping?

Don't tell me you can't—it's the rage of the hour, Anne! The smartest moderns are tap-dancing and getting their tapping outfits at Brine's! The navy blue flannel shorts with zipper opening — and white jean blouse sketched is a very swanky outfit! Just "made" for tap-dancing! The shorts are but $2.50 and the blouse $1.25! Brine's also have some adorable, one-piece Romper Suits—These suits are only $2—they come in all colors! Of course, you can't get the rhythm or the swing of tap-dancing unless you wear tap-dancing shoes—here's a real value—A $5 patent leather tie shoe for $3.95 including taps! Leather jackets in all the season's wanted colors that were $15 now $11.85! For all your sportswear go to Brine's, corner of Summer and Devonshire streets.



Contourette

Indispensable to the Correct Dresser. Elastic webbing ruins the figure, encouraging "spread." This Contourette is made WITHOUT elastic webbing, yet it is comfy to wear. Adjustable lacing at the side moulds into graceful lines and corrects faulty posture — suitable for large figures and slender. Not just "fitted over"; it is MADE FOR YOU. This garment can be imitated in a cheap "ready made," but CAPORN'S is the real individually made and uniformly satisfactory garment—an original invention. Remember! For approximately the price of an inferior ready-made you may have one MADE FOR YOU. Try one on without obligation. CAPORN, 110 Tremont St. (near Park), LIB. 6649. Also 230 Boylston St., Rm. 703 (near Arlington), COM. 5484.

Tap-Dancing!

Is not only great fun—but it helps to beautify the figure! It tapers thick ankles! Eighteen-day dieters have gone back to heavy lunches and desserts and taken up tap-dancing! It's really a marvelous way to reduce—And I know a wonderful school where you may learn this tricky step. It's the Paparone Studio of Dancing—and you'll learn under the personal direction of Mr. Leonard Earl Sprague, who has had much valuable experience coaching professional stars. Visitors are welcome any time at the tap-dancing classes. If you prefer ballroom dancing—you'll receive expert instruction there. You'll be surprised to see how easily you can learn to dance! The Paparone Studio of Dancing is at 1108 Boylston St. (near Mass. Ave.). Tel. Com. 8071. Catalog mailed on request.

A Dress Free!

That's the reward the New York Dress Mfg. Co., offers if you can duplicate their dresses elsewhere at their prices! You have thousands of dresses to choose from — And they are all marked at their two famous prices $3.75 and $6.75! Every dress is made to sell for three or four times that much—They're really sold to you retail at wholesale prices and less! Every new style detail in flat crepe, canton crepe, chiffon, velvet, tweed, wool crepe and also new prints that just came in today. Sizes 12 to 60. They also have wonderful hat values—the little hat sketched is only 99c! Other hats $1.74 and $2.85. Plenty of private dressing rooms — and salesgirls. Refunds within 5 days if tags are not removed. The New York Dress Mfg. Co., 515 Washington St., 2nd floor. This is their only store.

Carry Dresses in Town

to be cleansed because it's $1? Or because you get quick service? Not in this year of grace and Liederman Cleansing Shops! There's one in every neighborhood! And the prices are the same as in town! Any kind of silk dresses or coat — plain or fur trimmed — Also men's suits and overcoats cleansed for the one price $1! Your clothes receive individual attention—in one of the largest and most sanitary plants in New England! All garments insured against fire and theft at no extra charge. And they pay prompt attention to all parcel post packages. The House of Liederman, Inc., Main Office, 169-171 Norfolk Ave., Roxbury. Tel. Highlands 4000. A store in every neighborhood.

"Wish I Had a New dress but all I've got is $7," said Peg today. So I took her up to Springer's and found her one of the lovely heavy silk crepes—in a very new shade of garnet for $6.95! One of a very big group at that price—these dresses are now marked at less than half their regular price! New shades of garnet, brown, green and blue hang in gay array—and there are some beautiful black frocks. I stopped just to look at a very smart green frock with the new cowl neck and Russian tunic like the dress sketched—and was conquered. But, Anne, you can't blame me when a dress in the newest Fall style and color presents itself for $6.95! There's also a sale of gorgeous fur-trimmed cloth coats for only $49.50! Springer's are over 65 years in Boston—they're at 59 Temple Place, Blake Bldg., fourth floor.

There—That's

enough for today—Another week has gone and, sure enough, surprises have been popping out from every corner—I've given you news of some truly wonderful values this week, Anne. How does it happen, I wonder, that each week is a little busier, a little more interesting — than last. Put on your best bib and tucker—give your nose an extra touch of beauty—and meet me right away and we'll go exploring the shops. But if you can't make it—look for my letter next week and I'll have the latest news.

Devotedly yours,
Priscilla

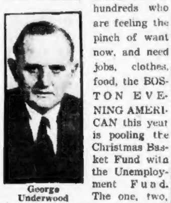
Big Christmas Fund Show at the Arena

Tonight is the night. The Arena is the place. Miss Charity is waiting there for you. You have the time, the place and the girl. Don't forget your date. You'll get a run for your money, see a flock of lightning-fast fistic encounters featured with a duel for the New England Lightweight Championship between Sammy Fuller and Andy Callahan which should warm the cockles of your heart. After a splendid evening's entertainment you will leave knowing that a large percentage of the money you paid for your ticket or tickets—the prices for the big show are most reasonable—will go toward giving some unfortunate soul, some suffering mother, father, sister or brother, some poor family facing want, hunger, cold, a Merry Christmas.

Not only a Merry Christmas, folks, not only a merry Christmas. Because of the unemployment situation, because of the hundreds who are feeling the pinch of want now, and need jobs, clothes, food, the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN this year is pooling the Christmas Basket Fund with the Unemployment Fund. The one, two, three or four dollars of yours will start working for Miss Charity mighty soon after you hand it in at the box office window.



George Underwood

It will work before Christmas, during Christmas, long after Christmas, or until the period of depression which is causing so much want, privation and suffering is over and the little old U. S. A. returns to a semblance of the great Republic our forefathers meant it to be.

Somebody's mother, would you see her starve? Somebody's father, seeking vainly for work, trudging from door to door trying to find a job that means shelter, clothes, food, warmth for the little ones—would you turn him away? Somebody's sister, somebody's brother, somebody's child, somebody's baby, cold, hungry, discouraged, disconsolate, friendless, perhaps groaning on a bed of pain—are you going to pass them by?

Of course you're not. Your heart will not let you. Your Faith—Charity is of all Faiths and helps all, regardless of color or creed or nationality—will not let you. Your Americanism will not let you turn a deaf ear to Charity's call.

You all know what great good the Christmas Fund of the Boston Evening American has done in past years. There always was probably always will be, considerable want and suffering and gloomy Christmases. But never was the suffering so acute, never was there so much want and privation, never so many unemployed, never so many poor as now. We see them all around us, the unemployed, the poor. We see honest men, intelligent men, ambitious men, unable to find employment no matter how hard they try, and we ask ourselves, can this be America, can this be New England, can this be the old Bay State, can this be Boston?

THE HELPING HAND

Folks, we can't stand idly by and let things drift much longer. Something has to be done. We've all got to give the helping hand. And the best way we know to start giving the helping hand is to dig down in the old pocket and come forth with the price of a ticket or tickets for the big Christmas Fund Boxing Show in the Arena, tonight.

To the sports fan there shouldn't be any need of making the Charity appeal. The title duel between Sammy Fuller and Andy Callahan alone is a magnet of attraction to sell out the Arena.

Everyone who has an iota of fistic knowledge knows that the rubber contest between Fuller and Callahan is going to be a pippin of a scrap.

The two other duels between the Lawrence southpaw and the North End Italian were lalapaloosas. In each of them the combatants fought like cornered bobcats from bell to bell.

In the first meeting between the pair Callahan, in the midst of a great winning streak, made Fuller his 21st victim, the victory clinching the New England lightweight title for the Lawrence Irishman.

Fuller turned the tables in the second engagement, that hectic embroglio at Tiverton, last summer, and captured the crown.

Do you think the third and rubber encounter between the fiery Italian and the scrappy young Irishman, tonight, is going to be a pink tea?

Guess again, brother. Guess again!

Fast and fierce as the other two duels were, they were nothing to what tonight's shindy will be. The rivalry between the two has been growing hotter, stronger, every minute. The crowd, the occasion, will spur them on as never before. Victory tonight will mean fame and fortune for the winner. Already the two managers are receiving offers from promoters all over the country.

James J. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, in a telegram complimenting the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN on the great work it is doing for charity, said that in his estimation the winner of tonight's New England Lightweight Championship Bout would be the logical opponent for Tony Canzoneri in a battle for the World's Lightweight Championship.

A match for the World's Lightweight Championship, shouldn't that be incentive enough to induce Callahan and Fuller to fight as never before?

BITTER RIVALS

But they don't need that incentive. The pair have come to love each other like their mother-in-law. They no longer can walk on the same side of the street.

If you want proof of it, just park yourself in the Arena and watch the fur and feathers fly tonight. It is called boxing. But if you yourself don't call it hotter than any corner, alley or back of the barn battle you ever saw in your gay young life then we'll eat our last summer's Katy.

Promoter Eddie Mack and the Argonne A. C. have done themselves proud in arranging accompanying cards.

"There isn't a match on the program," declares Eddie, "in which the boys will not be in there fighting like Kilkenny Kats. Because of the occasion and the big crowd I took particular care in matching the boys for I felt my reputation as matchmaker and promoter was at stake. Say, tonight's show is one that I myself would pay to watch, and pay five times as much as is being asked for tickets for this great Christmas Fund affair. There will be more real fighting crowded into three hours at the Arena this evening than Boston ever before saw in three months."

So there you are, folks. All roads will lead to the Arena, tonight. Keep your date with Miss Charity. Knock two birds off the cherry tree with the one stone. See the hottest, greatest fistic battles Boston ever had, and see them knowing that the money you paid for your ticket is going to give some poor unfortunate mother, father, brother or sister a Merry, Merry Christmas. All set? Let's go!

St. Mary Eleven Calls on President

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Members of the St. Mary's College football team of California, en route home after their sensational victory over Fordham University Saturday in New York, were greeted by President Hoover and were photographed with him on the south lawn of the White House.

HARVARD OUT TO REDEEM POOR YEAR

Coach Arnold Horween, facing the greatest week in Harvard's football calendar, decided to call off any Monday football, giving his players the entire day to rest at Myopia Hunt Club.

Tomorrow will find Horween and his squad again in togs, with the Cambridge mentor hammering away at football fundamentals. From then until the squad leaves, early Friday morning, for New Haven, football will be the sole diet of some 40 stout-hearted young men of Harvard.

The Harvard 1930 football season seems destined to end in disappointment. Playing a nine-game schedule, Harvard hung up three "push over" victories, lost four tilts, of which three were considered major opponents, and eked out a tie against an underrated little Southern aggregation.

Harvard's only chance to redeem its football fortunes, to their own satisfaction at least, is to beat Yale in the Bowl, Saturday.

Yale Heavy Favorite to Defeat Harvard

Yale, already a heavy favorite over Harvard, is not exactly a world-beating eleven itself. The Elis dropped an early season game to Georgia, had a narrow escape with Maryland, tied Army and Dartmouth walloped Alfred, as was expected, and then all but threw away the ball game to Princeton.

In Harvard and Yale this year there is the common trait of football mediocrity. The Big Two are almost in a class by themselves, and if it were not for the fact that these institutions have been rivals in some 57 years, a very small percentage of the 80,000 expected fans would battle for seats in the Bowl.

Still, Harvard and Yale can have, and frequently have had, the two worst teams in the country, and yet fill the Bowl to the brim. This is attributed to two chief reasons, one of which is the tremendous alumni numbers of the universities, and the other is that moss grown football axiom that anything can happen in a Harvard-Yale game.

A year ago, though Yale was almost a unanimous pre-game choice to win, Harvard romped home with a 10-6 victory. On another occasion Harvard's team came back from the grave to hold the greatest Yale team of all time to 0-0.

HARVARD ASKED TO 'CUT' ARMY

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Representative Fish, former Harvard football star, called upon his alma mater today to refuse to play the Army after next year until West Point adopts the three-year eligibility rule.

Writing to Athletic Director Bingham at Cambridge, the New Yorker said that since Harvard originated the three-year rule, it should not encourage games with the Army by continuing its contract.

He captained the Harvard eleven in under-graduate days. West Point is located in his district.

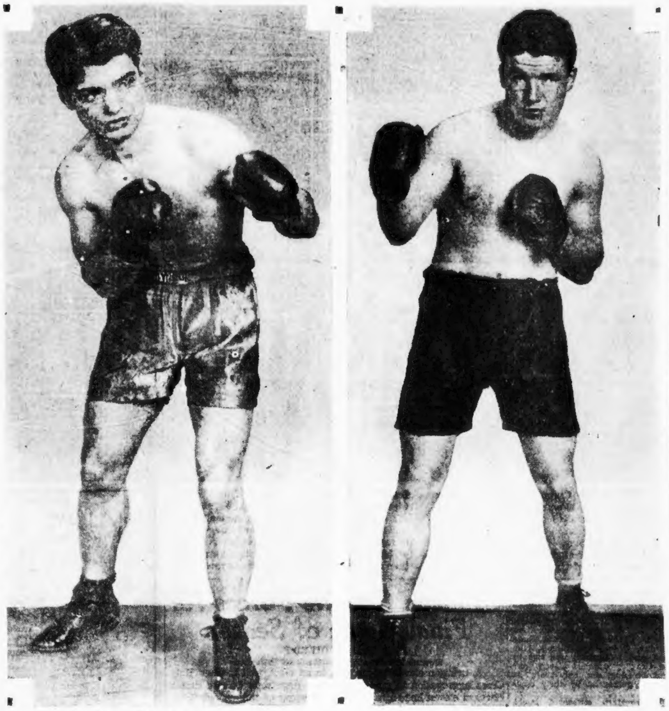
Harvard cannot adopt Rep. Hamilton Fish's suggestion that it refuse to play the Army until the latter changes its eligibility rules until 1936 at the earliest.

The Crimson's four-year contract with the Army doesn't end until next Fall, when the Crimson eleven will travel to West Point, and the rivals have already signed a new fouryear contract to begin in 1932.

Macaluso Eligible

Hamilton, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Head Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate today branded as unfounded a published story saying the university's stellar fullback and high point scorer of the country, Leonard Macaluso, had played for Colgate for four years, thus breaking the rules limiting a player to three years of gridiron activity.

FIGHTING PAIR CARRY KNOCKOUT DROPS



SAMMY FULLER

ANDY CALLAHAN

SAMMY FULLER AND ANDY CALLAHAN meet tonight at the Arena in a battle for the New England lightweight crown. Both boys pack a knockout in either hand, and experts predict the bout will not go the limit. Leather will fly fast and furious from the opening gong to the end. It will be one of the best fights in years. Fifty per cent of the gate will go to the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund to help the needy of Greater Boston.

BOSTON LOSES TITLE BOUTS

Washington, Nov. 17—New York won the award of the National N. A. A. U. senior boxing championship over Boston by a vote of 10 to 9, at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union here. A unanimous ballot then was cast for New York, but New England Association leaders considered carrying the battle to the floor of the convention tomorrow.

The boxing championship has been held in Boston annually for 28 years with two exceptions and it took a record bid of $18,000 by New York to win out.

A. A. U. Accepts Frank Wykoff's 100-Yard Mark

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The 42d annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union today formally accepted as a new American record the mark of 9 2-5 for the 100-yard dash made by Frank Wykoff of the University of Southern California on May 10 at Los Angeles.

Newton Coach Reinstated

The convention turned down five out of six applications for reinstatement by athletes suspended for professionalism.

The one application granted was that of Arthur S. Roberts, West Newton, Mass., who coached the Newton High School track team nine years ago, and accepted $5 "as a token of appreciation."

Michigan State's Lone Entry Wins I.A.A.A.A. X-Country

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Clark S. Chamberlain, sole entry of Michigan State, today won the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. cross country championship over a six-mile course in Van Cortland Park. His time was 30 minutes, 19 seconds.

Richard Wetwiler of Penn State finished second, 40 yards behind the Michigan State flier, who landed fourth place last year. Wetwiler's teammate Charles Leisinger, captured third place. Pending an official check, Penn State appeared to have captured the team title with finishers in second, third, fifth, ninth and 15th places.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fred B. Knepper and Frank A. McKenna, both of Manhattan College, finished in a dead heat for first place today in the annual freshman three mile cross country run of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. in Van Cortlandt Park.

Knepper and McKenna ran the course in 14 minutes 55 seconds. Walter Eisenbart, of Pittsburgh, was third in 14:56; Harold J. Courneen, of Syracuse, fourth in 14:57; Kenneth B. England, Penn State, fifth in 14:58, and Eugene Brown, C. C. N. Y., sixth, in 14:59.

Syracuse appeared the successor to New York University as the team champion.

Sonnenberg Fears to Give Sherry a Return Bout

Gus Sonnenberg says NO!

He doesn't want any part of Jack Sherry, Ohio State champion, in a return bout.

One can hardly blame Sonnenberg. If it had not been for the interference of Referee Leon Burbank, Sonnenberg would have been stripped of his championship when he clashed with Sherry in their finish bout at the New Boston Arena the other night.

Sonnenberg won the first fall, Sherry the second. Just when it looked as though Sherry was going to toss Sonnenberg for the deciding fall, Burbank pulled Gus off the ropes and went crashing to the canvas with the two wrestlers.

Sherry was on the outside at the time Burbank broke Gus' hold on the ropes. As a result, Jack fell on his back. Burbank gave Sonnenberg credit for a fall when the latter tossed his arms around the Ohio champion.

The fans were disgusted with the ruling. They booed Burbank and Sonnenberg.

Sonnenberg Owes Sherry Return Bout

Sherry is entitled to a return bout and if Sonnenberg fails to give him one he will be discredited by the public. Sonnenberg gained popularity by meeting all-comers. He will lose his standing if he continues to dodge Sherry.

Paul Bowser and a committee representing the Christmas Fund of the Boston Evening American has conferred with Sherry in regard to a return bout with Sonnenberg.

He has persistently dodged the match. Unless he changes his tactics the champion will lose many of his followers. Sonnenberg must defeat Sherry in decisive style before he can expect the public to restore him to his former standing.

And there are many fans who don't believe Gus can lick the Ohio champion.

Jack Conway Says Tonight's Bout Is Toss-Up

"It cannot be done," declared Jack Conway when asked to pick the winner of the Andy Callahan-Sammy Fuller New England lightweight championship bout which will be staged at the New Boston Arena tonight.

"Callahan and Fuller are so evenly matched," went on Jack, "that either is liable to crash through with a sensational knockout victory. I'm going to get up as close to the ring as possible tonight and hold my breath while the big punches fly."

Title Fight Tonight Reminds Mr. Boston of Old Times

Mr. Boston was talking about Andy Callahan and Sammy Fuller when he breezed into the Sporting Department today.

"I'll be in the press row when Callahan and Fuller breeze into action at the New Boston Arena tonight," said the veteran. "It is the best lightweight bout booked by a local club in years. The action will remind the oldtimers of the days when Matty Baldwin, Dave Deshler, Kid Goodman, Gilbert Gallant, Johnny Gallant, Frankie Mack and Joe Eagan were swapping blows.

"There is real rivalry existing between Callahan and Fuller. The boys have already furnished two stirring battles, and each plans to crash through with a knockout tonight.

"In addition to being a great boxing offering, 50 per cent of the profits of tonight's show will be donated to the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American. There are thousands of persons in need this year on account of the unemployment situation.

"So drop up to the Arena tonight, witness what promises to be a thrilling bout and also help the needy."

TEN ROUNDS

Andy Callahan, Lawrence, vs. Sammy Fuller, North End.

First bout, 8:15 p. m.

Main bout, 10 p. m.

By JACK CONWAY

Sammy Fuller against Andy Callahan in a 10-round punching duel for the New England lightweight championship at the New Boston Arena tonight for the Boston American's Christmas Basket Fund.

Eddie Mack's Argonne A. A. will promote this brilliant match. Mack is offering this banner attraction at popular prices so that every boxing fan in New England will have an opportunity to see the big punches flying through the air.

Jack Conway

The New Boston Arena can care for 15,000 fans. And every seat gives a perfect view of the ring.

It is expected there will be a capacity crowd on hand for the battle of New England's premier lightweights.

The fans know it will be a punching duel, with the result probably decided by a ringing knockout.

They also know that 50 per cent of the profits of tonight's show will be turned over to the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American.

A great fight for such a deserving charity has gone over with the fans.

Everybody wants to be down as near the ring as possible when Callahan and Fuller go after a knockout.

Rival Lightweights Down to Weight

Fuller and Callahan are down to the required weight. They are on edge for the most important battle of their respective careers. They are ready to go.

Fuller is the New England champion. He won the title when he conquered Callahan in a furious 10-round setto at Tiverton, R. I., last August. Sammy's lips were cut open by Callahan's ripping punches. His eyes were badly battered, but he fought on to victory in a hurricane finish.

In a previous meeting at Mechanics Building under the direction of the Argonne A. A., Callahan won the award.

The "rubber" tussle tonight will definitely decide the fistic standing of these two men. Each is eager to win by a knockout so that there will not be any question as to which is the better battler.

Canzoneri Agrees to Meet Winner Here

Tony Canzoneri, who won the world's lightwieght championship when he crushed Sammy Singer in a round in New York last Friday night, has agreed to meet the winner.

Canzoneri has also believed in meeting all-comers. As a bantamweight, featherweight and lightweight he tackled the best boxers the promoters could secure as opponents for him.

When asked by George Underwood if he would meet the victor of tonight's battle, Canzoneri didn't hesitate to give his consent. He was backed up by Sammy Goldman, his manager.

With the Canzoneri match as a fistic prize, Callahan and Fuller will come roaring out of their corners tonight bent on destruction. I can picture them now in the center of the ring trading punches in a reckless manner as if their entire futures depended on the result of the bout.

The eight-round semifinal between Vincent Treacott of Cambridge and Stanley Winneryck of Lawrence is also expected to furnish plenty of thrills.

There will be eight four-round bouts between the class of the local boxers. Each scrap will be jammed with action.

What a fighting card!

Get up to the Arena early!

The show of shows is about to open!

Soccer Tilt Postponed

Only Six Elevens Now Remain Unbeaten and Untied

EAST'S HOPES FALL WITH FORDHAM

By BILL GRIMES

Four of the country's outstanding college elevens were eliminated from the meager group of undefeated teams last Saturday as Fordham, Georgia, University of Oregon and Texas Christian were beaten. Incidently, Fordham's and Texas Christian's defeats were the first setbacks since 1928.

Bill Grimes

After a long hard trip across the country from Oakland, Calif., St. Mary's College staged a comeback in the second half, overcame a 12 point lead and crashed Fordham 20 to 12. While Major Frank Cavanaugh was taking his initial beating in New York, his former pupil and assistant coach, Dr. Clarence W. "Fat" Spears of the University of Oregon was meeting with his first reverse on the coast at the hands of Paul Schissler's Oregon State Beavers.

The University of Georgia, conquerors of Yale and N. Y. U., were thumped most artistically by the big green wave of Tulane in New Orleans, while Texas Christian, after entering the Ft. Worth classic heavily favored to win, was slapped down by the University of Texas.

Another eleven which cannot be tendered a perfect mark for the season is Marquette, for the Milwaukee outfit was held to a scoreless tie by the University of Detroit.

Only Six Teams Left Unbeaten and Untied

Entering the home stretch of the season, there are only six undefeated elevens of any consequence in the country. Notre Dame, Northwestern, Alabama, Washington State, Western Maryland and the University of Utah have been victorious in every game.

Dartmouth, Army, Michigan and Marquette have not lost but they have been tied; the first two mentioned by Yale, Michigan by Michigan State, and Marquette by Detroit.

Dartmouth ran afoul of its annual scare at Ithaca and were very fortunate to pull out a win over Cornell. The Big Green was saved by its air attack in the dying moments of the final period, while Yale, doped to swamp Princeton, was outplayed in almost every department by the Tigers and won by the scant margin of a field goal.

Columbia, Boston University, Amherst and Georgetown were wonderful even in defeat. The Lions pressed Brown from the start and held the McLaughrey men scoreless until late in the fourth quarter. George LeCain's 47 yard run for a touchdown was Tuft's edge over the Terriers, a goal from the field by Fred Futtle gave Williams a 16 to 13 victory over Amherst, and a safety decided the N. Y. U.-Georgetown title.

Northwestern wound up its conference schedule with a victory over Wisconsin, establishing a mark of five wins and no defeats, while Jack Wheeler, who featured for Harvard, ran 45 yards to bring victory to Michigan over Minnesota.

Unquestionably, Michigan will take Chicago into camp next Saturday, which will bring about a tie for the "Big Ten" championship between the Hanley and Kipke coached elevens. But, judging the merits of these teams from their schedules and their ability to score, Northwestern is the stronger.

Northwestern played Tulane, Southern Conference champions, Ohio State, Illinois, Center, Minnesota, Indiana and Wisconsin, ran up a total of 182 points and yielded only 22; Michigan, playing Denison, Ypsilanti, Michigan State, Purdue, Ohio State, Illinois, Harvard and Minnesota, was tied by the Crowley coached eleven from East Lansing, and only scored 65 points against 23 by their opponents.

Northwestern outscored Michigan against Ohio State by six points, ran up 17 more on Illinois than the Wolverines and won over Minnesota by a score of 27 to 6 against Michigan's one touchdown margin.

Bates, Williams and Middlebury Win Titles

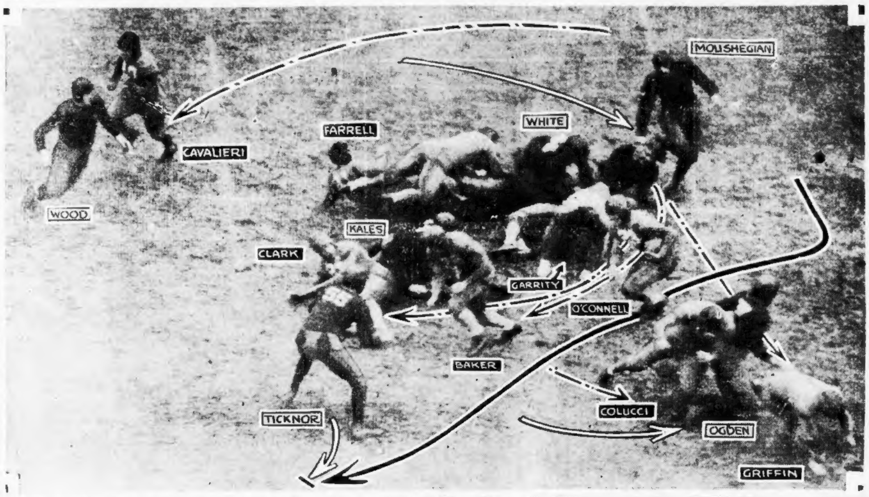
Five championships were decided last week, with Dave Morey's Bates eleven blazing the trail by winning its second consecutive Pine Tree State title. For the third time in as many seasons, Williams annexed the championship of the Little Three, even though it did have a close call with the Sabrinas. Middlebury is again the titleholder of the Vermont State championship, with a most unique record, that of scoring in only two games Norwich and Vermont.

For the first time since 1925, the Pacific Coast Conference championship was won by a Northwest college, Washington State turning the trick. Coach Hollingbery developed a team at Pullman, Wash., which came through against the top notchers on the coast, Southern California, Oregon State, University of Washington and California.

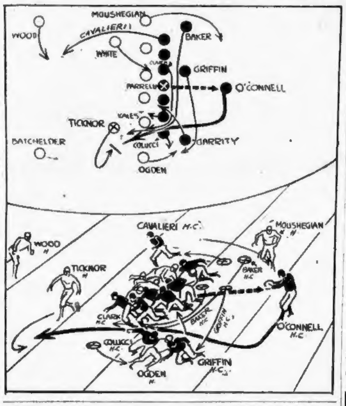
The University of Utah successfully defended its Rocky Mountain Conference title for the second straight season. In six years at Utah, Coach Ike Armstrong has won four championships and has only been on the losing end of two games.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

AS USUAL, CAPT. TICKNOR STOPS CRUSADER ATTACK



IN ONE of Holy Cross' best plays the stage was set for Phil O'Connell, sensational Crusader, to shake himself loose for a long run, but Capt. Ticknor refused to allow himself to be put out of the play. From a short kick formation O'Connell started for his left end, but cut back inside of Ogden, who was easy prey for Tony Colucci and Les Griffin. Eddie Clark and Capt. Hank Garrity had cleaned out a hole for the ball carrier and all that was necessary for a run was for Henry Baker to take care of Ticknor. Through clever use of his hands Ticknor kept Baker away and then nailed O'Connell after a seven-yard gain.



Crimson Gathers Forces for Final Game of Season

By RALPH GILROY

Former All-American Halfback at Princeton

A Crimson eleven that bowed to an alert, well coached Holy Cross aggregation in one of the most disastrous defeats that a Harvard eleven has suffered within memory of the ancient Crimson Alumni, will try to gather its forces for the final big assault against a Blue eleven that was lucky to scrape through to a narrow win over a much defeated Tiger aggregation.

The Crusaders more than showed up the Horween eleven, which, after the Michigan clash, seemed to be on the up grade, by its clever, well executed running and passing attacks. Even Ben Ticknor, Harvard stalwart captain and all-America selection of 1929, seemed hopeless and gave the worst exhibition of his entire career.

Fans Amazed at Such a Decisive Defeat

The more than 35,000 stadium spectators were dumfounded by the decisiveness with which Capt. Garrity's Crusaders outpointed the Crimson. Not that anyone was expecting a Crimson victory by any impressive margin, but that Horween's eleven could so decisively suffer a licking by any such score was unthought of.

The Phil O'Connell to Henry Baker aerial accomplishments were more than the somewhat slow Crimson backfield combination could solve. These forward passing plays by the Crusader forces should give Yale an idea for this Saturday's classic, although the big Blue team can offer no such aerial display as Holy Cross showed.

Phil O'Connell—Crusader's director of offensive maneuvers, was the best general in all around play that has showed on Stadium turf this season. His off tackle dashes and lightning forward passes to Baker will long be remembered by last Saturday's crowd.

McEwan Deserves Praise for Showing of Team

Every Crusader player with particular emphasis on the right side of the Holy Cross line played superb football. Capt. McEwan, the Holy Cross mentor is to be congratulated on exhibiting such a high grade offence and well drilled eleven.

But the fact remains that a Crimson eleven showed a decided slump before its big battle of the year, the Yale contest, and demonstrated that a lot of improvement must be shown this week if Harvard hopes to give the Elis a battle.

Chick Shea Named Pomfret Ice Coach

Chick Shea, former Cambridge Latin and Dartmouth hockey and baseball star, has been appointed coach of Pomfret School hockey team. He succeeds Guy Lawless, who was very successful as coach there a year ago. Lawless finds business too pressing to coach this year. Shea is a Dartmouth graduate and one of the best hockey players developed from the local school ranks.

Big Green to Leave for Coast Friday

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 17—The Dartmouth football team will start its final week of practice in Hanover this season today, when preparations will begin for the Green's final game at Palo Alto with Stanford, November 29.

The Green will work out for four days this week here and will leave for the west coast Friday noon. Having defeated all its eastern opponents, with the exception of Yale, a scoreless tie at New Haven marring an otherwise perfect record, the Green will prepare for Stanford this week with a few new developments, the program for the period consisting of the brushing up of its attack, which functioned only spasmodically against Cornell Saturday.

Somerville Grid Games for Needy

Through the untiring efforts of Leo Maguire, well known Somerville man, some of the unemployed of that city will be taken care of during the Winter months. Mr. Maguire has arranged two football games, the entire proceeds of which will go to the families of the most needy in the city.

The first game will be held next Saturday afternoon at the Richard Trum Field, between the strong Magoun A. A. and the St. Anne's Alumni. A large crowd is sure to take advantage of seeing these two teams in action against each other, and also add their little bit to the cause.

Luck Played Important Part in Grid Victories

New York, Nov. 17—Football, always producing the unexpected, pulled a new one last Saturday when the feature of many contests was the fact that the teams which won were outrushed by their opposition and did not score the most first downs. All this goes to make a great game.

Yale was outplayed by Princeton and won, the same was true in the Fordham-St. Mary's game. New York University enjoyed a luck win over a hard fighting Georgetown team. The only way Dartmouth wiggled out of a tight hole was by going into the air.

Harvard was smothered by Holy Cross even though they outrushed the Crusaders and gained more yardage.

The Big Three added another victory to the scant 1930 store when Yale conquered Princeton in a game that was marked by the brilliant play of Bennet and James of Princeton. One gets a fair idea of what a football team, keyed up mentally, can do in this game.

If it wasn't for Albie Booth's toe and the fact that Princeton was held on the foot line in the last minute after an 80-yard march, old Nassau would have won.

Fordham was beaten by St. Mary's, a team from the Pacific Coast, after obtaining a 12 point led in the first half which saw the westerners score but one first down.

But in the second half the forward passes of both teams were brought into play and St. Mary's was very fortunate to be on the receiving end of some of the Maroon throws.

Colgate Eleven Overpowered Syracuse

Colgate overpowered Syracuse in the central New York classic, with Macaluso standing out as one of the great backs of the year. The Colgate team was a steamroller which took its toll in the second half.

Gil Dobie brought his Cornell team back and displayed a fine defense against the vaunted Dartmouth attack. This game also developed into a forward passing contest with Dartmouth winning in the last minutes of play.

Columbia played a surprisingly strong game against Brown and deserved a better fate. In view of the fact that Hewitt, the Blue and White star, was unable to get into the contest the showing was a fine one.

Holy Cross upset Harvard by mixing a brilliant forward passing attack with their runs. Southern Methodist came from the Southwest and administered another defeat to the Navy. The Middies are not up to their usual standard this year.

In the South, Tennessee upset the Vanderbilt team by alertness. The Tulane team, which has not lost a game in the Southern Conference, set Georgia back with a high score.

Notre Dame-Northwestern Big Game of Season

Northwestern came through in the second half to defeat the strong Wisconsin team in a contest where Northwestern's big, rugged team applied considerable power. Notre Dame had an easy time with Drake and will be prepared to meet Northwestern next Saturday in one of the great contests of the year.

Ohio State outplayed Pittsburgh in an interesting contest and Illinois came back into the winning column by defeating Chicago decisively.

On the Pacific coast, Washington State clinched the Conference title by defeating Washington, 3 to 0.

Doc Spear's Oregon team lost its first game of the season to Oregon State. The waning weeks of the season now find Northwestern, Notre Dame, Washington State and Alabama leading the country, untied and undefeated. In the East there is not a single major team untied and undefeated.

Night Tennis for Colgate Netmen

Colgate has facilities for night tennis and the game is very popular even through the fall.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Golf's Greatest Teacher

Too many of the so-called golf fundamentals are complicated. My direct contact with so many different types of players sometimes enables me to see the difficulties they have and forces the necessity, perhaps, for clarifying them, so that in a way I have reduced the whole scheme of golf to the three basic principles of vertical axis, involuntary wrists in the forward swing and tight left-hand grip. These principles must be used, however, by the player advanced enough to know the difference between swinging and pressing because slugging at the ball will never do—no skillful golfer ever does that. Your governing principle should be to get that left arm swung, or pulled, into and through the ball and, while doing that, be content to let the ball take its natural course, just as you let your wrist go its own way. You'll then get the real range of your clubs, which helps a lot. After which, also, you'll be able to tell, when you read of golfing fundamentals, whether some supposed authority is talking golf or nonsense.

Canadiens Here Tomorrow

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

BRUINS FACE FIGHTING ENEMY

The two National League teams which have dominated divisional play over the last three years will have their first meeting of the new major league season at the Boston Garden tomorrow night when Les Canadiens and the Bruins strive for first blood in a new series.

For three successive years now the Bruins have topped the American Division and for three successive years Canadiens have not been dislodged from the top place after 44 games in the Canadian division.

There was no dispute to Canadiens' domination of their division in 1928 and 1929, but a year ago Maroons scored an equal number of points, 51, and Canadiens came out of the post season play with the Stanley Cup and a two straight series win over the Bruins, a team which to that time had been almost invincible.

Bruins and Canadiens of course are old rivals. Back in the dark days of Boston hockey, in 1924 and 1925, Bruins-Canadiens games always were thrillers and they always have continued to be so. Put Morenz, Joliat, Mantha and Burke on one side of the ice, and Shore, Hitchman, Weiland, Clapper and Barry on the other side and there is bound to be action.

What held true in other years would seem to hold true again as the Boston hockey fans steam up over the first major game of the young ice season.

Canadiens Defeated Bruins in Stanley Cup Series

[illegible] ens and Bruins met four tim[illegible] he course of the 44-game sched[illegible] a year ago, and Bruins won [illegible] games. Then, wearied by a terrific series with Montreal Maroons, Bruins came up against the Canadiens, who were right on edge, and the mighty Bruins were stripped of Stanley Cup honors, losing by 3-0 and 4-3.

The Canadiens retain most of their 1929-30 strength, which means that Morenz, Joliat, Lepine, Burke, Mantha, Leduc and Hainsworth will carry the burden of their attack and defense.

The game should be one of the best early season contests of the new campaign. Both teams play an attacking game. Each has strong defense trios. Each is packed with players of color. And, of course, there always is Morenz.

CANADIENS LOADED FOR BEAR

HOWIE MORENZ AUREL JOLIAT

THE BOSTON BRUINS will face the stellar Les Canadiens tomorrow night at the Garden in what promises to be one of the most thrilling hockey clashes of the season. Howie Morenz, one of the best puck chasers in the game, and Aurel Joliat, will lead the attack

BUCKLEY LOST TO B. C. TEAM

With the Holy Cross game but two weeks away Boston College's chances of conquering the Crusaders took a drop when it was learned at the Heights this morning that Henry Buckley, regular right end, would be lost to the team for the rest of the season.

Buckley was removed from the Loyola game in Chicago on Friday night under the floodlights in the third period. Eagle trainers strapped up his shoulder and realized that Buckley was injured rather seriously. But the full extent of the damage was not learned until the squad arrived in Boston and Buckley had a chance to be X-rayed.

Boston College's hopes of humbling Holy Cross were considered rather bright up until the Crusaders swept into the Stadium under full steam and showed their real power for the first time this year.

B. C. immediately became the underdog for the Jesuit classic, a week from next Saturday, after the Stadium struggle. And now the Eagle hopes drop a notch lower with the varsity right end laid up for the rest of the schedule.

Buckley was one of the strongest members of the forward wall. His play on the wing was even greater than that of Johnny Dixon for the greater part of this campaign. And McKenney is going to find the right wing on his eleven weak, no matter who he gets to put there. He had a large squad of good ends, but not one who can quite give the brand of football that Buckley has been displaying.

Boston College steps into its semi-final football fray against Boston University at Fenway Park next Saturday. On paper it might be considered the usual big game "breather."

But this is not so. Boston University forget[illegible] the [illegible] when playing B. C. and [illegible] always dangerous. Joe McKenney knows th[illegible] and will not plan to shoot in his second teaters.

McKenney will more than likely start most of his varsity and keep them in the game until the outcome has been settled.

Shields First in Eastern Ranking

New York, Nov. 17 (INS)—New stars occupied today the top rung of the ranking ladder in both the men and women's eastern tennis singles division and many displacements were recorded over the 1929 rankings.

Francis X. Shields, of New York, was advanced from No. 4 in 1929 to the top of the list.

Mrs. Caroline S. Hirsch who came here from the coast topped the women's list.

Second in the lits announced by the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association for the men's singles is Sidney B. Wood, Jr., 18, who was not listed in the ranking last year. Gregory Mangin retained his No. 3 position, and John Van Ryn, member of the Davis Cup team, placed fourth.

Brookline Win Over B. C. H. Big School Upset of Week

By BILL CONNELL

A clean cut victory by Brookline high over Boston College high eleven which had run up a 15-game win streak was the feature of the school football games of Saturday.

Bill Connell

While Brookline had lost only one game all year before the B. C. H. tilt, and had played fine football against strong opponents, few of the Brookline followers figured the team could show the type of football it displayed in the contest with the Eaglets.

The Wealthy Town line functioned perfectly, and the backs were able to operate efficiently behind a fast charging forward wall that carried out practically every assignment. The play of Louis Wolek, end; Capt. Kelley, tackle, and Charley Nayor, center, was great.

Ed Sherrill, the other Brookline tackle, has not received much attention this fall, yet his work well could be compared to the splendid play of Capt. Kelley.

Ben Hootstein and Bill Timmins, Brookline halfbacks and Harold McGrail, fullback, were good. Cnet Litman kicked well. Hootstein scored both Brookline touchdowns and played a good all 'round game while in the lineup. The way Bill Timmins uses his hips in running with the ball is remarkable. So too is the ability Timmins showed in catching forwards and laterals, several of which were, during the game, difficult to grab.

Defeat of Eaglets First Since 1928

The defeat for Boston College high did break a fine win streak extending since 1928, but does not take away one whit from the work of the well drilled Eaglet eleven. The fact that B. C. high was able to hold Brookline to two touchdowns, considering the great football played by the victors, speaks volumes for the courage and class of the Art McManus' team.

The game was played for the benefit of the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund and despite the weather conditions, one of the best crowds of the year was in the Brookline stadium, filling almost every seat. Had the day been pleasant, a new Brookline attendance figure would have been set. As it was, the fans saw a great football game, and a substantial sum was realized for the Basket Fund.

Dummer Students Want Name Changed

Newburyport, Nov. 17—Dummer Academy will be designated as Governor Dummer Academy if the requests of the student body meets with the favor of the trustees of the school.

Al Smith and Dwight Morrow Will Speak Tomorrow Over WNAC and WEEI

Over the individual networks of the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System, who have thrown open their facilities for both national and local drives to find work for the jobless, the meeting of the Emergency Employment Committee will be broadcast tomorrow from 3:30 to 4:30. The meeting, which is to be held in the Great Room of the New York State Chamber of Commerce Building will launch the city-wide drive to obtain non-competitive employment of the jobless of New York.

Local stations WNAC and WEEI will carry the program.

Speakers at this meeting will be former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Senator-elect Dwight W. Morrow, Seward Prosser, chairman of the Emergency Employment Committee, William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general of the United States, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Felix Warburg, banker, and William H. Matthews representing the Association for the Improvement of Conditions for the Poor.

The emergency employment committee which is working [illegible] with established charities in New York although it is not [illegible] a charity organization [illegible] some of the country's lea[illegible] statesmen, financiers, educators and [illegible]logists. Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

Down in the heart of that great state of Maine there is a typical little New England village . . . within its environs the hopes, the tragedies, the ambitions and longings make up the lives of its inhabitants . . . even as in a great city . . . existence is as complicated there as elsewhere.

Residing in that [illegible] age tending his flock . . . preaching the Gospel as he understands it . . . blessing the saint and exhorting the sinner . . . is a M[illegible] [illegible] preacher. Trouble [illegible] a thankless task . . . [illegible] misunderstood . . . a meagre existence [illegible] with [illegible] compensation [illegible] thought of service.

Too heavy a burden on his shoulders . . . too many duties for one pair of hands to [illegible] too many of the flock needing the substantial things of life and the clergyman had only spiritual gifts to offer.

For all pleadings for strength from the great source [illegible] and encouragement claimed [illegible] man of God . . . which was to [illegible] he turn . . . where find the means of quickening the spirit . . . the past seemed to have been a useless gesture . . . the future without hope.

In a little room [illegible] humble cottage [illegible] on a sick bed lies the discouraged one . . . the clouds hide the sun and somber thoughts occupy the mind . . . At hand [illegible] where he may reach out and touch [illegible] is a radio . . . With listless hand a dial is turned . . . to no particular station [illegible] just a turn.

At first only a jumble of sound . . . then clear and sweet came the beautiful hymn "Lead Kindly Light" . . . direct into that humble man's heart . . . bringing its message of hope and cheer . . . buoying up the exhausted spirits . . . installing renewed strength . . . prompting the faint one to take up his burden with greater courage . . . to glory in his work.

A miracle . . . a modern miracle . . . the wonder of radio . . . When programs weary us . . . when disgusted with some particular type of broadcast which does not appeal to us . . . let's remember . . . that somewhere somebody, perhaps . . . in a far-off place . . . may be receiving a message which will add to their sum of happiness.

Young Lady Wishes Advice

From the wilds of Mattapan comes the following [illegible]. We're not good at riddles but we'll do our best.

Dear Mr. Whipple: For a long time my friends have been begging me to sing over the radio. they told me I had a future as a radio artist. Last week I had a chance to go on over a local station which I did. I know I sang well, but what I can't understand is that I received only two letters, and those were from close relatives. What should I do [illegible]? Respectfully, [illegible] S. J. [illegible] M.

The following would seem rather a harsh treatment of the situation but we guarantee it will work. Some night when you and the boy friend are alone, you hit him on the head four or five times as hard as you can with a sash-weight, dismember the remains and hide them. When the trial is over go back and sing over the air again. Two days later send a Mack truck round to the station for your letters.

[illegible] interested to [illegible] stay at homes and [illegible] folk to know that [illegible] strumming [illegible] will bring a little [illegible] into their lives every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock when [illegible] from Station WNAC [illegible] one of the most [illegible] entertainers of the [illegible] been [illegible] time with the [illegible] who sponsor the [illegible].

COMING OUT OF THE ETHER

The [illegible] drama of a Thousand and One Nights . . . Arabesque . . . returns to Station WNAC tonight at 8:30 after being away from the air for some time. The [illegible] audience will hear this dramatic program again through the courtesy of Scott Furriers, who are sponsoring the program. The original cast of the weekly playlet will be retained.

Those [illegible] change artists the B[illegible] quartet will [illegible] one breath proper and [illegible] in the next will interpret three Irish songs. WEEI at 9:30 on the General Motors Family Party program . . . The [illegible] overture by Thomas [illegible] opens a program of [illegible] classics played by the Rochester Civic Orchestra on the Stromberg-Carlson program over WBZA at 10 tonight . . . Old-time favorites will vie with the newest [illegible] best steppers tonight over WBZA [illegible] with the [illegible] in [illegible] the playing end.

After an absence of several months, Paul Tremaine, "The Band from Lonely Acres," returns to CBS and will be heard daily starting today at noon.

RADIO Personalities

The Department of Commerce has established that there are more than 13,400,000 radio receivers in the U. S. There are more receivers in Weld County, Col., than watches or clocks [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] keeping [illegible] GLADYS RICE, NBC soprano, has become a member of a harmony team. She sings duets with [illegible] . . . FRANK KNIGHT says his ambition is to become foreign correspondent for CBS and introduce the crowned heads of Europe to radio audiences . . . HENRY [illegible] has a white ivory elephant so small that he says he is afraid to leave it on his library table for fear someone will think it's a pill and swallow it. Who want[illegible] to swallow a pill anyway? . . . Do you know that church congregations join in the Sunday Night at Seth Parker's radio characters in singing the hymns as the program comes over the air? . . . GEORGE HUTCHINSON, aviator arrived at the NBC studios the other day with his pet [illegible] Big Boy . . . and now George is wondering why people are afraid of him.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

There is too much jumping on the young people here in Boston. They are charged with almost everything. They smoke too much. They stay out late nights. They are not civil to their elders. They call their father "old man." They don't go to church regularly. They don't read the right kind of literature. They want everything, and if they don't get it they rasp with anger.

These are a few of the stones thrown at young people in Boston by the older generation. But, on the other hand, we have the testimony of virtually every church and college in the United States that never before in history were so many young people interested in social service and spiritual matters.

You cannot compare young people of today with the young people of a past generation. They are not imitators. They want to solve their own problems in their own way. If you look at young people of today as you looked at the youth of past years and make comparisons with youth of today, you are prone to misjudge present day youth. They are not following in your likes and dislikes. They are watching their own.

Tercentenary Tours Neglected Opportunity

Editor Boston American:

Why is it that so many Bostonians who are proud of Boston are spending so little time and energy in [illegible] acquainted in Boston? The tercentenary series of trips [illegible] by the Boston [illegible] on Saturday afternoons of the autumn are furnishing opportunities for learning the [illegible] which have never hitherto been available to an [illegible] extent. A board of directors containing such names as Prof. [illegible] of Community Church, David Niles of Ford hall, Prof. [illegible] of Simmons College and others arranges these Saturday half-holiday personally conducted excursions, which study some interesting but less known of American citizens, some fascinating but unfamiliar area of culture, some useful and worthy social institutions.

The public is invited to patronize these [illegible] and the only cost is a [illegible] registration fee which [illegible] to meet the expenses of [illegible] and planning of [illegible] for example, on Saturday, Nov. Calls 'L's' 5 Cent Fare Unjust to Public

Editor Boston American:

What an injustice the officials of the Boston Elevated have perpetrated [illegible]

[illegible] fare on [illegible] went into effect [illegible] fare in many [illegible] [illegible] given [illegible] return coupon. If [illegible] coupon [illegible] on inbound cars [illegible] returned to him when he got off within the specified area. In other words he paid 6¼ cents for the short haul.

Now, if he does not use the outward bound return coupon, which is limited in use to not more than eight days (and sometimes for only two days), he pays a dime for the same short haul ride.

Is this fair, in these days of unemployment, when everybody is trying to make both ends meet? Why don't the public trustees of this road get busy and change this? If the old system of giving the conductor two tickets on entering a car, and getting one back on leaving, was practical, why can't it be used now? Five tickets for 25 cents. Two when you enter a car, and one back when you leave. Does it need a special legislative investigation to reach a conclusion on such an obvious thing?

Democrats Should Build Up Party

Editor Boston American:

Your displayed interest in Joseph B. Ely during the campaign is highly commendable. I saw by the Quincy papers a day or two ago that John H. Moran of Weymouth was determined to keep the Democratic party alive along the South Shore, or Norfolk and Plymouth counties. Best luck to him.

For years the Democratic party in most of the state died the day after election. It came partly to life a few days before the next election. In some cities our party is kept going by city elections. Massachusetts Democracy now has a fine foundation upon which to build. Let us join with Mr. Moran and hold the torch on high.

I am advised that throughout southeastern Massachusetts, at least, there are more Democrats enrolled as Republicans than as Democrats. This because the towns have long been ignored by those in charge of state Democracy. Mr. Ely has been preaching for state-wide party. Let us have such starting right now.

Foxes Save Their Lives by Joy Jig

Editor Boston American:

A friend and I went hunting for foxes a short time ago. We had traveled some distance before seeing any game. We had just gone far toward another wooden district when a sight met us through the thickets—two foxes playing and apparently dancing a jig.

"What do you make of that?" I asked my companion.

"Why, the way it strikes me is that these foxes are celebrating the passing of the anti-steel trap legislation bill," he replied.

We let them go.

POLICY PAYS BOY $10,000

An accident insurance policy taken out by Mrs. Mae I. Dearborn, 33, of 16 Maple st., Maynard, through the insurance service rendered the people of New England by the Boston Evening American, has resulted in the payment of $10,000 to her young son, Ellsworth.

Mrs. Dearborn died as a result of burns received in the collision of the motorship Pinthis and Merchants & Miners steamship Fairfax, off Scituate. She was a passenger on the Fairfax and died while en route to a Boston hospital.

The payment to Mrs. Dearborn's young son is the largest ever made on a policy issued through the Boston Evening American.

It is the largest sum that could be paid, according to the terms of the policy.

Mrs. Dearborn took out a policy in the North American Accident Insurance Co. at the Boston Evening American office June 21, 1928. In 1929 she renewed it. The policy had 11 days more to run before expiration when Mrs. Dearborn came to her untimely death.

As a result of her foresight her little boy is well provided for. A check for $10,000 has been paid to Alvetta L. Tewksbury, the child's guardian.

150,000 CLUB WOMEN TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Breaking Up Home Hits His Heart

Now that you have become familiar with "Him and Her," and how it came about that Jack took as his wife a pretty little dancer named Alice Stewart, you know the first rise to fame of a remarkable pair of dancers. The girl made the change—the $15 a week leaped to $1000 a week, to $2000, even, and more.

And the home life—the love of wife and children—all things pointing to a character built into him by a mother and a father, of the stock that makes men.

By WIN BROOKS

[illegible]

Jack was co-starred with Queenie Smith in "Be Yourself" at the Tremont Theater when he told the story. Here it is

"Next to the electric chair, the thing I dreaded most was the breaking up of the home we had in Boston for years and moving Mrs. Donahue and the little Donahues down to New York.

"For years as a youth living in Charlestown my boyhood dream was to own one of those imposing homes in Brookline and that dream came true. But when we settled down for a run with 'Be Yourself' in New York, I realized that the strain of going back and forth to Boston to see my family every week was too much.

Tell the Wife
How the Work Was Done

"About this time Willie Collier, who staged the show, began to tell me in glowing terms of his fine home at Douglas Manor, Long Island, and suggested it as the ideal locality for me. The next day he took me out there and I was sold on the spot.

"Taking a cue from one of my songs, 'When You Do a Thing, Do It,' I called Mrs. Donahue on the long distance phone and told her we were moving.

"Now comes the story—How I made the move painless and secured the co-operation of the entire 'Be Yourself' cast without them even suspecting any duplicity.

"After Mrs. Donahue had looked over the show place and had returned to Boston to arrange for the transfer of the household effects, she wired me one morning that the moving vans would arrive on Long Island at 1 o'clock the next day.

"With a fine show of cordiality I personally invited every member of the 'Be Yourself' company down to the new house for a 'house warming' the next day and told them to be on hand promptly at 1 o clock.

"They were delighted, and every one of them, including Queenie Smith, broke all previous engagements and was at the house in time to see the auto vans pull up.

Pulling the Trick
And Feasting From Cans

"For a while I pretended to be distressed because the vans had not come sooner but before long it dawned upon them that I had put one over and if there was to be any 'house-warming' it must be preceded by a lot of hard work. Well, they all took the joke good naturedly and fell in with a will.

"Among the movers from Boston were two of my own pals of Charlestown days, and with the professional assistance of the company we had everything settled by 4 o'clock. Then we sat down to the most unconventional dinner ever served in Douglas Manor. Truckmen, cuties and Broadway favorites all fraternized around a feast of canned food."

The Donahues later moved to Park ave., and still later to Central Park West, where Jack died and where Mrs Donahue now lives with their three children, Alma, Barbara and Constance Marilyn, whom Jack always referred to as his A-B-C's.

His devotion to his wife and children and their devotion to him were among the finest things in his life. His references to them were among the comparatively few humorless lines of the part he played in the Great Production

You know, sometimes I think it is all too wonderful to be real, this having a wife like mine," he said once. "I visit the different theatrical clubs and I hear all the big fellows complain that wives are a nuisance. Why, do you know, nothing worth while ever happened to me until

Boston American Gets Many Requests for Aid From Needy Jobless Folk

Despite the fact that many of the appeals for help made to the Boston Evening American Helping Hand department have been answered, many more requests from needy families in Greater Boston are being received.

The Boston Evening American Helping Hand department was established to act as a "middleman" for those who are in need of food, clothing, and employment and those who are willing to aid.

Letters from far and near are continually being received. One letter from Eastport, Me., received last week was answered immediately after publication A few of these letters are published daily in this paper. Anyone wishing to aid is asked to call the Helping Hand Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for the name and address of the case Contributions may be sent to the Helping Hand, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq

Clothing, shoes, fuel, etc., are needed immediately. Any help will be greatly appreciated by needy families

The following are a few of the appeals received today:

GIRL SEEKS CLOTHING
(Refer to Case 4)

I wonder if you know of any person who would give some old clothes for my two brothers and myself. The ages are, 14, girl, and 12 and 10 boys. The boys are in need of overcoats, shoes, underwear. The girl needs shoes, coat and dress

The boy 12 years old is sick and goes to the hospital very often My father is dead and my mother does not earn enough to buy much clothing for the winter

We will appreciate it very much for any clothing given to us.

The family lives in Roxbury. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may get the address by calling the Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000. Ask for Case 4.

CLOTHES BIG NEED
(Refer to Case 7)

Will you kindly help us and send us some clothes? There is a boy 14, a girl 13 and my grandmother, 59 My grandmother has a sore leg and can't work and my stepfather is in the Mattapan Hospital, so kindly help us the best you can. The neighbors are good to us and give us something to eat. My stepfather is pretty sick and my grandmother can t work

This family lives in South Boston. Any person desiring to investigate will be given the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000. Refer to Case 7.

BABY CLOTHES NEEDED
(Refer to Case 8)

Please help me. I was wondering if you knew anybody who has some baby clothes they do not want. I have a little girl three years old and a little boy two, and I am expecting the stork in February but have no clothes for the little stranger My husband works in a Boston Hospital for $14 a week, but I don't seem to be able to buy any clothes. When the rent, insurance, and store bills are paid, I have nothing left. So please do your best

This family lives in Charlestown. The name may be obtained for investigation by calling the Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000. Refer to Case 8.

Believed to Be James G. McGarry of Newport; Two Companions Ran Away

A sailor, believed to be James G. McGarry, attached to the Naval Hospital at Newport, R. I., was killed when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a telegraph pole in Blue Hill ave., Milton, today.

The injured man was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the Milton hospital, but he was dead. His head was nearly severed when he went through the windshield

The probable identification was established by Fall River police, who, on advice of Milton officials, communicated with Edward A. McCarthy of Fall River, in whose name the auto was registered

McCarthy told police he and another unidentified sailor, the latter driving, were in the auto when it crashed

McCarthy could not tell the cause of the crash, Fall River police say. He told them they had picked up the sailor in Boston and were returning to Fall River when the accident happened

He and the driver fled the scene and made their way to Fall River The other sailor is believed to be attached to the torpedo station at Newport

Deaf Mute Dying From Hit-and-Run Injuries

Charles L. Harris, 40, of 41 Ellington st., Dorchester, who was seriously injured by a hit-and-run driver in Somerville last night was revealed today to be a deaf mute. He is believed to be dying

His wife is also a deaf mute police disclosed, and the couple have two children Harris was a riveter and the family is in poor circumstances

He was injured while crossing Middlesex ave. on his way to work at the Ford plant. The automobile going at high speed, continued on toward Wellington bridge Edwin E. Giles of Bristol rd., Medford, gave chase and his car collided with another, necessitating medical treatment for his wife.

Woman Is Found Overcome by Gas

Miss Ida Layman, 60, proprietor of a tea room in Commonwealth ave., Allston, was found unconscious from illuminating gas today in her apartment there Neighbors who smelled gas notified the gas company and William Joyce was sent to the apartment. He found the woman unconscious in a chair with gas flowing from two burners. Joyce called police for an inhalator and Miss Layman was revived after half an hour's work

TODAY'S WANT ADS

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $10 for the next best, $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

STATE POLICE TO GUARD REVERE POLLS IN MAYORALTY RACE

Children Are Auto Victims

RUTH SMITH

RUTH GELM

TWO MALDEN CHILDREN, Ruth Gelm, 10, 127 Mills st., and Ruth Smith, 137 Mill st., were run down and badly injured by an automobile at Ferry and Mills sts., Malden. Robert P. Allard and Ernest C. Saunders of Arlington were detained by police. Both men were in car that ran down the children. (Staff photos.)

DRIVE TO BAN REPEATERS PLANNED

Plain Clothes Men From All Adjoining Cities Also Will Be on Duty

The closest mayoralty battle ever waged in Revere is expected tomorrow when Mayor Andrew A. Casassa and former City Treasurer William M. Keevey terminate a brisk campaign at the primaries.

As the result of "certain reports and rumors" Mayor Casassa says have reached him, State police and plain clothes men from police departments of adjoining cities will be on guard during the balloting.

Rumors a wholesale attempt at repeating and illegal voting, both by men and women, is planned, are understood to have influenced the Mayor to ask outside police aid.

Keevey, who was defeated by Casassa in 1928 by 410 votes, predicts he will win the nomination this year.

The mayor, however, expresses confidence of being selected as Republican candidate for a second term.

The former city treasurer declared today he believes the people of Revere want an "honest and sincere government," and they are "disgusted with the administration of Casassa."

The Democratic candidate, to oppose the Republicans' choice December 9 is James J. Brennan, father of seven children and president of Local 74, International Union of Operating Engineers.

TEAR GAS FOILS SAFE GANG

Aided by some promising finger prints, Boston police today are seeking the gang of safe breakers who were driven from the office of the Hyde Park Ice Co., 35 Walnut st., Hyde Park, when tear gas was automatically sprayed on them through a hole they had drilled in a safe.

Police believed this is the [illegible] time that the automatic device has saved the contents of a safe in Boston. Officials of the company said the safe contained about $120.

Henry Marden of 6 Chester [illegible], Readville, watchman of the plant, made the discovery. When he entered the office he got the immediate [illegible] of the gas. As he turned on the lights he saw the broken safe knob and the tools [illegible].

Short Circuit Puts Police Headquarters in Darkness

At police headquarters today a short circuit put out the elevator lights and lanterns had to be substituted.

While repairs were being made, lights in several parts of the building, much needed because the day was dark, had to be shut off.

The first response to the call for light sent out by the elevator operators brought red lanterns and they had to send out another S. O. S. before they got ones they could see by.

ALLEN URGED TO NAME JUDGE

Governor Allen today was urged to appoint Howard M. Dowd of Weymouth as a special justice of the Norfolk district court by a delegation of citizens headed by Senator Newland H. Holmes of Weymouth.

Provision for the appointment of additional judges in districts with more than 100,000 population was made by the last legislature.

In addition to Senator Holmes the delegation included C[illegible] Frederick G. Bower, James M. Hooper and Fletcher Hyle.

Policemen Rescue Woman From Water

Mrs. Isabella Crowley, 24, of Mystic [illegible], Charlestown, was taken from the water off Dewey Beach today by Patrolmen William Finnegan, Stanley Nielzvecki and Hans Brunick and rushed to the Haymarket Relief Hospital, where she was treated for immersion.

When the officers arrived in response to a telephone call she was about 50 feet from [illegible] in shallow water [illegible] and got her. She was fully clothed except for hat and [illegible].

"I've got trouble enough," she said to the officers, according to their report to Capt. Livingston of the City sq. station.

3 Held in Theft of Mulhern Auto

Senator Joseph Mulhern's automobile which was parked in Cornhill was stolen last night and early today Somerville police arrested three youths who were driving the car in that city. The car was not damaged.

The youths told police they took it for a joy ride. They will be arraigned in Somerville District Court today.

Store Bookkeeper Is Robbed by Negro

An armed youth held up Miss Caroline Shankalan, bookkeeper in a grocery store on Cabot st., Roxbury today, robbed the cash register of a few dollars in change and took $11 from her purse. He then shut her in the icebox but she opened the door from the inside and telephoned the police describing him as a negro about 21 years old, five feet four inches, 120 pounds, with a mustache and wearing a cap, dark trousers and blue sweater with roll collar. The grocery is owned by Paul Aronian.

5 GIVE UP FOR LACK OF FUNDS

One involuntary and five voluntary petitions in bankruptcy filed in Federal Court today showed liabilities totalling $41,702.01, assets $1638, as follows:

Rainbow Shoe Co., River Beach Park, was creditor in an involuntary petition by the New England Tanning Company, William H. Rose, Inc., and Old Colony-[illegible] Leather Company for a total indebtedness of $1451.41.

David Belson, constable, Quint ave., Allston, voluntary, liabilities $22,919, no assets.

William A. Sawyer, carpenter, Humboldt ave., Roxbury, voluntary, liabilities $1467.40, assets $46.66.

Harry Botsky, cleansing spotter, Fairfield st., Dorchester, voluntary, liabilities $8750.27, assets uncertain.

Joseph Rogers, salesman, Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, voluntary, liabilities $1270.30, no assets.

[illegible] N. West, clerk, Pembroke st., [illegible], voluntary, liabilities $1905.12, no assets.

MRS. LOUISE S. MARGOSIAN MISS ALICE SLEEPER

FATHER FACES DEATH CHARGE

Drunkenness and manslaughter of his infant son whom he took out of the house at midnight for a walk were charged today in Malden court against Edward M. Nolan of Cottage st., Everett.

On request of his counsel, the case was continued until next Monday, the bail of $200 being allowed to stand.

Patrolman Peter Fitzgerald saw Nolan walking along the street with what appeared to be a bundle tucked under his arm. When the officer stopped and started to question Nolan he tossed the apparent bundle to Fitzgerald.

The startled officer discovered it to be an unconscious infant. It was taken to a hospital where it died a short time later.

Glass Taken From Eye of Mrs. Murphy

Efforts to save the eyesight of Mrs. Blanche Murphy, wife of Dr. D. Jerome Murphy, noted surgeon of Lewiston, Me., have been successful, it was stated today.

Mrs. Murphy was en route with her husband in their auto on the Newburyport turnpike in Malden to the Harvard-Holy Cross game, Saturday, when a small stone, snapped from beneath the tire of an auto going in the other direction, crashed through the windshield and broke Mrs. Murphy's glasses, some of the glass lodging in her left eye.

For Coughs
From Colds Where One is Willing To Pay
To Be Sure

Creomulsion is made to do the utmost for a cough from colds. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is for quick relief, for safety, when the cough seems deep.

Mild coughs may yield to a lesser help—to some single factor, maybe. But no one can tell which factor will do most for any certain cough. And all coughs should be stopped at once. So careful people, more and more, give Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is $1.25—a little more than some helps. But it means a seven-way help—the best men know. And it costs you nothing if it fails to bring the quick relief you seek. Your druggist guarantees it.

COUNCIL ACTS IN M'CARTHY CASE

Last week's fist fight involving City Councilor Francis E. Kelley of Dorchester and Martin E. McCarthy, former policeman, was the subject of official action in the city council today.

Councilor Kelley had an order passed requesting Mayor Curley to ask Gov. Allen to order the civil service commission to file a report with the city council on McCarthy's application record and certification on his present job, a laundry porter at City Hospital.

Speaking for the order, he claimed that McCarthy was appointed last [illegible] in spite of 10 appearances in court.

He said he resigned in the face of charges while attached to the West Roxbury police division.

The order also asks Mayor Curley why McCarthy was given a higher rating a month after he was hired and why he was reinstated without a hearing after his discharge at the end of 17 days on the job.

DIVORCE FIGHT OVER FLAPPER STYLE SHOES

Cambridge Woman Says Her Husband Got Mad and Slapped Her Face

The charge that her husband slapped her face because she refused to buckle her overshoes was made by Mrs. Louise S. Margosian, 25, of 32 Seven Pines ave., Cambridge, testifying in Middlesex probate court today.

Mrs. Margosian sought an uncontested divorce from Jacob G. Margosian of 346 Dudley st., Roxbury, on grounds of cruelty and neglect to provide. An agreement specifies the furniture shall be divided and no alimony paid.

Mrs. Margosian testified her husband beat her and nagged constantly.

On one occasion her husband complained, according to his wife's testimony, that he was forced to follow her about like a little dog.

"If you feel that way maybe you are one," she replied, and Margosian struck her in the mouth, loosening a tooth.

Mrs. Margosian testified that six months ago, under the advice of a doctor, she went to New York to visit her parents, as she needed rest. When she returned, she said her husband had left their home and she went to live with her sister. The couple were married in 1924 in Lawrence.

The sister, Mrs. Alice Sleeper, testified for Mrs. Margosian.

FORMER TUFTS STAR TO WED

"Fish" Ellis, the former Medford High and Tufts College football star, now teacher-coach at Bridgton, Me., Academy, is to wed Miss Dorothea M. Loughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Loughlin of 363 Main st., West Concord, according to announcement today by her parents.

Ellis, whose first name, Frederick, was seldom used in connection with his athletic triumphs, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Ellis, of 599 High st., West Medford.

He was a four-letter athlete at Medford high and again at Tufts and was captain of the 1928 Tufts eleven.

Miss Loughlin is a senior at Jackson, the girls' division of Tufts, and is captain of the field hockey team. Her father, an old Harvard athlete, is clerk of the Concord district court and coach of the Concord high football and baseball teams.

"Smile Girl" Snubs Pain

SMILING, though in great pain and showing coolness and bravery seldom seen, Miss Althea Shattuck, young artist and model, is at the Beth Israel Hospital. Bullet wound near her heart may prove too much even for this "battling, smiling girl." In packing grip, preparing for removal to another hotel, the revolver accidentally discharged.

Althea Shattuck Reported Improved

The condition of Miss Althea Louise Shattuck, 23, Boston society girl, who accidentally shot herself at her home, 77 Marion st., Brookline, Saturday afternoon, was reported slightly improved this morning at Beth Israel Hospital.

Her name has been taken off the danger list.

CHARITY AIDED BY BALL

A net profit of $1942.03 was realized from the Tercentenary Ball given at Boston Garden last month, a committee informed Mayor Curley today

The committee consisting of Russell Codman Jr., Gordon Abbott Jr. and Miss Louise Fessenden, presented the mayor with a check for the amount stating they expected $1[illegible] more later

The mayor assured them the money would be equally divided between the following charities

Children's Hospital, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Public Welfare Dept City of Boston, Children's Aid Society, Federated Jewish Association, [illegible] League of Camden st, Roxbury, and the German Aid Society

PHELAN POINTS OUT LOW COSTS

Present low building costs were called to the attention of the chairmen of unemployment committees throughout the State today by James J. Phelan, chairman of the Governor's Emergency Committee on Unemployment.

Phelan informed these committees that building costs are estimated to be 15 per cent lower than those of two years ago, and he urged that the situation be pointed out to business concerns.

Where no local unemployment committees have been organized, Chairman Phelan's recommendations went to the mayors or selectmen

"The savings in the first cost of buildings erected now will be sufficient to pay interest charges for several years," the Phelan communication quotes William S. Parker, president of the Boston Building Congress, and Robert C Anringe, secretary.

Chairman Phelan today also urged the public to buy now, quoting a statement of the Boston Better Business Bureau that advertisements telling the people it is to their advantage to buy now are strictly in accord with facts.

Harding Accused in Whitman Mills Suit

Charge that through fraudulent practices Charles L. Harding of Dedham, president of the Whitman Mills, Inc., of New Bedford is attempting to manipulate the mills for his own gain, is made in a bill in equity filed today in Superior Court by Jacob Genesky of New Bedford, a stockholder

Genesky seeks to have the court restrain Harding from further liquidating the mills, and Harding, Tilton & Co., selling agents, from further drawing funds of the mills

The stockholder also asks that a receiver be appointed and that an accounting be taken of the amount due from Harding, Tilton & Co.

Negro 'Billy Sunday' Saved From Prison

A plea by Atty. William H. Lewis won leniency for the Rev Simon P W Drew, "Negro Billy Sunday," in federal court today when he left his client to the mercy of the court. Judge Lowell suspended a sentence of a year and a day and put Drew on probation

The evangelist was found guilty last month by a jury of using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with his attempt to raise $50,000 for the [illegible] Institute at Boydton Va., which was said to have passed out of existence years ago

FOOD 'OKAY' AT SANATORIUM

City Councillor Israel Ruby of Roxbury today reported as "absolutely unfounded" anonymous charges that food conditions were unfit at Boston Sanatorium, River st Mattapan.

The charges were mailed to members of the City Council Mayor Curley, trustees of the hospital, and other citizens

Councillor Ruby, with Mrs. Rose Eydenberg president of the Jewish Tuberculosis Sanatorium of Dorchester were shown through the plant by Chief Dietician Helen J Murphy and Dr. Frank H. Hunt resident medical officer

The two, together with newspapermen, questioned nearly 50 patients, but found none who would complain.

During the unannounced visit of Ruby, he went to the dining room and saw a meal served of vegetable soup, roast beef, string beans, mashed potato milk, bread and butter.

Meanwhile, Dr. John F. O'Brien was called into conference at City Hall with Mayor Curley and Joseph P Manning, chairman of the hospital trustees

The mayor ignored the complaint for lack of signature, and O'Brien and Manning told him there was no ground for complaint

Holiday Time Brings Hope to Jobless

(If you have an odd job to be done, or work on which one or more extra men can be employed in your business, call the Municipal Employment Bureau Liberty 8607 or mail the coupon to 25 Church st., Boston.)

Ten hard working employes at the Municipal Employment Bureau began a new week today hopeful that the approach of Thanksgiving and the holiday season would spur the people of Metropolitan Boston to supply more work for the unemployed.

Monday once more brought out nearly 1000 applicants for work, with a good supply of jobs awaiting them.

As usual, however, the number of unemployed on hand, most of them in dire need, was more than ten times the number of jobs offered.

John J. Shields director of the employment bureau, expects results this week from his energetic efforts during the past week to get business houses to take on one or more extra men

Residents of Greater Boston many of whom have odd jobs to be done about their property, cannot thus be appealed to personally but the Boston Evening American again urges them to lend their aid —to supply not charity, but work for the needy.

The holiday season, while it bears a promise of work for many, also presages the approach of a crisis, with its cold weather and the increasing threat of hunger which is a serious problem for the unemployed with families dependent upon them

There will be no holiday cheer for the needy but if the people of the Metropolitan district will give thought to their fellow men, there may be encouragement and some measure of help to carry them through the winter.

JACK GILBERT SIGNED TO HEAD CAST IN 'GENTLEMAN'S FATE' FILM

LEROY WILL DIRECT STAR

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 19[illegible] [illegible] Ser[illegible]

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17 — How to get a vehicle worthy of Jack Gilbert's talents is of as much interest to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as the prevalent question of prohibition is to the world at large. While Harry Rapf has been searching the highways and byways for some actor to play the lead in "Gentleman's Fate," Ursula Parrott's story, he remarked he'd like to get someone on the order of Jack Gilbert.

"Why not the original and not an imitation?" suggested Mervyn LeRoy, the director.

Louella O. Parsons

"Never thought of it," said Mr Rapf. "Do you suppose Jack would play the part?"

Jack read the script and was delighted with it. "That is the sort of thing I ought to do," he said. Now, everybody is happy. They have their Jack Gilbert for "Gentleman's Fate" and M. G. M. has found a vehicle for Jack. Leila Hyams, who was better than the story in Jack Gilbert's last picture, plays the feminine lead and William Boyd, the stage actor, has an important role.

"DOCTORS' WIVES" is by far one of the most entertaining novels of the year. It ought to make a good movie, if John Considine Jr. carries out his plan to stick to the story. Furthermore, the Fox company is giving it every break in the world. Frank Borzage is directing and Warner Baxter is in the lead. The man's and woman's parts are almost equal in importance. I should say it is very wise of the Fox Company to choose a young man as intelligent as Warner Baxter, for no dumbbell could play that part.

I JUST BOUGHT a lot of crepe and three or four onions so I can get ready to do a little public mourning. My favorite enemy, Benny Rubin, is leaving town. The wife with the baby and all his household belongings, including the typewriter on which he wrote his nastiest letters to me. Benny has a swell job in New York. He is going to be starred in a musical comedy.

I DON'T KNOW JUST what arrangement Gloria Swanson has with Pathe but I hear on reliable authority that she has only one more picture for Pathe and then she will be free to go to United Artists. It seems likely that Laura Hope Crewes will go with her. Miss Crewes is not only a good friend of Miss Swanson, but she has always taken a personal interest in the Swanson pictures. "Rockabye" has been, as we said the other day, postponed, and the chances are that Gloria will be starting on her first picture for United Artists in another 10 days. Perhaps I'd better explain that, although Miss Swanson has been releasing her films through U A she has been producing them for Pathe.

'DANCERS' AT TWIN HOUSES

Modern youth is defended in "The Dancers," now at the Modern and Beacon, and featuring Lois Moran and Phillips Holmes. The story deals with the romance of a young English couple who plighted their love as children in the gypsy fashion, vowing to take no other in life until they were wed. As Diana, heroine of this sweet love story, Lois Moran easily excels all her former efforts, while Phillips Holmes, as Tony, her lover, gives a sincere and intelligent performance.

GRACE MOORE makes her talkie debut at Loew's State today, in "A Lady's Morals," a Cosmopolitan picture for M-G-M. Gilbert Elmery is also featured.

RICHARD CROMWELL WINS IN 'TOL'ABLE DAVID' AT KEITH'S

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

"TOL'ABLE DAVID," the Columbia picture featured on the RKO Keith screen this week, starts a second Richard on the road to movie fame. The first, one easily recalls out of memories of the good old days of the silent drama, was Richard Barthelmess. Now comes the same story, done into a talkie, and it lifts a new Richard to a place of some importance. The star is Richard Cromwell, a youth of 20.

CROMWELL'S TRIUMPH is rather surprising, as he appeared suddenly as a meteor. He had no studio background whatsoever; and yet he turns in a superb job as young David of the Hill-Billy country. This is due more to his personality and natural fitness for the role, than to a talent for acting. The latter must wait for time to develop. In some ways Cromwell's David is a shade better than was that of Barthelmess. It is not amiss to add that Columbia has rewarded their "find" with a contract announced as having a fat salary.

Noah Beery

RECOLLECTION OF the sterling quality of the silent "Tol'able David" does not lessen the pleasure that comes in the sound version of the Joseph Hergesheimer novel. During the past year one has seen and heard a host of old pictures now done over to give the microphones at Hollywood something to do. Most of them were bad; many were very, very bad. By contrast with the dumb screen product they were irritating. One has all the greater joy, therefore, in recording that "Tol'able David" is different; it retains almost all the good points which is a high tribute indeed where the "mike" is wont to cramp the cameras, and too often motion picture values are lost in the shuffle.

COLUMBIA, AND THE director of this film, John Blystone, may be awarded the credit for making the movie a worth while production. It has much to commend it to film fans, photography, direction, acting. Among the good actors are Noah Beery and Helen Ware, and another young Columbia star, Joan Peers.

LEATRICE JOY ON SCREEN

At the Park the double feature program has "The Love Trader," a South Sea island romance. Leatrice Joy and Barbara Bedford are both in love with the hero, Roland Drew. Barbara, who plays the role of a native girl, starts a fight by trying to knife her rival when she finds him with the white girl, played by Miss Joy. After the green-eyed monster has quieted down, Miss Joy is aroused to great anger when she finds wily Roland has gotten her to his hut by lying to her and that he has used his power of love-making only as a revenge on her husband. Others in the cast are Henry B. Walthall, Chester Conklin and Noah Beery.

SHOW PRODUCERS FACE MANY HANDICAPS

This is the fourth, and last, of a series of opinions by Florenz Ziegfeld, master showman, on pertinent theater questions, 10 of which were propounded by Nicholas Young, dramatic editor of the Boston Evening American. Today he answers questions No. 7, 8, 9 and 10.

By FLORENZ ZIEGFELD

Question No. 7 —Are the sources of musical comedy thinning out, are the authors, composers, directors, etc., measuring up to those who created the Follies of 10 or 15 years ago?

For a time there were no available authors or composers or directors for musical comedy because they were all in Hollywood. But they are all walking back now.

I think there are just as capable authors and composers now as there were 10 or 15 years ago, although there are not many. Those that I would be willing to risk $200,000 to $300,000 productions on are William Anthony McGuire and Oscar Hammerstein, authors, Jerome Kern and Rudolph Friml, composers. The greatest of them all—whom I miss more than anyone with whom I have ever had business relations—was good, reliable Victor Herbert.

Florenz Ziegfeld

Present day musical comedy writers are as good as they were 10 years ago. The trouble is that they are more commercial, and the manager or producer stands alone while the authors, musicians and writers have banded together.

The producer is compelled to sign standard contracts backed by the Authors' League and Equity, and he is more or less at the mercy of actor-composers and writers and since the organizations backed these people they have taken on an air of independence never before experienced in the theater. And so the vital touch to success between the performers, writer, and producer has been extinguished.

WITH MY PRODUCTION "Smiles," I was forced to apply to the courts for an injunction and restraining order to prevent the interference of Vincent Youmans, thereby preventing the ruining of the show.

Besides rehearsing 18 hours a day, I have had to spend my additional time with lawyers to prevent ruination, owing to the clauses that I was compelled to sign in the Authors' League contract. Legitimate managers, like the picture industry, need a Will Hays or a Judge Landis to cope with the difficulties placed in their way and which make it almost impossible to make productions with the present day handicaps and break even.

QUESTION NO. 8—What about the poor misguided critic? Is he a help or just so much dead weight in the theater's struggle to get on? Can you honestly say that such a thing exists as genuine constructive criticism by paid critics?

I feel that it is a great injustice to the producer that a critic must leave a musical show long before it is finished. I believe the critics mean to be honest, but they can hardly leave a show long before it is over and give an honest criticism. Also, the theater is the only business that advertises with the newspaper and then is criticized by that same newspaper which took its paid advertising.

QUESTION NO. 9—Is the flare for talking pictures enduring? Will the talkies stand the test of time? And what is their effect upon the legitimate theater?

I don't think the flare for talking pictures can endure under present conditions. I don't believe that the talkies can possibly find enough worth-while productions to keep all their theaters open. I believe that in a year from now one-half the moving picture theaters will be closed for lack of material.

QUESTION NO. 10—Is the legitimate theater really sick constitutionally, or is it just ailing, like other industries and waiting for brighter weather?

There is nothing the matter with the legitimate theater excepting lack of material. They are not writing plays in Germany, or England, or France, as they did in the days of Charlie Frohman, when he could bring back 20 good plays a year from abroad and produce them for his individual stars.

YOUNG FOLKS TURN TABLES

Turning the tables on the staid older folks provides a sparkling theme for "Fast and Loose," at the Fenway and Scollay. The point of this laughable romantic drama is that the younger generation, while mad and merry, are not as mad as they're painted, and the point is put across with a verve and spirit that makes excellent entertainment.

Leading in the escapades is Miriam Hopkins, blond, petit and delightful. As the daughter of a wealthy Long Island family, she falls madly in love with Charles Starrett, the leading man.

Henry Wadsworth, as the brother, falls in love with Carol Lombard, a chorus girl.

DON COSSACKS TRIUMPH IN CONCERT

By MOSES SMITH

A wealth and variety of musical fare was offered during the week-end for the delectation of the curious, so that if you didn't get what you wanted it was your own fault.

Principal interest, because of its novelty, was the concert of the Don Cossacks at Symphony Hall yesterday afternoon. Appearing here at the beginning of their first American tour, this male chorus of 36 former officers of the Russian Imperial Army was quite as astounding as the advance notices seemed exaggerated. Led by Serge Jaroff, over whom most of the singers in their Cossack uniforms towered a head each, they were in many respects the most remarkable choral organization we have heard here in a decade of steady concert-going.

IN A LIMITED SPACE it is possible only to call attention to their extraordinary sonority, to the tremendous vitality and enthusiasm of the singers, their oriental-like colorfulness, their remarkable contrasts in dynamics. Though the singers do not, for the most part, have an orthodox technique and though their tones were often coarse in quality, the very violence was most effective. Tonal contrasts were attained by such uncustomary methods as the unabashed use of falsetto—and fine falsetto, too!—and by liberal employment of the noblest contrabass tones we have ever been privileged to hear.

Art of a different and more familiar character was the gift of Harold Bauer, playing the piano the preceding afternoon at Jordan Hall before an audience that did not, but should have, filled the hall. When we say that Bauer was at his greatest it becomes unnecessary to expatiate on the virtues of the performance.

FINALLY THERE was the Compinsky Trio of New York, playing last evening at the Repertory Theater for the first time this season. Their program consisted of the Brahms Trio in C, the Smetana in G minor and, for the first time in America, the third trio of Villa-Lobos, Spanish-American composer. The latter piece, on first hearing, seemed to contain a quantity of excellent music, but to be episodic in character. A pervading charm makes us wish it can be heard here again.

As in the past, this capable family group, two of whom play all the scores from memory, delighted the audience. And once more we were treated to that strange—and healthful—occurrence at a chamber music concert, an encore!

KEITH-BOSTON VAUDEVILLE SCORES

A classy vaudeville bill tops with ease the entertainment features at the R K O Keith-Boston this week, the movie, "Top Speed," with Joe E. Brown miming along, taking second place. Heading the stage show are Art Landry and his excellent orchestra. They jazz up the program in great style and provide an interesting portion of the program.

Along comes Scott Sanders, another topnotch entertainer. His characterizations are corking good, and he gets many laughs by his antics.

Still other good acts are provided by Joe Reems and Birdye Markfield, by the Betty Jane Cooper musical revue, with the Lathrop Bros.; by Eddie Foley and Lea La Tour, and by the Australian Waites.

Joe Brown's comic ability has plenty of opportunity to shine in the feature picture. "Top Speed" is full of fun. Its worst feature is that it has singing; and yet fans there are, probably in large numbers, who like their films garnished with melodies. Bernice Claire and Laura Lee are the feminine bright lights.

Good "shorts" complete the program.

HUDSON MOTOR CALLS 1000 TO WORK

The Hudson Motor Car Co. announced today that it has added another 1000 men to its working force, making an additional 350 men put to work in the past three weeks, in line with the policy to afford immediate employment to as large a force of wage earners as possible.

President William J. McAneeny today announced prices at which new Hudson and Essex models will sell. They are lowest in 22 years, he announced.

NEW PRICES ANNOUNCED

The base list price of the Hudson, to be known as the Greater Hudson Eight, will be $875. New Essex Super Six will sell as low as $595. McAneeny points out that his company is offering new products at a saving of $175 on Hudson and $170 on Essex, compared to prices when the new models were introduced one year ago.

Announcing prices in advance of public showing of new models scheduled for end of November was done, McAneeny announced, to give distributors and dealers fullest possible co-operation in preparing for aggressive sales and merchandising campaign strongly supported by advertising when they receive the company's 1931 offerings.

MODELS BEYOND STANDARD

"We have built these models up to and beyond 1931 standard of performance and quality in every way and have never offered so many improvements in our history," said McAneeny. "The quality is greater down to last detail, every phase of performance greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars substantially greater than ever before. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer public greatest combination of quality at low prices in our entire history."

Only former employes of Hudson are being taken back.

HER LIPS WERE MOIST WITH HIS KISSES—

her heart was strangely torn—

During the course of each year there appear before audiences a few films that are singled out from the mass of motion pictures, written about widely in newspapers, discussed everywhere by the public. Such a picture is here now! It is truly an event in the theatres of America and a milestone in the progress of talkies. The heart-hunger, the soul-craving of a woman in love have never been more powerfully depicted. Grace Moore, amazing actress of Broadway shows and the Metropolitan Opera, is fittingly introduced to screen audiences in a titanic talking picture that is to be one of the outstanding entertainments of 1930.

The Famous Woolsack

The seat of the lord high chancellor of England in the House of Lords is called the woolsack. It is a bag of wool covered with red cloth. Wool was the staple commodity of England in reign of Edward the Third.

This Day in Our History

Congress met for the first time in the newly-erected Capitol at Washington, D. C., November 17, 1800. It was the second session of the Seventh Congress and Nathaniel Macon of South Carolina was House speaker.

Gangster Girl

By JACK LAIT

CHAPTER 21

There had been no sleep. The sun was up. And through the sooty curtains of room 444 of the Victory Hotel, Polack Annie and Tommy Gillespie met the daylight.

"You got to scram now, Tommy boy," said Annie, gently. "Kiss me goodbye. I don't think we'll ever meet again."

They had said much through the night. Game as he was, the young fellow had finally accepted Annie's desperate, deadly plan—she had convinced him that it was Freeman's life or his and she had convinced him that she would take Freeman's and save his.

He strained her to him in his athletic arms and he choked on his high emotions. Their lips were glued together in the last passionate kiss—the last of a thousand through the long short night.

Then she opened the door.

"Goodbye, Annie," he half sobbed. "May the Lord be good to you!"

A Farewell

She kissed his hand—then closed the door behind him.

She closed the door behind the only living man on earth she loved, the only honest man who had ever loved her. She closed the door, too, on any peace or profit that New York might have held for her. And on her identity. And on her crowning glory—her red hair—which had sent many good men into frenzy and many bad men to their graves.

As though to steel herself, she locked the door.

And, with one last sigh as she looked toward it, she turned—and went to work. For there was much work to be done this morning and not nice work.

From her handbag she took out a package of dye. She coated a comb with it and started running it through her hair, over and over again. The natural color resisted the first assault, but as she dipped and dragged the vandal comb down and down and down again, it began to give in. Soon that storied hair became—an unrecognizable, dark, nondescript brown. She was still beautiful, but she was no longer Polack Annie.

Now she took from her bag some other things. One was a blued revolver, not of the latest type. In her other hand she held a shiny something that looked like an elongated eyecup. She adjusted the thin end of it over the muzzle and it settled with a click. It was a silencer, practical for the sort of assignment Annie had given herself.

She pumped a shot into her pillow. It worked! There was a noise like the spitting of an angry cat. That was all.

"H'lo," answered Silk. "Why didn' you call las' night? Where's my sucker?"

"He jus' lef' me. Listen, Silk, I can't leave here. I'll explain when I see you. Can you come right over? An' come up alone—I am. I'm in 444, Victory Hotel—you know—"

"I know. I own a piece of it. Why can't you leave?"

Agrees to Come

"Bcous' I'm standin' by here for a buzz on the 'phone from him—get it? When that comes and it'll be any minute now, I'll have him where I want him—an' he'll wait. It's surefire an' foolproof."

"H'm—okay—I'll be over in a half hour."

Annie unlocked the door. She opened the window and went out on the fire escape. She climbed down one floor and looked into 344. Yes, everything was copacetic. The window was open. Her getaway looked clear. She passed through the room, went up the main stairs and was again in 444, which she had chosen as the execution chamber for Silk Freeman. He had better rooms than that in his garage.

She put on her hat and was about to unleash the curls she always displayed with practiced carelessness. She sighed and left it hat-locked. She tumbled everything back into her bag—except the ugly blue gat and its [illegible] appendage.

Annie returned to the fire escape, drew the soiled curtains together, and stood watching the room. She raised her pistol and gauged the range. She visioned Freeman entering—he stepped fast, he would trot in briskly and, not seeing her, would look surprised and search the room with his eyes. If he was still able to. For she proposed to work with dispatch if Freeman should see her before she pumped one into him—he was resourceful, he might dive under the bed or turn and run out again.

He never packed a rod—she knew that. His bodyguards were his gun-bearers. No punk copper or rube sheriff looking for a quick rep was going to put over on him the unexpected frisk and rap him on the concealed weapon joke like they did the imperious Capone in Philly. No, he wouldn't kill her—then!

Doesn't Dare Leave

She piped her wrist watch. The half-hour had passed and three minutes more. More minutes. And more. What could have happened? Promptness was one of Freeman's few virtues.

She didn't dare leave her post or position. Any second now he might turn the knob. What the—"

Silk Freeman, the Big Boy himself, strode out of his Park ave. apartment building flanked by his armed pair of twin killers. One of them leaped to the wheel of his imported palace on tires. Its glistening sides were bullet-proofed with steel sheetings between the layers of exterior veneer and interior of velour. The windows were bullet-proof. The passengers' seat was low and deep in the back of the limousine, and those who sat there were invisible from the side and car.

Through the 66th st. Transverse of Central Park the noiseless engine carried the ungodly three at an even pace.

Behind Silk Freeman's regal carriage was a less pretentious sedan. Only in the crowded traffic of middle Manhattan could such a mean competitor have kept up.

But if one had looked down from an airplane and watched the process of the notorious racketeer from the time he left his home one might have observed the other vehicle was never far behind. Nor was it when Freeman's man popped out to turn the handle for him before the Victory Hotel. It drew up to within a foot and two doors opened, and out of them vomited seven men. By this time Freeman's back was turned and he was on the way in.

The hoodlum in the lead of the seven pursuers wagged a wicked machine gun. The other six were armed with automatics. They raced in. Freeman's bodyguards, who had been instructed to wait outside were so stunned they could not even try to head them but they advanced cautiously [illegible] as far as the outer door.

Killer Known

Freeman was already on the floor, perforated with a dozen bullets, and the assassins were tracking back for their car. The bodyguards, outnumbered, dogged it. They jumped aside and let the murderers who turned toward no one in their haste make their machine and get under way—and away.

Then they rushed in and picked up the bleeding, scarcely conscious Freeman. People were now scrambling down the stairs. The whole operation had not taken 40 seconds.

"It was Nutsy, Nutsy Flemmen," hoarsed the chauffeur.

"Yeh—I know," wearily whispered Freeman. "Get me out o' here—get me home—oh——"

They turned to carry him to his car but two uniformed policemen entered just then.

"Hold it," ordered one of them. "Nobody leaves here. You two guys——"

He had caught a glance of the bloodless face of the victim.

"Lord help us!" he gasped. "It's B. B.!"

"Who done this?" demanded the other.

"I dunno," answered both the bodyguards in unison.

Officer Hillis clumped to the office and 'phoned in a bulletin—it wasn't long—other higher officials would get the details for themselves later.

Officer Hillis, this simple and momentous duty done, started through the hotel. The lower floors yielded little—nobody knew anything, nobody had seen anything, nobody had done anything, nobody had heard anything. But on the fourth floor he tried the door of 444—it was unlocked—he entered.

Annie Took Aim

Annie raised her pistol and took aim. Then she caught herself. This wasn't Freeman. It was a harness bull! She started back on the fire escape, but Hillis heard her.

"Wait where you are," he shouted.

He dragged her back into the room.

"An' who, an' what might YOU be?" he asked.

Annie was rattled, but not enough so as to answer him. She had heard nothing and knew nothing—and said nothing.

Annie managed a painful smile.

"See my lawyer," she said.

"Come with me," he said.

Nutsy Flemmen was back in his loft, far up in the Bronx.

"Dey seen us," he said to Brady Gregor, one of his gorillas.

"Who seen us?"

"Freeman's men—two of 'em. I seen them. But I was too shaky to shoot it out. At dat, we oughta stopped an' croaked 'em. We'll all go on the spot for dis now. But I'd let 'em stan' me again a wall before I'd let dat lousy chiseler get away wit' da deal he hands me.

"I kick in fifty good grand to him—cold dough—for dat much wort' o' coke. Den I find it's cut wit' almos' half bicarb. I had 'im on de phone an' he give me de laugh, and when I says he's gotta come across wit' coke fit for a white man to use or sling back my jack he says for me to go to h—ll.

"Well, if I do, he'll be dere on de reception c'mittee!"

What's in Fashion?

Clothes for the Short, Thin Woman

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—With all this talk about "long-limbed silhouettes," it's no wonder that we're continually asked:

"What about the short woman? Especially the short woman who's thin? Because if she tries to make herself look taller, she's apt to make herself look thinner."

We admit that is a poser at first thought. You can tell the short thin woman, "Wear vertical lines to make yourself look taller." And she comes right back at you with "But vertical lines make me look thinner."

Then if you counter with "Then wear horizontal lines to make yourself look wider," she'd reply. "But horizontal lines make me look shorter."

So in our opinion the best advice she can have is this: "Wear a combination of both. But be sure these lines are so combined and so placed that they do to the various parts of the figure just what you want them to do—both widen and heighten you.

And to illustrate what we mean, we've had sketched a coat and a dress that make this clever combination—and make it right.

Widening Lines

Take the horizontal—or widening—lines first. Notice the sleeves. The gauntlet cuff of the coat and the flared sleeve of the dress both make a widening effect through the narrowest part of the silhouette—the waistline.

But—though they're wide, they have an effect of height, too. Because of their pointed lines. Straight wide cuffs wouldn't have at all the same heightening effect.

Next the revers on the coat. They help fill in the chest. But their fur edging and their triangular shape keep the heightening up-and-down lines.

The draped neckline on the dress is soft and full, too, and its square shape is a widening one. But notice the little vertical points arranged to combine up-and-down lines.

For other widening details, there's the belt — which she doesn't pull too tightly, as that would accentuate her thinness—and the gentle flare in the bottom of the skirt.

Heightening Lines

Now for heightening line. On the coat the first thing you notice is the vertical fur border. Something to draw the eye up and down and make the figure look taller.

But—it's broken by the widening belt before the illusion becomes one of greater thinness rather than height.

You find this same heightening effect in the dress skirt in the way it's seamed—or in the way the soft folds fall. And lest this develop into a "string bean" look, there's a diagonal seam at the hips and a blousing at the waist to break it.

The high draped collar on the coat adds an inch or so to the apparent height of this figure. But the soft roll of the fur gives width through the neck, too. (Y[illegible] shoulders, would give width without height.)

These are just two costumes out of many that are especially good for the short, thin woman. And such combinations of vertical and horizontal lines can be just as becoming and helpful.

The Rhyming Optimist for 'Guidance'

By ALINE MICHAELIS

This much I know, each day I have been led Through calm or tempest, triumph or defeat,
And after clouds and cruel winds have sped,
I have found tranquil skies and gardens sweet.
Not mine to plan my course, not mine to ask
For favors which to others are denied;
But I am grateful for each humble task
Which keeps me still serene and satisfied.

And I am happy for the common ways
Which I with all my fellow creatures tread,
As side by side we travel through the days
Each to a goal he knows not, safely led Through hidden paths, and plans none understand.
I go, secure, my hand within His hand.

Fresh Air Aids in Anemia

Beware of "Wonderful" Tonics

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

FREQUENTLY we hear someone say, "You look so pale, you must be anemic." If this tactless remark ended the matter it wouldn't be so bad. But too often we hear "I have a wonderful tonic, why not try it?"

Dr. Copeland

Perhaps the tonic is taken. It may be without value, but worse than this it may be harmful.

All this is unwise. Many persons are pale and yet are physically fit. Anemia cannot be determined without an examination of the blood.

Many of the so-called "tonics" and "health rejuvenators" are found upon analysis to be of little value. In many cases they are actually harmful because of the drugs they contain. Many are alleged to be rich in iron but actually contain this element in such small amount as to be of little value.

What is meant by anemia is a condition in which there is a decrease in the quality and quantity of the red cells that are found in the blood. In addition, there is usually a decrease in the amount of "hemoglobin." Hemoglobin is the substance responsible for the coloring matter of the blood and it is a powerful aid to the absorption of oxygen by the blood.

Anemic persons usually complain of tiring easily. They have no "pep," or desire to do things. The appetite is poor, the digestion is faulty and occasionally there may be a feeling of faintness. In some severe forms there is loss of weight and difficulty in breathing.

Marked pallor is usually present, but this symptom is not always indicative of anemia. That is why the advice of a lay friend may be wrongly founded.

Anemia may be brought about by an excessive loss of blood. This loss may be accidental or it may follow some surgical procedure. The bleeding may result from hemorrhoids or be due to a stomach ulcer.

Anemia may be caused too by lack of fresh air. Overwork, severe nervous strain, lack of proper food and unhygienic surroundings are other important factors.

Anemia is often cured by rest, fresh air and plenty of good nourishing food. The rest serves as the necessary tonic giving the body a chance to build up its energies. Fresh air in large doses supplies sufficient oxygen to thoroughly revive and stimulate the production of new red blood cells. Nourishing food builds up the blood cells and strengthens the body.

It happens often in anemia that the digestion is impaired. On this account it is necessary to give digestible foods. Milk and eggs are the most important in this respect and can be given unhesitatingly. It is advisable to have at least one quart of milk each day. Abundant bread, toast with butter, preserved fruits and cereals with cream are strongly recommended.

If you are anemic sit down by yourself and try to figure out why. What are you doing that you should not do? What are you leaving undone?

There is no great mystery about disease. Most of our ailments can be traced to causes within our knowledge. The trouble is we think too little about the matters. Indeed we try to fool ourselves as well as the family. We are unwilling to admit anything is wrong.

Even though we make no confessions to others, let us be sensible enough to study our own needs. An hour spent this way may put us on the way to perfect health.

Beauty Hints Make Milady Attractive

By HELEN FOLLETT

THE appearance of a woman is dependent upon the way she carries her head. Of how many women can it be said "She moves a goddess and looks a queen?" All posture. Every girl should know that the trick of getting a reputation as a well-dressed woman is in knowing how to walk. Almost any old dud has snap and style if worn splendidly.

Too much tummy calls for bending exercises. Send the body forward keeping the legs rigid, then send it back. Place the hands on the hips, bend from side to side. Send the [illegible] around [illegible] lowering the head. Take the soldier's position—chest high, head up, [illegible] together bring the hands above the head, then to the floor without bending the knees.

It isn't true that the only beautiful hands are those of perfect form with long tapering fingers. There is beauty in useful hands, those that attend the sick and comfort little children. The hands of the surgeon are as interesting as those of the artist. The trouble with the ideally beautiful hands with perfect shell pink [illegible] that [illegible] too often they are selfish, lazy hands, never useful, never helpful.

Boy Dared Mother to Die

Poison Was Mixed by Himself

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE WOMAN is just a little over thirty years of age.

She is pretty, she is rather intelligent and she is not poor.

But the other day when she found that her son had stolen money from a friend and was neither sorry nor ashamed, she spoke to him in bitter [illegible].

She told him that unless he would promise her to do better she would [illegible].

Winifred Black

And the boy went into the kitchen, took a package of rat poison and mixed it with warm water and came in and handed it to his mother, and said, in his teasing boy's voice,

"All right, here's some poison—you'd better drink it and get it over. I dare you to do it!"

And the mother drank the poison and now she is hovering between life and death at a local hospital.

And nobody cares—except the woman he tried to kill.

She can hardly speak she is so ill, and besides that her lips and throat are burned and swollen—but all the time she whispers over and over the name of her only son who dared her to take [illegible] kitchen and [illegible] for her.

I wonder [illegible] how all this horrible [illegible]

Did that mother [illegible] try with too much [illegible]

Did she love him so much that she made a fool of him, a silly, reckless, conceited, cruel fool who would rather [illegible] what he called [illegible] to save the mother [illegible] him, from cruel agony?

Where did [illegible] of [illegible]

Did she threaten him with suicide whenever she was displeased with him?

That was a [illegible] to do. Very dang[illegible] and very foolish.

I [illegible] a woman who [illegible] telling her husband that she would [illegible] herself if he did this or didn't do that.

And finally she succeeded in making him feel that he had a real grievance against her because she did not keep her promise.

It's all wrong, this idea of emotional appeal [illegible] half-awakened intelligence.

That boy didn't care what happened to his mother.

He didn't care what happened to anybody—but himself.

When he did wrong he should have been told what that wrongdoing meant. Not to his mother, who loved him too well, not to the [illegible] he lived his warped unhealthy life—but to the one person in whom he was interested—himself.

If that mother had taken the boy the very first time he showed a cool indifference to the rights or the feelings of other people, and made him see that he himself would have to suffer for it—[illegible] today.

But to the cold-hearted and the selfish and the cruel, too much love is a wicked teacher.

I wonder if we have not gone too far in this modern doctrine of self expression.

W[illegible] be an excellent idea to teach that self expression is well enough—until it begins to interfere with the "self expression" of somebody else?

Detroit Shows Moderate Gains in Conditions

Continental Motors' Orders Rise; Truck Outlook; President Sells

By B. C. FORBES

Detroit, Nov. 17—W. R. Angell, who has been capably piloting Continental Motors Corp. since he became president, gives me this very heartening news:

B. C. Forbes

"Each month since July our sales have shown a gain over the previous month. The increase has not been at all spectacular, but the fact that the trend has been in the right direction is encouraging."

Mr. Angell is a great believer in that good old remedy for most business ills: hard work. He is a zealous practiser of that virtue. This:

"I believe American industry has learned many lessons from its past and present difficulties, but perhaps no more important lesson has been learned than that there is no substitute for conscientious effort, well directed, as a mean to success. The process of cleaning the barnacles from the hull of the business ship is painful, but when the job is done, American business will be in a much better position to meet competitive conditions. The voyage to profitable prosperity then needs only the practical application of enterprise to furnish the employment of our citizens so necessary before business may again be on a normal basis.

"I am convinced that American initiative, resourcefulness and enterprise will be equal to the task."

Robt. A[illegible] the first [illegible] Mr. Bohn refuses to take a pessimistic view of the general outlook for this country. He says:

"I don't think things are going to get worse. I believe they are now at the bottom. They may hang around the bottom for a while before doing much climbing. One trouble has been that too many people, having broken all records last year, became terribly alarmed because they could not match these records this year. They've been like the golfer whose normal score is around 90 but who, having once miraculously made a 75, assumes that 75 is his regular game."

I was amazed to learn that Mr. Bohn thinks nothing of expending as much as $1[illegible] on a single machine to turn out one of his many products. Incidentally, he regards [illegible]

What [illegible] for the [illegible] Henry Kerb[illegible] of the Federal Motor Truck Company [illegible]:

"I am inclined to believe that in 1931 there will be a most satisfactory increase in truck volume. This is based upon the fact that individuals and companies in general have refrained from buying needed equipment this year and instead have kept up constant repairs on old equipment in order that they might avoid an outlay of funds.

"This equipment must necessarily be replaced because the individual or company whose business depends upon the commercial end of the business must have dependable transportation. Any number of instances have come to my personal attention where it is admitted that they need equipment but will not make purchases until after the first of the year.

"Industry cannot function without dependable transportation, and I believe, therefore, that the truck industry will enjoy a very prosperous year in 1931."

Several important motor companies are taking on additional workers to speed up production of new models. This is greatly lightening what admittedly has been a serious unemployment problem.

OUR CHRISTMAS CLUBS TRACED TO ENGLAND

By FRANK H. MELOON

While the Christmas Club, as [illegible] only 20 years old, a Boston bank official is authority for the statement that Christmas clubs can be traced back to England, like the investment trusts. He declares Christmas clubs were operated in the "Old Country" two centuries ago. The Exchange Trust Co. of Boston was the first to take up the Christmas Club idea in this city. Now you find it active nearly everywhere. It is a boon to the merchants, releasing savings to stimulate business.

You do not hear much discussion of the idea advanced by Rome C. Stephenson, new president of the American [illegible] would have savings banks join the Federal Reserve. Mr. Stephenson hopes to see the Federal Reserve Act amended so that this will be possible, but we find no savings bankers in this section who favor the change. Nevertheless, it might be good for savings banks in other states, where such institutions are less favorably protected by the laws than in Massachusetts.

The coming session of Congress is expected to bring us further attacks and defenses of the Federal Reserve as it now stands. Certainly many like Mr. Stephenson have "pet" ideas regarding amendments they think should be made. In State Street circles the consensus of opinion is that, as usual, the attacks will wear themselves out [illegible] and that nothing constructive in the way of change is to be expected this year.

Miniature golf in New England has had some unexpected results. Pool rooms are being scrapped more rapidly than ships by naval treaties. The "scrapping" is to make way for indoor migration of miniature golf links. Sporting goods makers and sellers are not one in benefiting by the changes. Rentals of stores and leases and sales of land for miniature golf have been many this year.

Harvard University today is one of the largest employers of construction labor in this section north of New York city. It will expend more than $8,200,000 on building construction between November 1, 1930 and September 30, 1931, when the five final units of the Harvard House Plan will be completed. This is in addition to the more than $10,000,000 expended for same purpose during 12 months from November 1, 1929 through October 31, 1930. Fourteen hundred men are employed on construction at Harvard, and the number is increasing weekly.

Monthly bulletin of New York Stock Exchange shows 1487 branch offices of member houses operating Nov. 1, against 1516 on Oct. 1 and 1661 at peak Aug. 31 last. Average price of memberships transferred exclusive of rights was $272,843 in October, compared with $403,533 in October last year. In October this year 15 memberships were transferred, against seven in October, 1929. One of the branch offices discontinued was conducted aboard a steamship [illegible] which is expected to provide a b[illegible] surprise when it enters the Boston field.

Course of Copper Prices a Problem

It is thought that putting up copper to 12 cents from 9½ cents in two and one-half days is as much as an international market will stand. However so long as buyers are in the market the general feeling is that producers can name the price they want. But considering stocks in fabricators' hands, undelivered but sold metal on producers' books and unsold stocks of refined copper here and abroad, the course of the market is problematical.

The advance of 1½ cents Friday is, so far as records show, and can be remembered, the largest advance in official price in a day. The biggest drop in official or producers' price in any one day was the drop [illegible] cent April 16, 1930, when the producers dropped their price of 18 cents, held for about a year, to 14 cents.

Grand Union Sales to Date Up 12 P. C.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Grand Union Company reported for the five weeks ended Nov. 8, sales of $3,469,422, a decrease of 2.8 per cent from $3,570,002 for the like period last year. Sales for the 45 weeks ended Nov. 8 totaled $31,402,151, an increase of 12.7 per cent over $27,856,637 for the corresponding period of 1929.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

The market value of fifty representative stocks on the New York Stock Exchange at the close of the week ended Saturday was $19,937,378,183, an increase of $1,447,182,001 or approximately 7.83 per cent over the value of $18,490,196,182 at the close of the preceding week according to a compilation by Otis & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange.

This compares with $23,261,494,275, the value of the shares at the close of the corresponding day in 1929.

Price Stabilizing in Steel Cheers

Although reports from Pittsburgh indicate that further recession in steel production is probable in next month authorities there say fairly substantial seasonal upturn should appear after January 1. Most encouraging development in industry in remainder of this year is expected to be stabilization of prices rather than increase in operations.

Bangor & Aroostook Earnings Higher

Bangor & Aroostook will be one of the few railroads to show higher earnings this year than 1929 and this will have been accomplished on a substantial increase in the amount of common outstanding. The road probably will show between $9 and $10 on the junior stock against $8.46 a share on a smaller amount last year. At present price it is selling at less than six times estimated earnings.

The road made an auspicious start this year, earnings running far ahead of 1929. During the summer business showed declines. However, in the week ended November 1 traffic turned up again. Business was not good in early October so that gross revenue for the month will be under a year. However, for the entire year the earnings will be highly favorable.

Watching Previous Resistance Levels

More attention will be given to previous resistance levels than ever before. If the market is to do better for a longer period than many now believe possible it is argued that good resistance should be encountered at the lows established early last week. Ability to absorb selling and profit-taking and keep stocks at or above these lows would be a most encouraging indication. Such action would probably result in bringing considerable new buying into the market on any subsequent reaction.

Outside Buyers Use Stop-Loss Orders

Outsiders who have been buying stocks in the past few sessions have been using stop-loss orders to protect accounts. As further advances have been recorded the limits on the stops have been raised. This practice is in line with recommendations which have come from many leading commission houses. Of course, a technical reaction will uncover such stop orders but many believe that the market will encounter sufficient support on a reaction to keep a downward movement orderly.

Beech-Nut Packings Dividend Covered

Beech-Nut Packing has made a good record this year. Earnings for nine months have more than covered the full year's dividend requirements. Estimates are that for this year the earnings will be in the neighborhood of $5.50 a share, compared with $6.03 a share in 1929. Dividends are paid at the rate of $3 a share annually, so that this will be covered by a substantial margin in the 12 months. The company has been making distributions without interruption since 1902. Last December a stock dividend of 5 per cent was ordered paid.

Plan to Shorten Depression Urged

Plan to shorten appreciably prevailing period of depression throughout the world through relending to debtor nations of United States the sums owed to us proposed by S. R. Bertron, head of Bertron Griscom & Co. Plan calls for advances for a period of years at a low rate of interest with stipulation that sums be used to purchase raw materials and manufactured goods in this country.

Sales Improving, Credit Men Find

Another slight improvement in both sales and collections of wholesale and manufacturing firms is reflected in the November trade survey conducted by Credit Monthly, publication of the National Association of Credit Men. This is the sixth consecutive month to show an improvement in collections, and the third to show an improvement in sales.

Nine cities reported brisk sales, whereas only seven reported brisk sales a month ago. Five cities reported good collections, as against three reporting good collections in the October survey.

Sugar Preferred Gives Big Yield

American Sugar 7 per cent preferred is selling around $96, against high of $110 this year, yielding on the former price 7.29 per cent. Outstanding are 450,000 shares cumulative as to dividends. Par is $100. The company earned $6,645,804 in 1929, more than twice the amount necessary to cover preferred requirements.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, American Sugar had current assets of $66,545,519, including $22,314,372 cash, and current liabilities of $8,636,428, or a working capital of $57,909,091. On Jan. 1, 1930, $5,000,000 of the 15-year 6 per cent bonds due in 1937 were retired at $104, leaving $13,861,000 outstanding.

Recently directors ordered a further reduction of $5,000,000 of the bonds at $103 Jan. 1, 1931. Of the original $30,000,000 that will leave outstanding $13,961,000 of funded debt. That should add to the value of the preferred. Payments on the preferred have been made without interruption since issuance in 1891. The preferred has equal voting power with the common, and is non-callable.

Engineering Work Makes Large Gain

Voting of a total of $45,000,000 by San Francisco—35 millions for a toll bridge over Golden Gate Strait and 10 millions for harbor developments—caused a big jump in the value of proposed heavy construction and engineering work announced throughout the country during the past week, the McGraw-Hill Construction Daily reports. All classes, except highways, reached an aggregate of $100,976,000, the largest weekly total since the middle of June. This compares with $14,654,000 in the very low preceding week and $60,936,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Untermyer Seeks Relief for Industry

Samuel Untermyer urges Congress to relieve copper, oil and other industries dealing with natural resources from restrictions of anti-trust laws and to permit Federal Trade Commission to pass on prices and regulate production. Regarding steps taken to curtail copper production, he said:

"There can be no doubt of economic wisdom and pressing necessity for some such action to end vast waste due to over-production," but he also said action was "plainly illegal."

Long Road Ahead for Stock Gains

From the close last Monday to the close Saturday the Dow-Jones industrial average showed a gain of 15.08 points and railroads 4.74. The market still has a long way to go, however, before it reaches the 245.09 figure touched Sept. 10. To reach that level industrials must advance 58.41 points and rails 34.46. The present industrial average compares with the 1930 peak of 294.07 and the high for railroads of 157.94.

Views on Short Interest Differ

One large brokerage house that makes a business of lending stocks says the short interest is smaller because of haste of traders to cover on the several days' rise.

On the other hand another broker, also a heavy lender, says traders on the bear side hadn't much confidence in the rally and sold stocks short on the way up.

Newmont Mining Stages Comeback

Newmont Mining is up 11 from recent low, due to enhancement in market value of its copper share holdings. Newmont, it is understood, established losses against taxes, but, in spite of such selling, earnings will be in excess of the annual $4 dividend rate. At their next meeting the directors probably will declare the regular quarterly of $1.

Int. Railways' Yield Is Large

Certain securities are now selling on a very low ratio to share earnings. A case in point is International Railways of Central America common, which, at 9¾, is selling at 1.6 times 1929 earnings of $6.06 a share on the common and less than four times earnings of $2.50 a common share the minimum expected by the management this year.

In first six months of the year, International Railways had a balance applicable to charges of $2,040,069. This was almost exactly equal to the combined total of charges for the entire year 1930 and dividends on the 100,000 shares of 5 per cent preferred.

In July, August, September and October balance for charges increased $504,334.

While delay in movement of coffee and a reduction in import freight tonnage indicate earnings in final two months this year will be below 1929 levels, they should enable the company to show at least $2.50 a common share, perhaps $3.

Selling at 35½, International Railways $5 preferred yields better than 14 per cent. In 1929 net was almost five times preferred dividend requirements.

BOSTON STOCK PRICES ARE LOWERED

Prices moved lower in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Changes ranged from fractions to 3 points or more. Copper issues were subject to profit-taking, following the extensive gains of last week.

Edison, Boston & Albany and Boston Elevated were strong spots recording gains of from 1 to 2 points.

Anaconda and Granby dropped over 2 points. Quincy Mining sold over a point lower.

Olympia Theaters common was down fractionally to a new 1930 low, while the preferred made its first appearance of the year.

Losses of a point or more were shown by Atchison American Telephone, Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred, General Electric and Stone & Webster.

New Haven and Gillette eased fractionally. Pond Creek Pocahontas sold up fractionally. United Fruit was around a point lower.

Spring lines of rugs and carpets will be offered by Boston-listed Bigelow Sanford Carpet Co. at its opening Dec. 1. It is expected to be the most outstanding and comprehensive showing ever made in history of the company.

Three of New York's newest skyscraper hotels in the Central Park district are the latest in the long list of hotels throughout the country in which Bigelow Sanford floor coverings are used—the St. Moritz, the Pierre and the Carlyle. The 1000-room St. Moritz is the largest of these. It is 36 stories high while the Pierre is 42 stories and the Carlyle 35 stories.

Wildey Savings Bank declared a semi-annual dividend on deposits of 2¼ per cent, payable November 25. The bank had been paying at the annual rate of 5 per cent on its deposits.

Meeting of the board of Calumet & Arizona Mining Co., scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed to November 25, due to lack of quorum.

New England Power Association, a unit of the International Hydro-Electrical Co., has taken over all the power companies controlled by C. D. Parker & Co., including Massachusetts Utilities Associates and Amesbury Electric Co.

SPECTATOR'S VIEWS GIVEN

By SPECTATOR

New York, Nov. 17—Enthusiasm generated by last week's recovery may well continue in evidence this week. Wall Street reports only the "cubs" have covered their shorts, the big bears stubbornly refusing to believe their drive against the market has reached its conclusion. Meanwhile, it is estimated that a billion dollars' worth of stock was purchased by small investors since the first of October. This stock, transferred to investment holders, will not be floating around the speculative district ready to take fright at the first sign of bearish calamity talk.

If the decisive improvement in copper prices spreads to other industries, the week of November 10 may well take the palm as marking the definite time of beginning of the real recovery from the depression of 1930. A further rise in the stock market would probably substantiate that conclusion.

Copper Outlook Gloomy

A survey of the copper situation, as made by a leading Stock Exchange house, discloses that even should the price of the metal be stabilized at 12 cents, very few of the copper producers would be able to earn their current dividends. With the statistical position of the industry admittedly in the worst state in more than a decade, it is problematical whether the current price level can be maintained.

Little Gain in Steel

Another industry in which efforts at price stabilization are being attempted is steel. A study of prevailing conditions indicates there is little prospect of a marked gain in steel output or demand before next year. Should betterment in the industry really be in the offing, with the turn of the year it would be in keeping with market precedent for a slow but steady advance in steel securities to take place in the immediate future.

Morris Plan Shows 20th Year's Gain

For the twentieth successive year, Morris Plan banks and companies situated throughout the country report appreciable increases in the volume of Morris Plan thrift certificates held by the public, the aggregate report for the first nine months of this year showing a combined amount of $97,042,000 now invested by the public in these certificates. It is probable that this amount will well exceed $100,000,000 by the end of the year, it was said by President Arthur J. Morris of the Industrial Finance Corporation.

The present amount of $97,042,000 compares with $89,606,804 for the first nine months of 1929.

American Zinc's Profit Is $29,114

American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. for quarter ended Sept. 30 estimates profit of $29,114 after depreciation and depletion, but before federal taxes, against $124,540 in the preceding quarter and $128,[illegible] in the first quarter this year.

American Ice Profits at New Record High

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

New York, Nov. 17—New competition from electrical and gas refrigeration in recent years stirred the old line ice companies to new activity, and accordingly, in this red ink year, the leaders among the ice companies are among the select minority of corporations which have been reporting rising profits.

M. S. Rukeyser

As president of the American Ice Company, Charles C. Small is entitled to the designation of the world's outstanding ice man. For the first nine months of this year, Mr. Small's company reported net earnings, after interest but before federal taxes and depreciation, of $5,030,908, compared with $4,879,368 for 1929. The showing is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that two or three years ago, at the crest of the "new era," it was common gossip among the superficial that electrical and gas refrigeration would soon drive the manufacturers and distributors of ice from the field.

Asked to explain how his company had been able to meet the new competition and boost profits, Mr. Small started off by telling me:

"I am confident the last quarter will show a continuance of the trend."

Addressing himself to the question he added:

"In the first place, favorable temperatures helped some; you will recall that the past summer was notably hot and dry.

"Also the company is beginning to enjoy some of the benefits of the latest acquisitions, two or three small companies operating in its territory having been purchased in 1928-29.

"But the main cause of our showing can be credited to the fact that the ice business is a good basic industry which can be made to yield satisfactory results when properly handled.

"As far back as three years ago we realized that we were confronted with competition in a severe form and along somewhat new lines. By intensive sales campaigns covering all of our territory we have actually increased the number of customers served by several thousand and our tonnage has grown. Hardly a month passes without the addition to our customers of a club, a large hotel or an important restaurant which buys ice for its service needs. The number of food shops, etc., is continuously growing, and these establishments are all buyers of ice.

"Our distributing facilities have been motorized and enlarged to meet these changes and our manufacturing operations placed on a strictly scientific basis.

"Many people I know find it hard to realize that an ice company, at a time of depression and in the face of extreme competition, can establish new records for earnings, but there are the facts."

Apropos of the widespread urging that retailers pass along bargain prices to their customers, Morton J. May, president of the May Department Stores Company, which operates large stores in St. Louis, Denver, Los Angeles, Cleveland and Baltimore, in a message to this column insists that his own observation indicates that retailers have fully passed along declines in primary markets.

"I should say," the merchant pointed out, "from our own experience that retail figures are lower than the peak of last year from 20 per cent to 25 per cent. Competition has been much keener this year than ever before. Merchants are scrambling for business in order to keep up their sales—in many instances regardless of profit.

"I would not forecast any still further reduction in retail prices, because I believe we are at the bottom.

"The current trend in sales is toward the purchasing for absolute needs, and not otherwise."

Thousands Get Jobs at the Auto Plants

New York, Nov. 17—President J. McAneeney of Hudson Motor Car Co. states 1000 men were added to the payrolls today, making an increase of 3500 in three weeks.

Approximately 3000 employes of Oakland Motor Car Co. and Fisher Body plant at Pontiac are being recalled to start production on new lines.

According to Gordon Lefebvre, vice-president in charge of operations, Oakland by next Wednesday will have recalled more than 1700 workers in addition to the 3800 already on the payroll.

Adjoining plant of Fisher Body Corp., now employing 1100 men, will raise that number to 2300. The additional workers being hired are needed to enable to the Fisher plant to keep step with the increase in car production.

U. S. Exports Gain for Fourth Month

Washington, Nov. 17 (INS)—For the fourth consecutive month American exports showed a gain in October, the Commerce Department announced today.

Imports increased three months in a row.

However, for the 10 months period ending Oct. 31, the total trade of $5,929,000,000 was $2,193,000,000 under that of last year. Exports amounted to $4,372,000,000, a loss of $1,092,000,000, while imports were valued at $3,751,000,000, a decline of $1,101,000,000.

The "forward balance" of trade for 10 months was $621,110,000. For the 10 months gold imports exceeded the exports by $212,194,000.

Many Tickers Are Disabled by Rain

New York, Nov. 17—Owing to water seeping into manholes downtown, many of the Western Union tickers, including stock, grain and cotton, are out of order. Company says many of these are temporarily out of order, but cannot compute the number.

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

The current review of J. W. Bowen & Co. contains an analysis of the action of the market at the low point of 1921-22. This letter brings out the peculiarities of the various averages in a striking manner. A decade ago the two leading security averages made their lows in different months of the year.

Boston railroad observers interpret the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in recognizing the plea of Mid-western carriers for higher rates, as a practical admission of extreme competition from trucks and pipe lines that the carriers have been unsuccessful in meeting. Some rail men consider a uniform rate for all types of carriers the ultimate solution to their troubles.

State Street, while not favorable to comparisons with last year, is impressed by a comparative study of leading New York bank stocks, which are widely held in this section.

Because of the sources that now are of a definite mind that stocks should be accumulated on any setback, local brokers are of the opinion that the real liquidation is over.

Many think if the stock market can maintain its present happy frame of mind during the inevitable secondary reaction, it may easily influence an upturn in business.

Lead Output for Month Is Larger

Production of refined lead in the United States amounted to 55,309 tons in October, against 53,237 tons in September and 56,036 tons in August, according to American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Domestic stocks of refined lead amounted to 84,375 tons at the end of October, against 73,689 tons at the end of September and 72,832 tons at the end of August.

CURB MARKET HAS HEAVY SELLING

New York, Nov. 17—Heavy selling in the final hour of a generally reactionary session on the Curb market today accelerated the downward pace, and caused severe price declines in all sections of the list.

The utility group was particularly hard hit with Duke Power slumping 13½ points, American Gas breaking 6½ points and Electric Bond & Share dipping 3 points.

Losses of a less drastic nature were sustained in American & Foreign Power warrants, American Superpower, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Power & Light warrants, Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson Power, United Gas, and United Light & Power.

Cities Service weakened after early firmness and dropped a point.

Oils were forced close to their low levels of the year with Standard of Kentucky off 3½, Humble off 2, Vacuum off 2⅛ and fractional losses sustained in Gulf and Standard of Indiana.

Investment trusts were under pressure, with Goldman Sachs prominent in the downturn with a loss of 1¼ points.

In the specialty group Great Atlantic & Pacific Stores was an outstanding exception to the reactionary trend, advancing more than 5 points. Other issues in this section were moderately lower.

ORE DIVIDEND IS RAISED

New York, Nov. 17—Great Northern Iron Ore properties declared a semi-annual distribution of $1 placing the certificates of beneficial interest on a regular $2 annual basis and an extra distribution of 50 cents, both payable Dec. 29 to stock of record Dec. 5.

In 1929 distributions on the certificates totaled $3.25, including $1.25 in April and $2 in December, while in 1928 distributions totaled $2.75, including 75 cents in April and $2 in December. Distributions for 1930 will total $2.25, including 75 cents in April and $1.50 in December.

Announcement of the trustees states:

"As announced in their 1929 annual report, the trustees of Great Northern Ore Properties during the past year concluded a number of new leases. In view of additional minimum royalties accruing under these new leases, trustees feel justified at this time in placing their certificates of beneficial interest on a regular $2 per year distribution basis, payable semi-annually $1 in June and $1 in December, plus such extra distributions as royalty receipts for each season warrant.

"Accordingly the trustees have ordered a regular distribution of $1 a share and an extra distribution of 50 cents a share, an aggregate of $1.50 a share."

Melius President of U. S. Freight

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Frederick N. Melius, assistant general manager of the New York Terminal District of the New York Central Railroad, has been elected president of the United States Freight Company and the Universal Carloading & Distributing Company, a subsidiary. He succeeds C. S. Eytinge, who resigned last January.

MARKET RELAPSE ERASES GAINS OF TWO DAYS

New York, Nov. 17—Today's relapse in the New York stock market proved sufficient to erase gains made in the two previous sessions.

The reaction was not unexpected, coming after five days of steadily rising prices. The rise had been the most extended in point of duration since last May.

COPPERS REACT.

The wave of short covering, which provided much of the impetus of last week's advance, appeared to have been at least temporarily completed.

Leaders showed little resistance to profit taking and renewed liquidation, selling off 2 to nearly 10 points, although the day's transactions were only about 2,400,000 shares.

Several issues rallied a point or two from the day's lowest in the last few minutes, but final prices generally were not far from the bottom.

The coppers reacted substantially. Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott and Cerro De Pasco losing 2 to 4. North American closed off 3, after selling down about 5.

Shares closing 3 to 4 lower included American telephone, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, Byers, New York Central, Atchison and American Can. DuPont and Case lost 4 to 5, and Allied Chemical closed off 8, or a point above the days lowest.

COPPER AT 11½ CENTS

"The copper shares were unsettled by a decline in the price of the metal to 11½ cents, after last week's advance from 9½ to 12 cents. A moderate volume was sold for export on the basis of 12 cent during the morning.

Today's recessions were generally only natural reactions from the peaks which represented a comeback of from 5 to 24 points in last week's five-day advance.

In the absence of new important developments in trade and industry, the market lapsed into a professional affair, with most of the outside traders taking a non-committal attitude.

Brokerage houses warned their customers against "following" last week's advance, for the reason that it was based chiefly on the chasing in of the shorts, rather than on specific recovery in business.

Wall Street was skeptical of the farm board's new efforts for "stabilization" of the grain markets.

The action of the market was about in keeping with Wall Street's expectations, although some observers had expected the rally might carry over a day or two longer. Brokerage circles were anxious to see what sort of support the market would attract after losing from a quarter to a half of last weeks gains, as that would be about the extent of a normal technical reaction.

SERVICES CAUTIOUS

Furthermore, the weekly advices of economic advisory services rather emphatically suggested that investors go slowly, pending conclusive signs of business recovery. Moody's pointed out that, while loans to brokers have been reduced by about 70 per cent since September, 1929, total speculative credit outstanding, including the large volume of bank loans on securities, had come down by only about 38 per cent.

This analysis pointed out that bank loans are fundamentally sounder than brokerage loans, but added that the large volume suggests a slow rather than any sort of fast recovery in stocks after the turn has passed.

The October foreign trade figures show that exports were off about 38 per cent from last year, and imports 36½ per cent. Exports showed a gain of about $10,000,000 over September, which is less than seasonal, but imports were up about $21,000,000, an encouraging gain. It was pointed out, however, that the dollar value decline from last year appears worse than it is, since prices have shrunk about 10 or 12 per cent.

Intensive efforts to stabilize the grain market tended to make speculators in stocks hesitant until more decided results appear. A statement by Premier Bracken in Manitoba that there appeared no foundation for the fear that the Canadian pool would dump a large quantity of grain on the market was reassuring.

There was little demand for call money and funds were freely offered in the outside market at 1 per cent, although the loan discount rate was still 2 per cent.

Seeping of water into the manholes and overflowing into cable conduits put a number of stock, grain and cotton tickers out of order today. It was expected that the trouble would be of short duration, but poor transmission of quotations was held partially responsible for the falling off in stock transactions on all exchanges.

Transactions on the big board were mostly at the rate of 2,000,000 shares, against 3,451,000 shares last Thursday. Quotations in some offices were relayed by the news tickers or by telephone.

COPPER PRICES ARE MIXED

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Copper was being offered in the domestic market by some dealers today at 11½ cents a pound, a concession of one-half cent from the price established late Friday. It was reported, however, that no sales were made at the reduced figure.

The large producers were holding their metal at the 12-cent level.

Copper also was being offered abroad today at 11.85 cents a pound, compared with the copper exporters price of 12.30 cents C. I. F. European base ports.

Foreign sales by copper exporters, Inc., aggregated about 8,000,000 pounds, against 20,500 pounds sold in the foreign market Saturday.

Grains Are Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, Nov. 17—Grains closed higher today. Wheat finished 3¼-3⅝c. a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1½-1¾c. up; oats ½-1⅛c, advanced, and provisions varying from 10c, decline to a rise of 20c.

$20,000,000 Issue Is Oversubscribed

Offering of $20,000,000 Federal Land Bank 4½ per cent bonds has been oversubscribed.

STOCK FOR INCOME

F. B., Revere—I am a wage earner, without dependents. I have $1500 Title Guarantee & Trust 5½s and ten shares St. Louis-San Francisco preferred. I have $4000 in a savings bank and want to put about $2000 in a common stock paying dividends regularly, that offers good possibilities for a profit later on. What shall I buy?

Ans.—We cannot advise you. If you want to buy stocks on their chances for advancement you can pick them as readily as anyone. On the other hand, if you want a regular income, aside from speculative possibilities, and would be satisfied with a yield of 5½ per cent, get twenty shares Southern Pacific costing less than $2100; annual income $120. Though net operating income so far this year is below similar period of preceding year, the company is in good financial position. The management is conservative, and despite the fact earnings have often warranted an increase the stock has been kept on the current $6 rate from 1909. Title Guarantee & Trust 5½s are sound. Keep St. Louis-San Francisco preferred. Earnings for first nine months are under corresponding period last year, but covered the annual $6 dividend by a good margin.

'House Warming' Party Became 'Moving Day' Job

QUEENIE SMITH

"NEXT TO THE ELECTRIC CHAIR, the thing I dreaded most was the breaking up of the home in Boston and moving Mrs. Donahue and the little Donahues down to New York," is what Jack Donahue said. You see Jack with his children, Alma and Barbara (in carriage) about the time they moved to Long Island. Queenie Smith, and Jack, who starred in "Be Yourself," and many members of that company became movers for the day, when "house warming" invitations were sent out and it was found that the vans from Boston had just arrived. Members of the company proved great furniture movers.

MOVING EASY FOR JACK

I married! I guess I'm just a lucky chap, that's all."

How He Landed
A Donahue and Hard Work

That reference to his luck was characteristic. It was inevitably his answer to queries as to how he "landed" on Broadway. But it was hard work, and talent, not luck, that landed him in an Al Woods comedy after Alice Stewart decided her partnership should be carried on at home.

From vaudeville to comedy, developing his singing voice and his quip as well as his dance steps, he moved.

And finally, in 1918, into musical comedy, "Woman Haters," on Broadway.

From Charlestown to Broadway his feet had tapped the span of small-time, vaudeville, burlesque and minstrel show.

"Watch the Donahue go now," he said.

Flo Ziegfeld signed him in 1919 for the "Follies of 1920." Ten years he was to ride the surge of Broadway's smiles and tears, his beam-like shoulders swaying to the rhythm of his feet, his humor bright as dawn, until the last curtain fell upon his act.

TOMORROW—"This is My game."

Nashua Mill Goes on Full Time Basis

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 17 (AP)—The Jackson mill of the Nashua Manufacturing Company began operation on a full time basis for the first time in two years. Resumption of full time operation was made possible through an agreement with employes providing for a wage reduction, but with a guarantee of six days a week work until May 1.

The mill, which has been employing 200 men, will have 600 employed by the end of the week. About 100 additional were put to work today.

Boy Vandal Suspect Killed by Detective

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Joseph Ross, 18, was shot and killed today by a detective lying in wait for automobile vandals. James Byrnes, the detective, said Ross flashed a gun after the officer had fired two shots in the air. Ross' gun was found to be unloaded.

Port of Boston

By CARL MORRISON

The Holland-America liner Noorderdyk docked over the week-end at Pier 46, Mystic wharves, from Rotterdam, with 1000 tons of toys and general cargo.

The steamer Robin Adair, which came here recently with lumber for Boston, Providence and Baltimore from the Pacific Coast, has been delayed in her sailing. She was due to leave Saturday for Providence, but twisted her rudder while leaving her berth in the Mystic River.

The steamer anchored in the stream until being floated to drydock. She is expected to leave the Bethlehem plant some time Tuesday.

SPICES ARRIVE

Valuable cargoes of spices, rubber, and rattans recently arrived here from the Dutch East Indies on the Dutch steamer Boschdyk.

AVIATION WILL REACH HEIGHTS

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The aviation industry, after hitting the heights of premature growth is on a sound business basis, and will grow steadily from now on. Such is the opinion of Harry D. Copland, Boston manager for Curtiss-Wright Flying Service.

Copland, who has been engaged in commercial aviation since the close of the war, has studied conditions throughout the years, and has reached his decision while experts are bewailing the unsteadiness of the industry.

The sudden and unexpected boost aviation received with the ocean flights of 1927 shot the industry to heights which it was entirely unfitted to reach at that time, declared Copland.

Then came the period of depression, with aviation going down with all other industries, but out of the ashes will rise a stronger, bigger and better profit-winning business.

"I think the time for all pessimists to get out of the industry is here," said Copland. "We need able, courageous and far-seeing aviation experts now more than ever before. The big companies have retrenched, and are operating along lines conducive to better business.

"The period of making Americans 'fair-minded' has passed. We are now entering the period when 'fair-opportunity" must be given the American public if the business is to get anywhere.

"Commercial flying is here to stay; that has been proven. Ways and means of getting people in the air must be devised, and then we will have commercial flying on a truly paying basis."

RECORD SET

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., operators of the 36-hour airplane service from coast to coast, reports 95 per cent of its scheduled trips completed for the first two weeks of operation. According to officials of the line, this has done much to dispel the belief held in some quarters that air service between New York and Los Angeles must necessarily be irregular because of weather conditions.

WORK STARTS

Construction of the new east-west runway at Boston Airport will start Friday. Final soundings will be completed early in the week by park department engineers, and then the suction dredge of the Bay State Dredging Co. will begin work of filling the mud flats on the southeastern side of the field. The runway when completed in the spring, will eliminate the hazards of planes taking off over the buildings of the Jeffries Point section.

Who Shot Diamond? Grand Jury Asking

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—A legal effort to learn the who and why of the shooting of Jack Diamond, gangster, was begun today by the same grand jury which inquired into the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater. Diamond was severely wounded in his room at the Hotel Monticello a month ago. Dist. Atty. Crain said the jury would hear evidence against three unidentified men who Diamond said assailed him.

English Professor Sees World Naked

London, Nov. 17 (INS)—The world will go naked in the near future and, according to Prof. J. C. Flugal of the London University, women will give the lead to the clothesless mode.

Proceeds of Dance to Aid Priest's Work

Friends of Rev. Michael J. Flaherty, S. J., have completed arrangements for the dance and benefit to be given in his aid at Hibernian Hall, 184 Dudley st., Roxbury, tomorrow evening. The Fahey brothers' Emerald Gems will furnish the music.

Rev. Flaherty celebrated his first mass at St. Vincent's Church in South Boston three years ago. He later was sent to Texas where he was recently appointed pastor of a new parish.

Fr. Ahearn Speaks at Newton School

Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., director of the Catholic Truth Period, declared there is no conflict between science and religion, in an address yesterday at the Sacred Heart Country Day School, Newton.

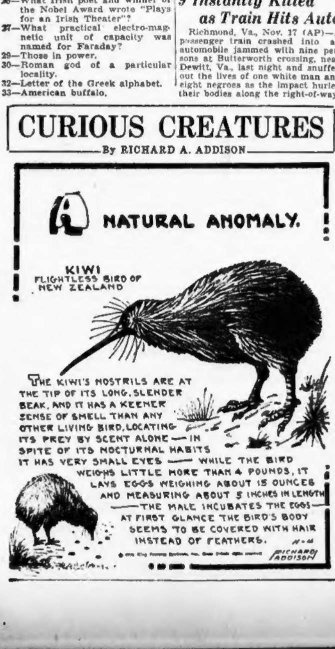
"There is no conflict between science and theology, contrary to popular belief," he said. "The existing conflict is between scientists and theologians in regard to their theories."

9 Instantly Killed as Train Hits Auto

Richmond, Va., Nov. 17 (AP)—A passenger train crashed into an automobile jammed with nine persons at Butterworth crossing, near Dewitt, Va., last night and snuffed out the lives of one white man and eight negroes as the impact hurled their bodies along the right-of-way.

CURIOUS CREATURES

—By RICHARD A. ADDISON—



NATURAL ANOMALY.
KIWI
FLIGHTLESS BIRD OF NEW ZEALAND
THE KIWI'S NOSTRILS ARE AT THE TIP OF ITS LONG, SLENDER BEAK, AND IT HAS A KEENER SENSE OF SMELL THAN ANY OTHER LIVING BIRD, LOCATING ITS PREY BY SCENT ALONE — IN SPITE OF ITS NOCTURNAL HABITS IT HAS VERY SMALL EYES — WHILE THE BIRD WEIGHS LITTLE MORE THAN 4 POUNDS, IT LAYS EGGS WEIGHING ABOUT 15 OUNCES AND MEASURING ABOUT 5 INCHES IN LENGTH —THE MALE INCUBATES THE EGGS— AT FIRST GLANCE THE BIRD'S BODY SEEMS TO BE COVERED WITH HAIR INSTEAD OF FEATHERS.

U. S. EMBASSY IN CUBA GUARDED

Havana, Nov. 17 (AP)—A special guard of Cuban police today patrolled the area about the American embassy here as a precaution taken by the Government after discovery of an alleged Communist plot against American property.

As disclosed by the Government, the plot sought American intervention in Cuba, the conspirators reasoning this would materialize if American property were destroyed. The Government, learning of the plot, considered the embassy to be the most likely point of attack and acted accordingly. Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim expressed confidence the Cuban Government had the situation well in hand.

Not only Havana, but all of Cuba, appeared quiet over the week-end.

'Unfortunate' Indeed!

Coolidge's Speech Good Enough for America If Not for Europe

Professor Hudson, an employe and advocate of the League of Nations, says that former President Calvin Coolidge's Armistice Day speech was unfortunate, because it either prevented or delayed the entrance of the United States into the League Court.

Unfortunate, indeed? We shall quote some of the direct statements made by Mr. Coolidge in that speech and leave it to the judgment of patriotic, everyday American citizens more interested in the welfare of their own country than in the schemes of Europe to decide whether they were "unfortunate."

"Our resources delivered Europe from starvation and ruin."

"We should like to have our government debts all settled, although it is probable that we could better afford to lose them than our debtors could afford not to pay them."

"It is sometimes represented that this country made a profit out of the war. Nothing could be further from the truth. Up to the present time our net war costs are about $36,400,000,000 and it is probable that our final cost will run well toward $100,000,000,000, or half the entire wealth of the country when we entered the conflict."

"In the final treaty of peace, not only was the map of Europe remade, but the enormous Colonial possessions of Germany were divided up among certain allied Nations. We neither sought nor took any of the German possessions. We have provided by law for returning the private property of her nationals."

"It no doubt had some significance that foreign governments (in the Washington conference) made agreements limiting that class of combat vessels in which we were superior, but refused limitation in the class in which they were superior."

"During last Summer France and England made a tentative offer which would limit the kind of cruisers and submarines adapted to the use of the United States, but left without limit the kind adapted to their use."

And, finally, Mr. Coolidge said:

"We have sometime been reproached for lecturing Europe, but probably ours are not the only people who sometimes engage in gratuitous criticism and advice."

"We have also been charged with pursuing a policy of isolation. We are not the only people, either, who desire to give their attention to their own affairs."

As a matter of fact, Calvin Coolidge, a peace-loving man and a shrewd man, was utterly disgusted by the repeated efforts of the European Nations to make the United States a goat for their selfishness. And he was thoroughly tired and sick of listening to the pratings of diluted Americans so steeped in internationalism that they would traduce, demean and belittle their own country in their sycophantic regard for Europe.

Scuttling the Navy

Our Barrier Against Attack

Admiral Pratt said in his letter to the Boston meeting on international affairs that the Navy has been called upon to make the greatest sacrifices in the interest of peace and disarmament.

He is exactly right. And his statement must be regarded with singular significance in view of the fact that he alone of the naval experts espoused the Navy scuttling at London.

The Navy has been called upon to make atrocious and ridiculous sacrifices. Battleships are not the cause of war. If the people have the will to fight, they will go to it whether they are armed or not.

If armaments in themselves were the cause, why have not our superior statesmen devoted themselves to reducing the truculent army of France, for example, or prevented the development of the great Polish naval base in the Baltic, as another striking example?

If a navy were a cause of war, it were, in fact, only one of many causes. What about contests for trade and territory? What about nationalistic jealousies and racial animosities and religious antagonisms?

The simple fact is that a strong, influential Navy for which potential enemies have a wholesome respect because it can adequately defend a country from attack is the best protection against war. This is especially true of a Nation like the United States, which is rich, which is envied, which is peace loving and which has no desire to go to war because it does not selfishly seek the territory of others.

And it is that arm of America's defense, it is that barrier against the threat and possibility of war, that the superior statesmen have permitted to be weakened.

Christmas Savings Funds

Massachusetts Leads the Nation

In excess of $630,000,000 will be paid shortly to the 11,000,000 members of Christmas savings funds.

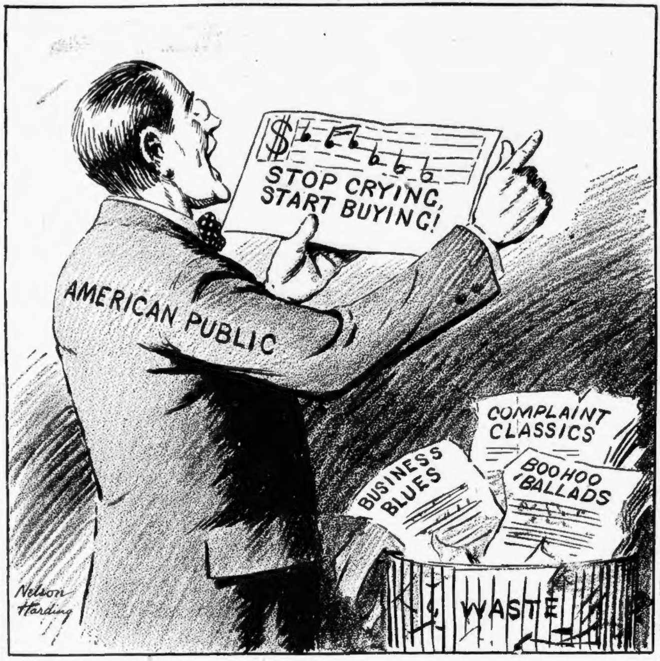
If America, in its period of prosperity, had not grown accustomed to stupendous figures in terms of money this sum now to be made available for special Christmas shopping would electrify the average mind. During the war a person who devised a scheme of saving the government a million dollars was pushed aside with the brusque remark, "Oh, tell it to the janitor."

But, in fact, $630,000,000 is an enormous sum. It is more than ten times what the State of Massachusetts spends in a year for all its government purposes. It is the largest Christmas saving on record. And it was accumulated by thrifty people in a year when adversity seemed to have the whole country upset.

Massachusetts leads the entire country in per capita deposits in mutual savings banks and she likewise leads all the States in the per capita average of Christmas savings funds. She will receive $70,000,000 out of this fund, an average of $17 for every man, women and child in the Commonwealth.

Obviously, this money comes at a time when its owners can spend it to the best advantage for themselves, with low prices and plentiful bargains. And they will be giving a substantial lift to our people in less fortunate circumstances than themselves.

$ING $OMETHING $IMPLE -:- By NELSON HARDING



Sing something simple
And not those complicated
Songs of vain regrets that now
Are useless and belated.

Sing songs of bargains
And of that silver lining
Of dollars that will purchase more
When prices are declining.

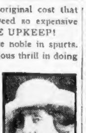
Listen, World! Upkeep

By ELSIE ROBINSON

The Expense of a Good Deed

IT ISN'T the original cost that makes a Good Deed so expensive . . . IT'S THE UPKEEP!

All of us can be noble in spurts. There's a tremendous thrill in doing a fine act . . . the world gives Generous Gestures a Big Hand. And while the thrill is new and the applause vigorous, we're 100 per cent for righteousness.



Elsie Robinson

But presently the applause lessens and the novelty dims. That act which yesterday was so dramatic, becomes today mere routine. And we realize that, having started to Be Noble, we're expected to go on—and on—and on—which is quite another matter! Then comes the strain. Can we live up to our magnificent preliminaries after they become an old story? Can we endure being unselfish and heroic after "the tumult and the shouting die" and the audience departs?

I'm thinking of a Good Deed I've recently seen started. Mary has taken her dead sister's baby to raise with her own little ones. "What a beautiful thing to do!" you say. That's what everyone is saying. All day long the neighbors are dropping in, with gifts for the new baby and praise for Mary. Pretty soon they won't drop in so often.

They'll begin to take Mary's good deed for granted. Now and then they'll speak of her . . . then go on to talk of something else. BUT MARY WILL HAVE TO GO ON LIVING WITH THAT GOOD DEED AND ITS EXPENSIVE CONSEQUENCES YEAR AFTER YEAR . . . and BELIEVE ME, IT WILL BE NO CINCH! For a good deed can demoralize a life as completely as a bad one. And righteousness will destroy your established peace and quiet as thoroughly as wickedness.

This comes as a bitter surprise to most of us. God, we think, should make things particularly cosy for those who do His will. But He doesn't. If you wish to share His glory He evidently expects you to go 50-50 on His grief. And that's all right—if you don't weaken. But, of course, you always do!

Why aren't good deeds as popular as they should be? This is why. IT'S HEAVENLY TO START THEM . . . BUT IT'S HELL TO SEE THEM THROUGH.

And that's the real test of character. Any lively spirit can be a sensational starter. It takes neither great courage nor phenomenal goodness to inaugurate a noble act. In fact, it's often a great relief to drop our regular chores and be an Onward-Christian-Soldier. BUT IT TAKES HEROIC GODLINESS TO HANG ON TO A GOOD DEED AND SEE IT THROUGH AFTER IT HAS CEASED TO BE FRONT PAGE NEWS!

Give the starters plenty of credit—they deserve it. But reserve your biggest tribute for the patient plodders who carry on where the starters leave off. They're the ones who prove what stuff is in humanity. THEY'RE THE ONES WHO ARE BUILDING CIVILIZATION.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

Diary of a Modern Pepys

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to walk, stopping to chat a moment with the barrister Nathan Burkan, who has one of the brightest minds I know, and to a tailor and did on a great coat, a displeasing job, too. Then to Welfare Island with Floyd Gibbons.

All afternoon alone, my wife and mother-in-law going to a matinee, and came two heavy blankets from Canada, the gift of the Courtney Ryley Coopers, nor can I hardly wait for a blizzard. So off in hotspur haste to the theater to walk across town in the lovely dusk with my family.

Tommy Millard to dinner and Earl Carroll dropped in for dessert and we drove to Minsky's burlesk for a brief stay where ladies, spare the blushes, disported naked and then driving through Chinatown. Later to the New Amsterdam to see the finale of Earl's show from the wings.

Performers never seem to tire of watching fellow players during a performance. They are always peeping, watching, occupying waiting time, getting an eyeful from the sidelines. And they often applaud with the gusto of the audience.

No place does one feel so in the way as a layman back stage at a theatrical performance. I found myself standing in a sandbox and again I reached out in the gloom to support myself against what I thought was a piece of scenery. It was a lady's bare shoulder. Finally in tip-toeing to a back exit, I yanked a strand of wire that blew out a fuse with a splutter. And a girl shrieked: "Jeez!"

* * *

Stage managers, directors and producers have a code by which they may discuss a chous girl applicant's charms or lack of them without embarrassing the lady. Thus if a stage manager says: "I am filing this lady as 03871-B!" it may mean her complexion is bad, figure just so-so, legs bowed, without personality, etc.

* * *

In a high priced revue, a fellow in flesh tights, giving appearance of being nude, and wearing a silk hat ambles into an upper box. After gasps die down, he explains:

"I had to hock my clothes to buy a ticket."

And a novel last night inspired a roll-out-of-bed whoop. A taxi driver was calming a nervous fare who begged him to slow down.

"I ain't killed a guy in three months," he comforted. "Then it was his fault. He was drunker than me."

Personal nomination for the most gracious smile in town—that of Mrs. Joseph A. Moore.

Automats provide lemonade free to the ingeniously thrifty. One may pick up several glasses from the ice tea counter, containing cracked ice and lemon slices. Squeeze out the lemons into one glass. Water, sugar and spoons are free and if they catch you, blame me. Automats are among the few institutions I don't owe a penny.

Why I prefer the news-reels: Shipwreck Kelly is shown about to unroost from his winning long distance flag pole sitting. He announces:

"I am about to come down as physical as I went up."

Fifth avenue has two yards. Those near Washington Square have been absorbed by apartment skyscrapers. The largest remaining surrounds the Andrew Carnegie home, a jungle of verdure enclosed by a high iron fence. The other fronts the home of the son of Thomas Fortune Ryan at 76th street. It is valued at $3,000,000.

* * *

All of which is received with lachrymose sentimentality by those brought up to believe a home is not a home without a front and back yard. But there is balm in the fact a plant near Jersey City turning out iron deer, dogs and other bibelots for lawns is carrying on.

* * *

And Charles M. Schwab's Riverside lawn still has the iron cast of the puddler.

From a news item:

"For ten days a dapper fellow who wore a rose in his lapel and kept taking a handkerchief from his cuff nervously to wipe his forehead, stood opposite my home. Finally I decided to go to the police."

He was just going to chase you, silly!

When You Build a House

You Build PROSPERITY

MASON

All right-minded men and women want to own their own homes. Nowhere else does life attain its fullest and most satisfactory development. Nowhere else can children be brought up amid the influences which make them good and useful citizens. Fortunate, indeed, is the family that lives under its own roof-tree, amid pleasant surroundings and congenial neighbors. Humble though such a home may be, it gives its possessors all the essentials of happiness.

Today you hear much of the business depression, so-called, yet for many families who have SAVED money in recent years, the depression is their first opportunity to own a home. Houses already built are cheaper, while if you contemplate building for yourself, the price of labor and material is far below the scale of a year ago. Today your dollar is worth nearly twice what it was in October, 1929. The power of your money, if you have any, is almost doubled.

CARPENTER

PAINTER

Building now, also, you help not only yourself but many others. Masons, carpenters, painters, plumbers—these little sketches show you a few. And bear in mind that when you build a house, you build PROSPERITY, since those whom you pay to build it are consumers, spending their money for goods that others—perhaps you—produce.

PLUMBER

THE NEW HOME

New construction, or needed repairs and improvements in homes already built, costs less now than it has for years. Those who can afford to build or repair now are assured of bargains. They can also help to lift the cloud from industry.

It needs lifting.

Postmen and Charity

Department Should Be Built Up

Mail carriers, postal clerks and all other employes of the postal service are ordered by Washington to contribute to community and civic funds for relieving the distress occasioned by unemployment.

They are to be solicited for such contributions as they can afford and, of course, everyone knows that this solicitation often amounts to duress.

The postal employes are a splendid body of public servants. They serve their constituencies in fair weather and foul. Their morale has remained unbroken for generations. It has sustained itself even against the incompetence of head officials at Washington who have too frequently employed the national Postoffice Department solely as a machine for paying off party political obligations of patronage.

A more effective contribution to the relief of unemployment would have been to expand the postal service, taking on the additional employes needed to enlarge the service and render it more effective, and to have awarded promptly the contracts for construction of new federal buildings instead of juggling them among favored contractors and politicians. There is time to do that now. Certainly, unemployment offers the occasion for it.

Words of the Wise Men

Human experience, like the sternlights of a ship at sea, illumines only the path which we have passed over. —Coleridge.

No definition, no supposition of any sect, are of force enough to destroy constant experience.—Locke.

Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy. —Emerson.

All is but lip-wisdom which wants experience. —Sidney.

Let nothing foul to either eye or ear reach those doors within which dwells a boy.—Juvenal.

In nature there's no blemish but the mind.
None can be called deformed but the unkind.
—Shakespeare.

The shortest answer is doing. —Herbert.

Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn. —Burns.
